GLENDALE'S NOVEMBER BUILDING OVER MILLION

Sewer Cost Under $1,600,000; To Benefit All San Fernando Valley

Our City comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

New Motor Vehicle Law Seems to be Generally Satisfactory

ALTHOUGH the new California motor vehicle act, commonly referred to as the Breed law, has been in operation less than three months the results obtained during that period have fully justified all claims made for it by its proponents.

There are some justices of the peace and police officers who are criticising this law, and refusing to enforce it, claiming that inasmuch as the law does not specifically set a speed limit there is no way to control excessive speed. Some of them also are against doing away with the speed traps and also dislike the provision which makes it compulsory for all funds collected from traffic law violations to be used for the upkeep of city streets and county highways.

* * *

THERE is absolutely no justfication for such persons taking this stand, for, regardless of their personal opinions on the effectiveness of the law, when they took their offices each of them swore to uphold the constitution and laws of the state of California. Criticising and denouncing any of them is far from living up to their oaths of office.

However, time has shown that most of the criticism was unjustified.

* * *

IT IS TRUE that the new traffic law does not set an arbitrary limit on speed. It does, however, demand that every individual driving a vehicle on a public highway do so carefully and at a prudent speed, no faster than is reasonable and proper, taking into account such considerations as the condition and width of the highway, congestion of traffic and any other conditions that would suggest slow driving; at no time driving at such a speed as to endanger life, limb or property.

* * *

IT IS TRUE that some communities will lose considerable income which they formerly collected from the motorist who was law-abiding in every way but through lack of knowledge of some local traffic regulation was haled before a judge and fined. As far as we can learn most of the opposition to the law originated on account of this loss of income rather than from any other reason, but the adverse advertising the towns received on account of these arbitrary fines more than took away any advantage accruing from the money collected.

* * *

ARRESTS may and are still made for speeding but such arrests are justified by the circumstances.

No longer can arrests be made with the sole view to the raising of revenue.

No longer are motorists required to buy new equipment for traffic officers or pay salaries through the way of fines.

No longer is an arbitrary speed limit the measure of a man's conduct.

* * *

IF a motorist endangers life, limb or property he can and should be arrested and punished. If he is fined the money collected goes towards the upkeep of the roads where, on account of the ever-increasing traffic it is needed and can be used to much benefit.

LOS FLEIZ ROAD ASSESSMENTS FOR ROAD PAVING

Property owners in Southern Glendale whose property is being advertised for sale because of the non-payment of assessments incurred in the improvement of Los Feliz road are urged by R. W. Chobe not to accede to the demands of Stedeman & Blanchard. Mr. Chobe, who lives at 2301 Sierra avenue, is president of the Los Feliz Tax Protective association.

"All cases are still pending before Judge W. M. York in department 15 of the superior court, Attorney G. H. Wende of 106-A East Broadway represents the defendants," stated Mr. Chobe. "I attended court yesterday and this morning and I am in a position to urge those interested not to pay the exorbitant and unjust amount asked by this firm of assessment buyers, which is doing all in its power to frighten its victims. Cases have been continued until 9 a. m. Monday."

BIG SEWER TO COST UNDER $1,600,000

All San Fernando Valley Eventually Will Benefit

Glendale's proposed sewer system will cost less than $1,600,000.

This fact was announced by Mayor Spencer Robinson last night in the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse at the banquet under the auspices of the Associated Chamberes of Commerce of the San Fernando valley.

"Glendale a few years ago could get along with cesspools," he asserted. "We find now that this is impossible."

The revenue from the bond issue will provide not only for the 48 and 54 inch trunk line but also for eighteen miles of sewer lines within the city of Glendale.

The increased taxation because of the passage of the bond issue the first year will amount to only 30 cents and during the second year 24 cents on every hundred dollars of assessed valuation according to Councilman Asa Hall, tax expert of the city administration.

Because of the necessity of assuming the bonded indebtedness of Los Angeles should we annex Mr. Hall is confident that annexation would increase the local tax rate about 24 cents over the proposed rate, after the bonds have been approved, and without giving Glendale any sewer system.

The board of supervisors, through Supervisor Henry W. Wright of South Pasadena, last night pledged Glendale every assistance in securing a sewer system. Further support of nearby communities was pledged by B. R. Holloway of Van Nuys, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the San Fernando valley.

The election has been definitely set for January 8. This means that every citizen who has the welfare of this community at heart will see that he is properly registered before December 8.

The Chamber of Commerce campaign committee will meet tonight at 7:30 in the lobby of the Chamber of Commerce. W. E. Hewitt, the chairman. Other members are: George H. Bentley, W. A. Goss, Charles B. Guthrie, Peter Hanson, George B. Karr, William Griffin, Mattison B. Jones, Mrs. Ella W. Richardson, T. W. Watson, Dr. Henry R. Harrower, C. D. Lusby, A. W. Tower, Peter L. Ferry, W. L. Twining, Alex Mitchell, Mrs. E. B. Moore, Mrs. Dan Campbell and Mrs. William P. MacMullin.

MAYOR'S FINAL REPORT ON THE BENEFIT FUND

Total of $4543.20 Was Received From All Sources

Mayor Spencer Robinson's final report as chairman of the fire relief benefit entertainment committee is as follows:

"On October 8 Community Service appointed me as chairman of a general committee to put on an entertainment to raise funds for the families of Clarence Edwards and Joseph McGahan, the two men who lost their lives in our terrible forest fire.

"Through the untiring efforts of the program and ticket committees and the generous support of the whole city we have a total of $4543.20. This is now deposited in the name of your treasurer, Herman Nelson, and we take pleasure in turning it over to your committee to be dispensed to the two families in the manner that the conditions, in your judgment, dictate.

"I am sure that I voice the sentiment of my committees and of Community Service, when I say that it has been an honor and a pleasure to have played a part in this splendid exhibition of Glendale's generosity to such a worthy cause."

LISTEN! HERE'S THE SECRET OF THAT INVISIBLE PULL

Circulation is something that the average person hears about but never sees. The only way he gets in touch with it in any way is with the results he gets from the advertisements he places with any particular advertising medium.

Daily the Press receives flattering accounts of unusual results received from advertisements, both classified and display, that appear in this paper. It is either a question of "Take that ad out—I rented that house within an hour after the paper was on the street," or "Kindly run that advertisement again. I received more than a dozen replies to the first publication of that liner. Your classified surely does pull."

This invisible "pull" comes naturally as a result of circulation. Without said circulation the results cannot be obtained. When Paper No. 1 prints and circulates to paid subscribers twice the papers distributed by Paper No. 2, the "pull" of Paper No. 1 is certain to be far in excess of that of Paper No. 2.

That is the situation in this section.

The Daily Press' present paid circulation is 7300.

That's the secret of the "pull."

GLENDALE ROTARIANS NEAR PERFECT

Atendance Record For October Was 99.3 Per Cent

At the regular noon-day meeting of the Glendale Rotary club held at the Egyptian Village cafe today a letter was read from International Rotary club announcing the results of the October attendance, which gave thirteen clubs as being tied for first place. Glendale Rotary club stood fourth with a percentage of 99.3. The program for the day was in charge of George U. Moyse, principal of Glendale Union High school, and Dick White, superintendent of city schools. This included numbers by the high school girls' glee club.

Ed Phillips thanked the club for a birthday remembrance, a rosebud in a rose vase. A meeting of those interested in the Boy Scout camp at Haynes canyon was called for Monday by Roy Kent. On behalfo of the Glendale Elks' club an invitation was extended by Bill Hunter for all to attend the Elks' Memorial services to be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Elks' club house.

Among the visiting Rotarians present were William H. Knox, Phoenix, Ariz.; P. C. Schooley, Fort Smith, Arkansas; Byron Badham, Los Angeles; Hervey I. Nichols, Fred R. Lewis and J. C. Crawford of Burbank. Dick White called attention to a bazaar to be given at the High school tonight to raise funds for purchasing books for a library for the crippled children of Glendale.

Ernest Ford was called on for the weekly talk on Rotary education and responded with a very inspirational address. The following committees were announced by President George Karr: For proposed dinner-dance, Bill Tanner, Val Hollister, J. I. Wernette, Art Htuchinson and Tom Watson, reception committee for December, Warren Newton, Paul Stillman, Bill Hunter, Jim Rhoades and Tom Watson.

Ed Hewitt was called on for a short talk regarding the proposed sewer, advising that the approximate cost would be $1,600,000.

An invitation was extended to the members by George Moyse to attend the football game to be played next Saturday at Occidental field when Glendale High plays Santa Monica in a semi-final for the championship of Southern California.

Mr. Thurston, executive secretary of the Southern California section of the State Teachers' Association, gave an educational address. He was to have been the speaker at the club during education week, but on account of the Community chest drive the talk was postponed until today.

THE PRESIDENT ISSUES ANNUAL PROCLAMATION

Calls Upon All to Give Thanks to the Giver of All Good

American presidents in the past have been Christian men. They have been men who looked for wisdom and judgment to God, and who relied especially in times of stress on the leadings of an Almighty power. From Washington down through the years the leaders of this nation, including our late and beloved executive, Warren G. Harding, have been God-fearing men.

Such a leader is Calvin Coolidge. Realizing as does none other in the nation that the leader of a people the size of this must have the advice and leading of a power that is all-wise and never-failing, President Coolidge relies absolutely on the One who is not of this world.

President Coolidge has a keen insight into the weaknesses of himself and his fellow men. He knows how to make allowances when mistakes are made and knows when and how to offer advice. He aims to impart to those who are associated with him the "leadings" that are handed down to him by the Almighty Being.

In the Thanksgiving proclamation our president calls attention to the fact that ours is a much-favored nation and reminds us that Thanksgiving day is the season when the millions of hearts in this great land should be lifted in gratitude to God for the blessings of the past year, and imploring Him that his favor may continue to shine upon us. He asks that we lay aside everything bordering on frivolity and look above in thanksgiving and supplication.

President Coolidge's Thanksgiv-

CITY ATTORNEY RESIGNS; KIRK IS APPOINTED

Meeting of the Burbank board of trustees opened at 6:30 p. m. and the minutes of the last meeting read and approved. A petition for the paving of Buena Vista avenue from Jeffries to Magnolia, signed by property owners, was received. It was moved and seconded that the said petition be referred to the city engineer for preparation and report.

A communication from the Union Oil company was presented to the board in which the company applied for a franchise and privilege to construct a standard gauge spur track along and across Front street. Request was granted.

Moved and seconded that maps for tracts Nos. 7897, 7775, 7926, 7819, 78118 and 7734 be approved and accepted. It was then the time and place for the hearing of protests of assessment for Grismer avenue. No protests. Time and place for the hearing of protests for the proposed improvement of Alameda avenue north of Tenth street; none. Moved and seconded that proposed ordinance No. 225 be read for the second time. Adopted. Also that proposed ordinance No. 222 be read for the second time. Adopted.

It was moved and seconded that the city make no more water extensions in new subdivisions until provision is made for the installation of water mains to the satisfaction of the city engineer.

The resignation of Lester R. Godward, city attorney, was submitted. It was moved and seconded that the same be accepted and that a resolution of appreciation for the services rendered by Mr. Godward be extended to him.

It was also moved and seconded that E. E. Kirk be appointed city attorney as successor to Mr. Godward. Carried.

It was decided by the board that they meet Saturday afternoon and drive to Eleventh street in order to check up and go over the proposed extension of said street west of Olive avenue.

It was moved and seconded that all bills be allowed and warrants drawn from the necessary funds for payment. Carried.

Board adjourned to meet again on Wednesday night, 7:30.

W. C. CAMERON OF GLENDALE IS KILLED

He and Charles O'Connor Were In Truck Hit By S. P. Engine

Another life was claimed yesterday near Roscoe in another grade crossing accident.

W. C. Cameron of 1677 Ardmore avenue, Glendale, died about 9 o'clock last night at the Cottage hospital, Burbank, from injuries received in the accident. His companion, Charles O'Connor, of 121 East Cypress street had several ribs broken and received bruises and cuts about the head. He is now a patient at the Glendale sanitarium hospital.

The accident occurred at the Tujunga crossing of the Southern Pacific about 8 o'clock. The two men were bringing a truck load of chickens back to Glendale. It is believed they either did not see the train coming or else that their machine stalled on the track. The truck was turned upside down and completely wrecked.

The train, which was southbound, consisted of a locomotive, a couple of freight cars and a caboose. It was returning from some right-of-way maintenance work. The engineer was unable to stop the train until it had gone some distance past the scene of the crash.

The body of Mr. Cameron is now at the mortuary of Kiefer& Eyerick. Coroner William A. Nance has not yet set the time for the inquest.

Those arriving on the scene shortly after the accident included Rev. R. W. Parmele of 1460 East California avenue and his brother, L. C. Parmele of San Fernando, M. G. Williams of 3310 Verdugo road, Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Beaudars of Alhambra.

LECTURE ON LIQUID AIR AT OCCIDENTAL

At the meeting of the Pi Epsilon engineering fraternity which was held in the physics laboratory of Occidental College last night, the main speech of the evening was given by Professor Watson of Caltech, who was introduced by Dr. Shedd, head of the Occidental physics department. Professor Watson is in the physics department of Caltech and is ranked as one of the leading scientists of his profession.

His first subject was the cooling off of the earth, and a few minutes were spent in describing this process, which the astronomers tell us will make a very cool place to live in within the next few million years. We think of absolute temperature as being 273 degrees Centigrade below zero. The investigations which accompany these researches are not usually done by those who are personally interested.

Mixing salt with chipped ice is the most common method of lowering the temperature. Fifty-five degrees below zero can be obtained by using calcium chloride with the ice, which is sufficient to freeze mercury. Here a demonstration of freezing water was given by causing a rapid evaporation of water, using sulphuric acid to take up the moisture.

By rapidly evaporating liquid carbon dioxide we can get snow. This experiment has been done in many High school laboratories. Air, under ordinary conditions, will not liquify. Liquid air was first formed by sudden expansion. The reason air cannot be liquified is because the critical temperatures of the elements have to be lowered before pressure can be applied sufficient to produce a liquid state. The temperature of liquid air is 190 degrees below zero. The first method was by using methyl chloride to help reduce the critical temperature.

This is done by compressing the air to 3000 pounds per square inch and running it through several coils which are surrounded by water. The coils can be either double or single spaced inside. The air keeps rising and falling until it gets so cold that it becomes a liquid. When hydrogen was first made it was found that it became

BIGGEST CROWDS EVER AT THE T. D. & L. THEATRE. READ WHY

"Biggest crowds we have ever experienced."

After giving expression to this enthusiastic remark, Mr. Albright, manager of the T. D. and L. theater of Glendale, went on:

"We are having the biggest run of business this theater has ever known. Practically every night we are showing to full houses and we really do not need anything in the way of a "special attraction." If the crowds get much larger we will have to push the rear of the building over onto Orange street.

"We attribute this increased patronage to two things—the excellent character of pictures we are showing and the advertising that we are doing in the Daily Press. The fact that our patrons are coming from Burbank, Eagle Rock, Montrose and other points around demonstrate that the Daily Press ads have a tremendous pulling power. We thank the Daily Press for the part it is playing in the success of the T. D. and L. theater of Glendale."

Incidentally it might be mentioned that the Glendale T. D. and L. theater advertises exclusively in the Daily Press.

ASSOCIATED CHAMBERS IN BIG BANQUET

San Fernando Valley Boosters Get Together For Good of All

The spirit of friendship and cooperation between Glendale and nearby communities was further cemented last night in the Tuesday Afternoon club house at a banquet under the auspices of the Glendale chamber of commerce in honor of the directors of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the San Fernando Valley.

Appreciation of the assistance given by communities in the San Fernando valley in helping Glendale secure a sewer contract with Los Angeles was voiced by Mayor Spencer Robinson.

Supervisor Henry W. Wright of South Pasadena stressed the importance of the work of the county planning commission.

"We are trying to obliterate grade crossings," he remarked. "We have too many of them. I believe it would be better to drive half a mile further than to have so many dangerous crossings.

"The San Fernando valley grows beyond our most sanguine imagination. We can't keep up with the growth of the county. We of the board of supervisors welcome your cooperation and we pledge you our support in every movement which will make for a better San Fernando valley."

B. R. Holloway of Van Nuys, member of the county planning commission, presided at the business meeting which followed the banquet. He is president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the San Fernando Valley.

In a short after-dinner speech, Mr. Holloway reminded those present that it has not been very long since Glendale was an agricultural DID THEY PAY FOR THE SHIP ALL IN MARKS?

[By Associated Press]

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The world's largest freight ship, the Minnesota, idle since her transport service in the war, has been sold to the German merchant marine, it was announced today. A tug is now crossing the Atlantic to return with the freighter to Germany.

The Minnesota and her sister ship, the Dakota, were built at Groton, Conn., for the late James J. Hill for trans-Pacific service. The Dakota was lost before the war when she piled up on a rocky Pacific shoal. Since the war the Minnesota has been tied up at various local docks. Shipping men said her great size prevented them from taking her over.

MONTH'S TOTAL IN BUILDING OVER MILLION

Little Doubt That Year Will Show More Than Ten Millions

November building permits today went over the million dollar mark by almost $93,000.

With the record for the year to date already $9,207,759, H. C. Vandewater, superintendent of the building department, is confident that the year's total will exceed ten million dollars.

Over $106,503 worth of building permits were issued today at the city hall. Of this sum $81,000 worth of permits were issued to contractor Elmer Elliott. Yesterday's total was over $41,000.

Mittery, 6 rooms and garage, 542 Howard, $4,600; Hayward and McCartney, 5 rooms and garage, 547 West Dryden, $3,500; Mabel Ahl, remodeling, 1235 Linden, Contractor William Hanson, $100; K. A. Netzel, 6 rooms and garage, 572 Wing, $3,500; Roy R. Gallup, garage, 1041 Allen, $500; Grace Gardner, 2 rooms, 2133 Alpha, $800.

VERY MODEST IN DEMAND WAS BANDIT

[By Associated Press]

LONG BEACH. Nov. 28.—A lone bandit this afternoon at 1:20 held up and robbed the Pike branch of the Pacific Southwest bank here of $500.

The bandit, with an automatic revolver concealed from the view of spectators but leveled at D. T. Pilchard, assistant cashier, handed the latter a note reading: "I will shoot you if you yell, hand me over $500."

Pilchard took out a package of bills, containing the $500 and handed it to the bandit who walked slowly from the building and disappeared in the crowds on the Pike before Pilchard could give any warning.

Manager J. E. Sergel of the bank said the bandit got away with nearly $2000, having scooped up a large amount of money from the cashier's window in addition to the package of $500 handed him by the assistant cashier.

BANK MESSENGER ROBBED

SEATTLE Wash.,—Although the police have spread a dragnet around the city, patrolled all highways and combed Seattle, no trace of seven heavily armed bandits, who held up and robbed two Bank of California messengers of $20,000 worth of negotiable bonds at the intersection of two streets in the heart of the business district at 5:50 p. m., yesterday, has been found.

GLENDALE C. C. DIRECTORS ARE ANNOUNCED

All Six Are New Men to the Office and Will Add Pep

Only one-third of the membership participated in the election of the chamber of commerce.

Although over 900 members of this organization had the privilege of voting, only 306 of them took advantage of this prerogative.

The identity of the six newly elected directors was disclosed by J. Herbert Smith, chairman of the election committee, last night in the Tuesday Afternoon club house at the banquet in honor of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the San Fernando valley.

Delos H. Smith of 302 North Maryland street is manager of the establishment at 106 North Brand boulevard known as the Brand Boulevard branch of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings bank.

C. W. Ingledue of 501 East Wilson avenue maintains a real estate office at 632 East Broadway. He is president of the Glendale Advancement association.

George B. Karr of 1150 North Louise street is manager for the local branch at 1725 South Brand boulevard of the Baldwin Shirt company. He has been an active member of the civics committee of the chamber of commerce.

Harry MacBain of 614 East Lomita avenue is manager of the grocery at 632 East Broadway operated under the name of the Glendale market.

Lyman P. Clark is local agent for the Maxwell. His agency at 124 West Colorado street is operated under the name of the Glendale Motor Car company.

Fred Deal of 237 North Louise street is district manager for the Southern California Telephone company.

Directors who remain in office are W. E. Hewitt, A. R. Eastman, P. J. Hayselden, George Bentley, R. F. Kitterman and E. C. Pendroy. Two directors will be appointed.

MEMORIAL FOR MISS UZELLE AT OXY

The Memorial service for Miss Ida Uzelle, popular member of last year's graduating class, who was killed a few days ago at Maricopa in an automobile accident, was held in the Occidental College Chapel yesterday morning. The service opened with a talk by Dean Myers in which she said: "The god of speed has exacted a fearful toll from the young womanhood of Occidental during the last two years; and as upon the old pagan altars, the Virgins who were sacrificed were without spot or blemish, so of us also, our God has exacted our best. Ida Uzelle was a peculiarly beautiful girl, vivid in her coloring, gracious in her charm. She was also beautiful in her personality, radiating her joy and cheer wherever she went. Those of us who came into close association with her knew her as loyal to every duty and as helpful in every relation. She was peculiarly devoted to her brother. They dreamed the same dreams, saw the same visions and planned their life together. They were closer to one another than brother and sister usually are. With them both, perhaps, life was still one great adventure, and Ida faced it fearlessly. Life had not all been easy. She had been self supporting, and when in her last college year it seemed she would have to quit college, it was Mrs. Orr who came forward and made it possibe for her to continue. Who knows how much influence this association may have had in binding the interest of Mr. and Mrs. Orr to the women of Occidental College.

"Just as fearlessly and joyously as Ida faced life, just so would she have left her message of fearlessness, I am sure, to those of us here who knew and loved her."

Dean Burt, Harold Wagoner, and the president of the associated women students then gave brief testimonies to the lovely character and personality of Miss Uzelle. The students were then dismissed.

WEATHER

Southern California: Fair tonight and Thursday; moderate northeasterly winds.

FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS GIVEN AWAY BY PRESS

You May Win $10, $5 or $2 a Week by Using Your Brains

Five hundred dollars is being given away absolutely free by the Daily Press in the advertising of goods made in Southern California. The rules of this contest are simple, and everyone is eligible to compete except employees of this paper and their families. There are no strings tied to it, and the contestants are under absolutely no obligations. Here are the rules:

Every week there is a half page ad run in these columns, in which there are several smaller ads, four of which contain one mis-spelled word each. All you have to do is find the mis-spelled word, and mail or bring it to this office, together with a letter of not more than fifty words, stating why goods made in Southern California should be used. The best letter each week receives a prize of $10, the second best receives $5, the third $3, and the fourth prize is $2. Prizes will be mailed during the week following publication. As before stated, anyone can enter, so get busy and send in your letter. All letters must be in not later than three days after the publication of this advertisement.

LA CRESCENTA NOTES

Harvey S. Bissell, president of the Los Angeles county farm bureau, advises the irrigation of all fruit trees. Mr. Bissell states that on account of the very dry fall, all trees are suffering from insufficient moisture. The trees are now putting forth their buds for next year's fruit and if not irrigated at this time, the fruit, if any, will be small and inferior.

That gas has been connected with the community church and the school building and many homes, is certainly good news to all residents of La Crescenta. The bringing of gas to La Crescenta at this time is largely due to the public utility committee of the La Crescenta Improvement association and particularly to the persistency of C. E. Culberson, the president of that organization, who has given this matter his personal attention for the past year.

A half hour of community singing, lead by J. Rapson, an experienced community sing leader, is the announcement made for next Wednesday evening's Thanksgiving services at the community church, by Rev. H. A. Kelso, pastor. A cordial invitation is extended to all residents of the La Crescenta valley for these services.

Little Mary Lee Brown of Glendale was the guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Brown of South Los Angeles avenue, for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ohrmond and children of Pasadena were guests of H. A. Baldridge last Sunday.

The entertainment committee of the La Crescenta Improvement association announces one of their popular dances for Saturday evening, December 1 at the school auditorium, the proceeds to be used for the fire equipment fund. Fletcher's orchestra of Pasadena will furnish the music.

The ladies of the guild of St. Luke of the Mountains Episcopal church are planning a high tea and bazaar for Thursday afternoon, December 6 at Cuddle Doon, 323 Rosemont avenue, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Thomas. A cordial invitation to all residents of the La Crescenta valley and their friends is extended. Any donations of jellies, candies and fancy work will be appreciated, which can be sent to the library to Mrs. M. B. Darrow, the La Crescenta pharmacy for Mrs. E. Bennett, Miss Gertrude Drennen, La Crescenta hotel or Mrs. C. E. Culberson.

MONTROSE NOTES

In order that everything will go off perfectly on the evening when the school children give their Christmas entertainment, students and teachers are already at work practicing for their various parts on the program. Pupils of the Montrose school will play an interesting part in the entertainment which will take place on the evening of Tuesday, December 18. The younger grades will present a delightful little playlet, "The Toy Shop." There will be songs, a dramatic presentation and other numbers.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jennings are recent arrivals here. Mr. Jennings is a building contractor and he plans to go into business in Montrose within the near future. The Jennings will make their home on Honolulu avenue.

Mrs. E. H. Thomas, a bride of a few weeks, is spending the week with her parents at Long Beach. The Thomases reside just north of Montrose.

F. Lloyd of Montrose will motor to San Diego Wednesday to spend Thanksgiving with friends. He will return Sunday evening.

EDITORIALS BY THE PEOPLE

My dear Captain Watson:

Permit me to compliment you for your part so admirably performed in aiding in the observance of American Education week. In your initial issue of the week you gave space to three notable papers, President Coolidge's proclamation, the proclamation of Mayor Robinson and the paper on "Relation Between Home and School," by Mrs. Eustace B. Moore.

President Coolidge's proclamation was characteristic of the man and pregnant with material that requires rumination. Mayor Robinson's proclamation was admirable and set forth the objects to be sought by observance of Education Week in a clear and forceful manner. Mrs. Moore's paper was a gem in both literary style and substance. These three papers were splendid "curtain raisers" for Education Week, the credit for the origin of which belongs to the American Legion.

During the week there was a full program in which many children also had a conspicuous and altogether creditable part, all of which was generously reported in your esteemed paper.

The entire week's program was admirably arranged and with one exception there was no discordant note, nor introduction of anything of a controversial nature. Perhaps it was too much to expect that a program even with such high purpose could be carried through without opportunity being seized to inject into it political propaganda in the usual insidious manner of a "defense of education." I refer regretfully to the paper by Supt. Richardson D. White published at page 9 in your issue of Nov. 23, under the caption, "Some Current Criticisms of Our Public School. Are They Justified?"

In his prefatory paragraphs the esteemed superintendent admits that some of the criticism has "come from high places," such as the presidents of Brown university and Amherst college and "other men connected with old conservative institutions," whom he alleges to have said "the American people cannot afford the burden of the public schools." Then he follows immediately with the declaration, "Even the governor of the state of California has come out with the same kind of criticism," but generously adds that "some of it may be just." And thus, insidiously, the political propaganda of the state superintendent of public instruction, Will C. Wood, was injected into the Education Week program in Glendale—as no doubt it was in other communities where his politico-educational organization has its ramifications and there are able and willing political lieutenants.

I have never seen elsewhere the statement accredited by Mr. White to the presidents of Brown and Amherst and "other men connected with old and conservative institutions," but no doubt he can readily verify his statement by citing his authority or giving verbatim quotations with proper textual connections. However, when he avers that Governor Richardson "has come out with the same kind of criticism," to-wit: "that the American people cannot afford the burden of the public schools," I challenge both the accuracy of his statement and the justification for it and while I hold no brief for the governor in the controversy which State Superintendent Wood has tried to manipulate to make it appear that he (the governor) is antagonistic to the public schools (instead of the wasteful management of the state department of education), and hostile to the cause of education in general, I challenge Superintendent White to produce the evidence for the verification of the literal or substantial accuracy of his statement.

Meantime, with your permission I shall presume in an early issue of the Press to discuss some points in Superintendent White's answers to the alleged criticisms which he essayed to do "one by one," in the remaining portions of his contribution to which I have herein invited attention to two statements in his prefatory paragraphs. I shall offer my observations for publication because, for several reasons, the present seems to be an opportune time to do so inasmuch as (1) Superintendent White said in his article already referred to that "all teachers, educators and people interested in educational welfare welcome constructive criticism and are more than willing to receive it and profit by it;" (2) that following the week of intensive promotion of education is a good time to "follow up" the good cause and keep up interest in it; and (3) there is now no bond issue or other acute question of taxation before the local public to distract attention from the merits of a discussion which is invariably barred (I shall not say improperly) by a point of order raised against it in all "meetings" of the local public called for the specific purpose of approving a program of taxation.

The foregoing reasons I assume are adequate justfication, if any is required, of my intrusion into a discussion which is surely of no small degree of importance to the citizens of Glendale whether or not they are taxpayers, patrons of our schools, or merely residents without impedimenta.

R. S. PERSON.

Nov. 26, 1923.
Glendale, Calif.

Judge F. H. Lowe of Patterson avenue has so far recovered from the operation for appendicitis he underwent several weeks ago as to be able to walk out for a short distance daily. He is not very strong, however, and will have a quiet Thanksgiving at home with Mrs. Lowe.

BURBANK NOTES

Forty-two cases were on the calendar for hearing and trial yesterday afternoon, but a great many of those notified did not put in an appearance, so warrants have been issued for them. Those who appeared and plead guilty to the various traffice violations were A. A. Johnson, fined $10; B. R. Young, $10; G. Lockridge, $10; M. H. Squier, $10; W. Glenn, $15; C. H. Griffix, $20; W. R. Clark, $10; T. Simada, $5; H. J. Everson, $15; W. M. Williams, $10; J. B. Stamper, $15. Bail was forfeited by W. Miller, $15; R. O. Lovell, $10; C. E. Snodgrass, $30; Tom Gleason, $20; N. L. Cohen, $20; H. F. Lovell, $20; E. H. Elmore, $20. C. C. Crigett received a suspended sentence, much to his evident relief. H. Raymond pleaded not guilty to a charge of speeding and demanded a jury trial, which was granted him and his case was set for 2 p. m.

The Woman's club held its regular business meeting in the club rooms Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with a program at 3. Margaret Woods opened the program with a piano solo, which was beautifully rendered; Miss Harriett Valentine sang a solo, which displayed to great advantage her beautiful lilting voice, and also gave a violin solo; Mrs. H. J. Valentine sang in her usual pleasing manner and Mrs. Oliver Bainbridge gave a most instructing and educational address on India, for which she was dressed in the costume of the native women. In her talk she dwelt on the customs of India, the women's dress and mannerisms, which was very interesting and thoroughly enjoyed by the club women. A large number of jars of fruit, jellies and jams were brought as an offering to be sent to the Children's Hospital in Los Angeles. Just one of the many examples of the wonderful work that the women are doing.

The following building permits were issued yesterday: Ira Conrad, Verdugo avenue, garage house, $200; A. S. and H. E. Mainke, Edgemont park, 3-room dwelling, $400; H. M. Overton, Valencia par, 3 room dwelling, $1400; F. H. Weber, Magnolia avenue, addition, $1000; R. C. Harding, Cypress avenue, garage, $150; C. C. Corwin, 1057 Orange Grove, double garage, $300.

SOPHOMORES MEET FRESHMEN IN BIG DEBATE

Although long-planned and many times postponed, the Sophomore-Freshmen debate of Glendale High school is at last to become a reality. Although the date is not definitely decided, the big affair will come off as soon after the Christmas holidays as possible, probably before the midyear grades come out. The question has not yet been definitely decided but will be chosen at some date in the near future. It will probably be on some question of local or school interest rather than a political question such as was used for the Junior-Senior debate. The Forum club has several questions under discussion and will select one very soon. One which they are favoring is the subject of a student court, which could not help but be an exciting question.

It will be quite a problem to select the teams, since few of the Freshmen have had a chance to display their forensic ability. Perhaps try-outs will be held, although this is rather unlikely as the time is so short. At any rate, this is a remarkable chance for the contestants and it ought to bring out the good material if anything would, for the underclassmen are noted for their wonderful spirit and pep.

Judges will be chosen as soon as possible after the question is decided and of course they will be absolutely unbiased, fair, and square.

Miss Corry, debating coach, is in charge of the affair, which insures a peppy question and able handling.

Everyone knows how interesting the Junior-Senior debate was and what a large and enthusiastic audience turned out. This is ample proof that no one who can help it will miss the Soph-Frosh debate, and the superior numbers of these lower classes aught to make them pack the auditorium to overflowing.

Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Thom, their son Livingston, and a couple of his chums, their daughter Virginia and two of her friends are leaving Wednesday afternoon for their mountain cabin at Horse Shoe Bend near Arrowhead lake in the San Bernardino mountains. They have no fears about the weather. If snowed in they will be snug and warm with a year's supply of wood in store, and the larder stocked with supplies sufficient for six months. Of course all the fixing for a real old fashioned Thanksgiving dinner will go with them, turkeys, chickens, pies, etc., and they are looking forward to a grand time hiking in the mountains by day, with perhaps a frolic in the snow, and gathering around a big fireplace in the evening, with a fine polished floor inviting them to dance and plenty of victrola music. They will spend the week end and possibly motor over to Big Bear during their stay.

Mrs. W. C. Whedon of San Francisco is spending the Thanksgiving holidays with her sister, Mrs. Charles B. Guthrie of 1641 Grand View.

Events of Interest to Glendale and Its People

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Logan will be dinner guests on Thanksgiving of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Logan of Casa Verdugo.

Mrs. G. A. Boynton of Rialto has returned to her home after a week's visit with Mrs. J. R. Maxwell of 202 West Park avenue.

Mrs. Alice Myers and Miss Nell Meyers of Los Angeles were luncheon guests recently of Mrs. F. L. Hollingsworth of 462 Riverdale drive.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Preston of 330 North Jackson street are Thanksgiving dinner guests today of Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson of Chestnut street.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Hollingsworth, Mrs. Mae Rosenberg and children of 462 Riverdale drive are Thanksgiving dinner guests of Mrs. Lawson Raley of Burbank.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Lockwood of 725 North Louise street, will spend Thanksgiving with Mrs. Lockwood's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. Lingenberg, of Lafayette square, Los Angeles.

Mrs. E. C. Hurlbert of 349 West Park is expecting her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Braasch of Portland, Ore., to be with her Thanksgiving, and to spend the winter here.

Thanksgiving guests at a family dinner party being held today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Brummel of 415 West Wilson avenue include Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Franz and family of Los Angeles and Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Perry of Los Angeles.

H. G. MacBain, the grocer, and his family are leaving Wednesday night for Santa Paula, where there will be a Thanksgiving reunion of members of his family at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom MacBain. The party will include besides the Glendale guests Mr. and Mrs. Ed La Grange, Mrs. Wulff and the host and hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Clark of 346 North Louise will be host and hostess at a small dinner party on Thanksgiving Day when they will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Milton Jones and Mr. and Mrs. John F. Martin of Los Angeles. The dinner will be followed by a social afternoon and evening. Mr. Clark has returned from a business trip to San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McGillis of 1003 East Lomita will entertain a number of guests for Thanksgiving. The guests will be Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Manson and daughter Lucile; Reeder Manning of San Diego; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Manson, Dr. and Mrs. J. Harvey Moore of Lynwood and Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. McGillis.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Putnam of 424 North Glendale avenue have returned from a three days' cruise to Johnson's Cove, Catalina island. They entertained a party of six on the trip, which was aboard Mr. Putnam's yacht, "The Mildura," leaving from the Newport Yacht club. On Tuesday of this week Mrs. Putnam was a guest at a bridge luncheon given at St. Ann's Inn, Santa Ana.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Wyman and son of 1325 North Maryland avenue returned Tuesday from a week-end visit to Oakland and San Francisco. They took special interest in attending the Stanford-U. C. game, as their daughter Frances is attending Stanford. Mr. Wyman was one of 30 building material dealers who went up to organize a state association of the dealers. For seven years Mr. Wyman was president of the Los Angeles Building Material Dealers' association.

At the home of Mayor and Mrs. Spencer Robinson on Windsor road, a simple Thanksgiving dinner will be served at mid-day at which covers will be laid for two special guest, Miss Mary Wilson of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Anna Herold of Seattle. At night they will be joined by relatives for an evening of music and sociability, the group including Mr. and Mrs. Leon Sonntag and family, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Peterson and family, and Mrs. Lena Funkhouser, mother of the hostess.

PAST MASTERS' NIGHT AT MASONIC BLUE LODGE

Tuesday evening was Past Masters' night at Unity lodge No. 368 of which Harmon A. Strong is master, but on this occasion his chair was occupied by Past Master C. W. McFadden and the various stations were filled by other past masters, viz: George U. Moyse, Arthur Campbell, Ernest Morgan, William Nash, Jr., Don Erskine and Dwight Stephenson. The third degree was conferred upon Hugh Merriam.

It was also visiting night for Pyramid No. 39, Glendale Sciots, who presented themselves 100 strong, led by Toparch Bennett, and parked the hall as it probably never was parked before.

At the close of the regular meeting a wonderful supper was served in the banquet hall to members and guests and speeches were made by Senior Warden Van Why, by Toparch Dibbern and others, and a song program was contributed by Keaumoku Lewis.

Mrs. J. G. Huntley and daughter Virginia will be Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Evans of North Orange street.

Mrs. E. S. McKee of 130 West Chestnut is planning a family reunion for Thanksgiving, with her mother, Mrs. Plannett, who is 88 years of age, as guest of honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Smith of 519 North Maryland avenue will entertain as guests at dinner on Thanksgiving Day Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. John Hobbs.

Mrs Armour and daughter of Redlands and Miss Katherine Humiston of Los Angeles will spend Thanksgiving as the guests of Mrs. Mary Ruprecht of 1847 Gardena avenue.

Mrs. E. W. Kinney and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Leighton and family of West Elk will motor to Riverdale on Thanksgiving Day and dine at the Mission Inn, returning the same night.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marple and son will be Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Andrews at Wilmington. The party will include W. B. Riggs, father of Mrs. Marple, and Mr. and Mrs. David C. Brown of Reseda.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Pearson and baby and Mr. and Mrs. Rex Thompson left today for the Imperial valley to be the guests for Thanksgiving and the week-end of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Pearson of Brawley.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kent of 107 Arden avenue are entertaining with a Thanksgiving dinner and family reunion tomorrow at which covers will be laid for Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Kent and family, Mr. Metzenbuagh and daughter Irene, Mrs. Evelyn West and two children.

Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Aston of 207 North Orange street are entertaining with a family dinner party today. Their guests include Mr. and Mrs. Frank Terry of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Pennington and children of Los Angeles and Mrs. Ida M. Terry of Glendale.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Houston and family are invited to a Thanksgiving celebration at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Alexander in Los Angeles, but owing to the serious illness of Mr. Houston's mother may spend Thanksgiving Day quietly at home.

Mrs. Mae Rosenberg of 462 Riverdale drive represented the better films committee of the Tuesday Afternoon club of Glendale at a meeting of the committee chairmen of the district held Tuesday afternoon at the Junior Orpheum building in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Meeker and family of 1320 East Colorado will have a quiet Thanksgiving at home and will not have the customary Thanksgiving party because of the absence of the son of the house, Warren Meeker at Berkeley. He will be home for Christmas and then there will be the usual social festivities.

Mr. and Mrs. John Peart of 801 South Maryland are giving a Thanksgiving dinner tomorrow. The guests are Mrs. Jane Peart, who is Mr. Peart's mother, and her daughter, Miss Jean; Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Culloch; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Peart and son Arthur, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Hovey and daughter, Miss Marcia, of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Nichols of Los Angeles.

On Thanksgiving this year the J. T. Crampton family will be separated. Mrs. Crampton went north to Oakland a short time ago believing the change would benefit her health. Mr. Crampton is to join her as the Thanksgiving guest of the friends with whom she is staying and they will come home together the first of next week. Miss Grace Crampton will be a guest at a family reunion to be held at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Isitt in Long Beach. R. P. Isitt and R. S. Isitt and families of this city will also be guests.

A family party at which covers will be laid for about 18 will celebrate Thanksgiving at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. McIntyre of North Cedar street where the big dinner of the day will be served about 12. It will be followed by an afternoon of music and sociability and later the special radio programs from Los Angeles broadcasting stations will be enjoyed. The guest list will include Mr. and Mrs. P. T. McIntyre and Mrs. and Mrs. James Dismukes of Los Angeles, Mrs. Helen Campbell, Miss Annie McIntyre, George Felling, F. W. McIntyre, Andrew McIntyre, Miss Edith McIntyre, Lawrence McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McIntyre and daughter Lorraine.

True Thankfulness

There are approximately forty-five million Americans working for a living—many of them have cause this day to be truly thankful for a healthy savings account.

Others for the success achieved, the foundation of which was a savings account, which taught them the important lesson of thrift, industry and prosperity.

Man's greatest feeling of independence and security comes from the money he has saved.

TUESDAY CLUB FITLY OBSERVES MEN'S NIGHT

Dramatic Reader and Violinist Give Fine Program

Men's night at the Tuesday Afternoon club was attended by 500 members and their escorts who enjoyed a most delightful program presented by Geraldine Jacobi Russell, dramatic reader, and Vern Isom, violinist. This was preceded by a short business session at which Mrs. Daniel Campbell extended greetings to the guests of the evening. The flag salute was led by Mrs. S. C. Leppelman. Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, first vice president and chairman of ways and means, turned over a check for $3500 to Mrs. M. E. Plasterer, treasurer, as proceeds for the month of November from the society circus and luncheons.

Announcement was made of the "Oh-Ho" show to be given by the club in December. Community singing at the club meetings will be discontinued after December 11, on which date the sing will be led by Mr. Kirchoffer. After that date there will be a twenty-minute sing at the luncheon meetings. Dr. Hugh K. Walker was announced as one of the speakers for the next luncheon.

In greeting the guests of the evening, Mrs. Campbell said in part: "We are grateful to the husbands of our club members. They are known throughout the state of California as the best husbands in the state, always cooperating in a financial way with the club."

Beautiful baskets of gorgeous chrysanthemums and palms were used on the stage, which made a very attractive setting for the handsome gown worn by Mrs. Russell. The program opened with a violin solo by Vern Isom, "Humoreske" (Koepping), which was well received and to which he responded with an encore. Mrs. Russell is a graduate of the Emerson School of Boston and has appeared with George Arliss in "Disraeli" and other prominent actors. Her interpretation of the various characters of "The Advantures of Lady Ursula," a comedy in four acts by Anthony Hope, was most artistic.

The play was originally produced in London, England, in 1898. Written in the time when duelling was in vogue, it gives a very interesting picture of London life in those days.

At the meeting of the executive board of the Tuesday Afternoon club, held Tuesday morning with Mrs. Daniel Campbell presiding, the resignation of Mrs. W. W. Worley as chairman of public health was accepted and Mrs. Frank C. Weller was appointed to fill the office. Plans were made for a program to be given to Community Service on the evening of Thursday, December 13. This will be in charge of Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, Mrs. H. E. Barflett and Mrs. Frank Ayars.

The Los Angeles district presidents' council will occur on December 10 at the Hollywood Women's club. Those who will attend from the Tuesday club are Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, Mrs. A. A. Barton and Mrs. Frank Ayars.

The Tuesday Afternoon club will give a young people's New Year's Eve party for boys and girls of high school and college age. Mrs. C. C. Cooper will be chairman in charge and will be assisted by Mrs. Frank Ayars and Mrs. Lillian Dow. A delightful luncheon was served at noon by Mrs. Fell.

CRADLE ROLL MOTHERS ENTERTAINED AT CHURCH

A wonderfully interesting meeting was held Tuesday afternoon at the new Glendale Presbyterian church when the mothers of young children constituting the cradle roll of the church were entertained with a program of music and recitations and also helpful talks by Rev. Louis Tinning, assistant pastor, and Miss Haystead, who has been conducting the Christian education work of the church. Her talk was addressed to women as mothers, and set for their responsibilities in guiding in the ways of righteousness the feet of little ones entrusted to their care, also the sources to which they must look for help and inspiration. In a sense the cradle roll is the foundation of the church because it is the nursery and recruiting ground of membership, she said. Apart from the program to which Mrs. Howton, mother of three young children, contributed songs, the occasion proving a very pleasant get-acquainted social hour. Mrs. Louis Tinning, director of the cradle roll department, had charge of the meeting and was assisted by Mrs. George D. McDill.

RALPH LOCKWOOD AND MISS BARNES WEDDED

The wedding of Miss Harriet Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Barnes of Cahuenga avenue, Hollywood, formerly of Glendale, and Ralph Lockwood took place at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday evening, November 27, 1923, at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. C. A. Cole of Glendale read the wedding service. Mr. and Mrs. Mansford Barnes acted as best man and matron of honor. The bride wore a wedding gown of white, with white wedding veil, and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. After the ceremony refreshments were served. Those attending from Glendale included Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Smith, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson and daughter, Miss Helen Beach, Miss Pearl Pollock and Russell Tummell.

PRESIDENT P. T. A. FEDERATION SAYS WHY THANKFUL

By Mrs. E. B. Moore, President Glendale Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations.

The P. T. A. Federation is thankful to Almighty God for one more year of prosperity and peace.

Our hearts swell up within us, with praise and thanksgiving when we remember that our nation is at peace and that we have not only sufficient for ourselves, but out of our aboundance we are glad to reach out a helping hand to all those in need, regardless of creed or station.

We are also thankful for the wonderful co-operation that exists between our parents and teachers; and for our school superintendent and school board which work hand in hand with us.

Our city fathers and our Chamber of Commerce members are never so busy with civic affairs but that they are interested in our schools and children and they are always back of us in all our enterprises.

We also appreciated our minister's who are always ready to help not only in the spiritual affairs of our community but the moral and educational elements also.

Our papers have always been a great help to us, always ready and willing to give the P. T. A. all the publicity we ask for.

We are living in the most beautiful city of Southern California and have the most wonderful teachers and scholars, the finest buildings, best equipped. Every one, all working together for our community and children.

So let us all give thanks.

COLLEGE ASSOCIATION PLANNING DINNER DANCE

The New Mexico State College association of California is planning to hold a dinner-dance at the Tuesday Afternoon club of Glendale on Saturday night, December 1. Mrs. Fannie Ford Sloan, biology teacher at Glendale high school, is president of the association; J. A. Anderson, head of the commercial department of Pasadena high school is secretary-treasurer; Theron Bennett, the radio orchestra man, is chairman of the executive and publicity committees.

There will be guests present from all over Southern California, including Riverside, San Diego, Santa Barbara, Long Beach, Pasadena, Los Angeles and other cities. The association has its headquarters at Long Beach and this will be the first meeting held in Glendale. During the evening each guest will be called upon to give some college incident. Bennett's orchestra will furnish music for dancing.

BRILLIANT CAST FOR COMEDY IS ANNOUNCED

The "Oh-Ho" cast is being announced for the first time today, and for the first time those who are taking the speaking parts in the show are known. The cast includes the best known of the Glendale talent, who are expected to put up the "show of their lives" when "Oh-Ho" is presented next week at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre.

Here are the "leads" in the show:

Mrs. Colonel Bradbury, Hawaiian millionairess...Mrs. Charles Parker
Nell Dierborn, heiress.....Miss Jane Pearsall
Dorothy Warner, co-ed.....Mrs. R. A. Puffer, Jr.
Helen Morgan, co-ed.....Mrs. Malburn Barker
"Scrub freshman frat pladge.....George Lowery
Dick Langtry, college man.....Stanley Lindman
Billie Gibson, college man..John Reber
Jack Daives, college man..Joe Griffin
Major Langtry, of the army.....Jack Strathem
Professor Emerine, of the faculty.....Capt. D. Ripley Jackson
Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors Seniors

The 50 co-eds and college men who are taking part in the many dances, college yell stunts and general campus, fraternity and sorority doings of this fun fest musical show of college life are rehearsing diligently and will be much in evidence when "Oh-Ho" is given.

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, chairman of the show committee for the Tuesday Afternoon club is getting her ticket captains and committee heads together for the able handling of the business end of the show. Their slogan, "we are going to play to no empty seats," can be taken as "meaning business," for that has been the way all events handled under this chairmanship have been put over. Mrs. Montgomery hopes to have the "Oh-Ho" show a worthy financial successor to the Society Circus, and, as for the show itself, it is claimed it will surpass all local talent offerings that have been seen in Glendale in years.

THANKSGIVING BALL OF REBEKAHS NETS $125

The final check-up of returns from the Thanksgiving ball given by the Carnation Rebekah lodge in Odd Fellows' hall last Saturday night shows that $125 was realized. This will provide welcome funds for Christmas expenditures for the children at the Orphanage at Gilroy, where the lodge supports a child. Every year a big Christmas box is dispatched there. Members of Carnation Rebekah club are being summoned to a special meeting to be held at 10 a. m. Friday in Odd Fellows' hall to finish the dressing of the dolls to be sent in the box. They are also requested to bring the dolls and handbags to the regular meeting next Tuesday night that they may be packed and sent forward.

The Carnation Rebekahs of which Mrs. Hall is noble grand, have a membership of 155, and the affiliated Odd Fellows an enrollment of about 125. The annual election takes place at the next meeting and the installation of officers who will then be chosen will take place the first meeting in January.

Plans are being made for a Carnation Christmas ball which will be given in Odd Fellows' hall December 22.

GIRLS' CORNER CLUB MOVES TO NEW QUARTERS

Mrs. Frances L. Neth, founder of the Christian Circle club in this city, and founder of the Girls' Corner club of Los Angeles, who has a host of friends in Glendale, is moving the Corner club to new quarters in the Temple Baptist church and the opening there will be celebrated next Tuesday evening with a special program of songs and speeches by notable orators and singers.

Mrs. Neth states that the club, which is but two years old, now has an enrollment of 2000. Courses for which no charge is made are provided in music, accounting and other arts and professions, and a housing bureau is maintained through which safe and comfortable homes for business women can be secured. The organization also operates a summer cottage in the Arroyo Seco and looks after the welfare of its members in a variety of ways. Every Tuesday evening it has a rally meeting and supper for which a charge of 15 cents is made.

Other guests will include Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Lamb, Mr. and Mrs. Dexter W. Lamb and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lamb of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lamb, Alice Jean Lamb and Ruth Lamb.

B. & P. WOMEN'S CLUB HEARS DR. MARIAN WHITING

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club of Glendale was held Tuesday evening in the rooms of the Glendale Commercial school at 224 South Brand, with Dr. Jessie Russell, the newly elected president, as hostess.

About fifty were present, including half a dozen prospective members who signified their desire to become identified with the organization by signing application blanks. Miss Lois Mock served as secretary pro tem and the president reported on behalf of the committee appointed to revise the constitution that drafts of same would be mailed to members for their consideration during the present week and presented for discussion at the next regular meeting the second Tuesday in December.

The entertainer of the evening was Dr. Marian Whiting, president of the South Side Ebell club of Los Angeles and an ex-service woman of the World war. As a duly qualified lieutenant she had expected to serve in the hospital corps but was shifted to other work and devoted her varied talents to entertaining the boys in camp. She told how artificial standards in music and art fell away from her as she was brought into contact with those men facing the issues of life and death, and then she gave her audience in song and recitation, with the occasional accompaniment of a zither, some of the songs and stories that appealed to the boys in khaki. She also told some very good business jokes and put on a program of monologues refreshingly new and artistically presented. All this was by way of conclusion to an inspiring talk about the tremendous possibilities of organized business women and the necessity for loyalty and team work if such an organization fulfilled its mission. Dr. Russell, as president, she likened to the tire on the wheel holding the spokes together but not fully equal to the task unless all the spokes are there sustaining the tire.

At the conclusion of the program there was a half hour of visiting during which refreshments of ice cream, cookies and fruit punch were served by the president assisted by Mrs. Woolsey and Dr. Early.

EAGLE ROCK NOTES

Mrs. Harriet Collins, the president of the Buchanan Street school Parent-Teacher association, wishes to have all mothers at her home for an all-day meeting, Tuesday, December 4. Her address is 1549 Hazelwood avenue, and all of the mothers of this district are asked to bring their lunches and stay throughout the day.

Many residents of Eagle Rock do not know that the police department protects their children on their way to school. Two officers are stationed near the schools every day at certain hours. At Floristan and Colorado there is an officer stationed from 7:50 to 8 o'clock and from 11:50 to 12. At Colorado and Castle there is an officer from 8:15 to 8:50, 11:30 to 11:40, 12:20 to 12:30 and from 2:30 to 2:40. This gives children a chance to get across the street, and there is nothing finer than to see a policeman, with a little child by the hand stopping traffic until he deposits his precious little charges safely on the other side of the street. At the little school in the west end on Colorado boulevard, there is an officer stationed from 7:50 to 8; 1:50 to 1230; 3 to 3:15 and from 4:20 to 4:30.

In a hard and furious three-mile cross-country run over the hills last night, Occidental college men were defeated at the hands of the Southern Branch. This is the first meet of its kind this year and the result will have no bearing on future meets. The first eleven men to finish were Smith, Southern Branch; Gibson, Southern Branch; Griffen, Oxy; Shafer, Southern Branch; La Ville, Oxy; Danelvitch, Oxy; Novle, Southern Branch; Miller, Oxy; Harmon, Southern Branch; Duene, Southern Branch; Hand, Southern Branch.

Next Monday night the Eagle Rock Parent-Teacher association will have a board of directors' meeting. The open meeting will be held Wednesday, December 4. There will be a splendid musical program in charg of Mrs. R. S. Lippold. Every woman of Eagle Rock is urged to come, bring her children, also sewing or Christmas work.

The Local W. C. T. U. has completed its plans for a Thanksgiving dinner which is to be served to the inmates of the county jail. All sorts of fruit and goodies have been collected during the past week and they will be taken down to Los Angeles this afternoon and tomorrow. This benevolent idea is another of the worthy enterprises which the W. C. T. U. is continually putting on.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS HAVE OPEN MEETING

Over 175 members of the Glendale Knights of Pythias and their gentlemen friends attended the open meeting held Tuesday night at the K. P. hall, where an interesting program was given. One of the features of the evening was a splendid talk on "Harmony" given by Supreme Representative Robert Locke. Mr. Locke dwelt particularly on that part of the K. P. ritual that emphasizes the lesson of harmony.

GIVE MOTHER A DAY OF REST ON THANKSGIVING

Motor to the Hills for a Camp Dinner Beside the Stream

Wouldn't it be a sensible innovation if instead of the annual Thanksgiving Day gorge which paves the way for the doctor, the day could be celebrated in a rational way with an abundant but simple dinner that could not upset anybody's digestion or liver. It would surely be a relief to the housewife and mother who, hospitable though she may be, is apt to dread the hard work of preparing for a big family reunion and clearing up afterwards.

A good way of solving the problem happily for all concerned was tried more than once with great success by a group of friends in the habit of dining together on this festal day. They decided to motor to some beautiful spot and dine in the open. Big juicy steaks were carried to the rendezvous and plenty of wood for the fire over which they were broiled. This was the part assigned the man of the family who, as experienced campers, imagined they knew better how it should be done than the women folk. All the housewives in the party contributed some part of the feast. Eaten as it was in the open with the sauce of hunger, no one suffered any qualms of indigestion, and the clearing away was a simple process. Another long ride homeward relaxed any fagged nerves that had been strained before and all were ready to crawl into a good warm bed and sleep soundly until the laundry whistle waked them in the morning.

Only in California or some sister climate can such things be done, but all the more reason for doing them and demonstrating the advantages of this beloved state over the old home back east which may be wrapped in a mantle of snow, on that day of days.

DINNER AND REUNION AT IMLER HOME TODAY

The Thanksgiving dinner and reunion of the Imler family will take place tonight at the Imler home on West Park avenue. Covers will be laid for Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Imler and baby Adelaide G. Imler, Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Stearns, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hickman, Mrs. Ellen Kenney, Miss Marjorie Imler, and the hostess Mrs. Adelaide Imler. Thursday morning Mr. and Mrs. Stearns, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Imler and Miss Imler will motor to the Imperial Valley to spend the week-end at the Imler ranch near Brawley.

ATWATER "IMPROVING" ASS'N PLANS FOR YULETIDE

At a meeting of the Atwater Improvement association, held Monday night, preliminary plans were made for a Community Christmas celebration to be held some time in December by the people residing in the Atwater district, which is just south of the Glendale city limits.

Turkey With Trimmings —By Ripley

Much to be Thankful for in Los Angeles County, Calif.

Thanksgiving Day this year finds America the favored land of all the earth. No wars or overwehlming catastrophes of nature disturb our prosperity and happiness. Therefore, let us forget for the moment, our trifling individual woes, and unite as a Nation in giving thanks for our many great blessings.

The country is at present enjoying a period of "good times." And though some of us, perhaps, feel that we have been slow in receiving our just share of this prosperity, it has only made us more determined to win it through our own efforts—by courage, thrift and industry.

WHAT HAVEN'T WE TO BE THANKFUL FOR TO GOD?

Bible Class President Puts it Thusly for Emphasis

By PARK ARNOLD
President of the Tri Mu Class of The First Baptist Sunday School

What have we to be thankful for?

Better and easier to answer would be the question, "What haven't we men of the Tri Mu to be thankful for?"

Tho those few Glendalians who may not be familiar with the above name, we will introduce Tri Mu. It is a Greek name meaning "Three M's," and adopted by the livest men's Bible class in the southwest at the First Baptist church of this city as an insignia for the class and guide for its leadership.

Suggested by these three M's are the word, "muscle, mind and moral"—just a little different way to embody the same thought that makes up our worthy triangle—spirit, mind and body.

This energetic body of about 75 men, seeking inspired leadership in the training of the three M's and finding it in the able leadership of C. B. Elliott, teacher, and Rev. E. E. Ford, pastor, have so much to be thankful for this season that we want to tell the world.

We are thankful for the Christian fellowship of business men and for the opportunities for service this fellowship affords. For the opportunity to boost the spirit of a man disheartened, to encourage with real tangible help if he has been unable to provide the necessities for his family. We are thankful for the opportunity to furnish pleasure via radios to "shut-ins" and to lighten loads in time of sickness and sorrow.

We are thankful for level-headed leadership in the development of Tri Mu, for we realize that to develop the mind without the muscle and moral is to produce an atheist; that to develop the muscle without the mind and moral is to produce a pugilist, and to develop the moral without the mind and the muscle is to produce a fanatic.

If our three M's are properly ministered to, we can produce men who will be alive to possibilities for service and always seeking to serve, for by so doing, Rotary rightly teaches us, we profit most.

We are thankful to be a factor in the growth of this city and community, to have a big part in our church's new building project and to be a vital part in the greatest program on earth today—the service to mankind through the spreading of the message and teachings of Jesus Christ.

UNITY BETWEEN CITIES PROMOTED BY CLUB SPIRIT

By GEORGE B. KARR
President Rotary Club of Glendale

Some influences are rather local in their effects, while others extend quite a distance and still others are very far-reaching. The activities of the Rotary club are rather unique in that all three of these results are accomplished.

There is the personal relation developed among the members by frequent meetings and working together along common lines and the immediate community benefits of local effort. Beyond this is in the inter-city relation and particularly have the Rotary clubs of Southern California developed an acquaintance and interest among the different communities. The same idea has been extended a little further in an effort to make a United California and to this end a large number of Los Angeles Rotarians recently paid a special visit to the San Francisco club; making a return call for a similar visit of a few months ago on the part of a number of San Francisco Rotarians. At a recent Rotary conference there was an elaborate wedding ceremony between Mr. San Francisco and Miss Los Angeles, the result of the happy union to be a more united state, literally, as well as figuratively.

In a still larger circle the friendship and service ideals of Rotary are establishing an understanding among nations themselves on the broader plane of Universal Brotherhood, the same as among individuals. In all these ways we feel that as members of the Rotary club, we have great cause for special Thanksgiving at this time.

Garage, Show Room For 1234 South Brand

Ground was broken last week for a one-story garage and show room to be constructed at 1234 South Brand boulevard, by and for J. F. Stanford, local builder and real estate man. The building will be of high grade construction, brick and hollow tile to be used. Completion is slated for soon after the first of the year.

With several new buildings going up in the southern section of the city, all of which are modern in every respect, Mr. Stanford sees a great future for Southern Glendale, and is a great booster for that section.

DOLBERG IS VERY MUCH PLEASED WITH OUTLOOK

Glenn R. Dolberg, proprietor of the Dolberg Studio, 206 West Broadway, is very well pleased with his business outlook, and reports that he is now running on a capacity business, being scarcely able to handle all the orders which continue to flow in daily.

"The outlook of a big Christmas rush is very good, several already signifying their intention of having pictures made," states Mr. Dolberg, "and orders received later than December tenth cannot be filled in time for Christmas, so 'get yours early.'"

The equipment of the studio is of the best, the Hollywood Blue light being used. This is the same type of lighting that is used by the moving picture companies, and facilitates the taking of pictures at night. Appointments may be for evening photographing.

Mr. Dolberg, since coming to this city two years ago, has built himself a large business, and has made a host of friends. His prices are consistent with his excellent work, and his pictures are now finer than ever, several new effects having been perfected by him. He has been awarded the contract for the class pictures in the Stylus, the local high school annual, for two consecutive years, and excellent samples of his work may be seen in that publication.

Although specializing on portraits, Mr. Dolberg also does commercial photographing, several of his pictures having appeared in this paper. An expert coloring and tinting department is maintained, making it one of the most complete studios in the San Fernando valley.

THANKFUL FOR HERITAGE OF FOREFATHERS

By O. M. NEWBY,
President of the West Broadway Improvement Association

Lest we forget—that source from which all our blessings flow—it is well for us frequently to pause and mediate upon the goodness of God and to count our many blessings.

One of the things I am most thankful for is the wonderful heritage handed down from our Christian forefathers. Some times I think there are too many people living in our Christian America enjoying the blessings that have come to us, and are coming to us, by reason of the fact that those going before have labored and sacrificed to preserve and hand down to us those high ideals and true American customs that have been the very foundation upon which we have builded this wonderful and beloved country of ours, and are turning their backs upon and ignoring them.

As we approach this Thanksgiving day, a day handed down to us from our Pilgrim Fathers and preserved by those coming after, a day we love, and love to celebrate, let us again dedicate ourselves to the service of our country and make anew the vow to keep sacred and hold dear those ideals that have brought us thus far.

Yes, we are thankful for all our material blessings, too numerous to enumerate; for the wonderful progress made in education, in politics, social service, and many other things. But all this will go for naught unless we have that burning love for the world that knows no bounds, that does not stop at the shores of our own country, but is worldwide in scope.

So again I say let us be much in the thanksgiving spirit on this another Thanksgiving day.

In the Pacific-Southwest

A Thanksgiving Greeting

IN 1621, after the first harvest of the Pilgrim fathers, Governor Bradford declared the first Thanksgiving Day. Two years later, a day of fasting and prayer in drought was changed to thankfulness by the coming of rain.

The custom of observing a day of thanksgiving spread through the States until, in 1864, President Lincoln proclaimed it a national holiday.

Among the patrons of this Bank are many who have particular cause to be thankful. They are those whose industry and thrift have enabled them to lay aside a portion of their earnings to help them in their opportunities and to provide a bulwark against adversity.

This Bank extends to all its Thanksgiving Greeting.

Ford Trucks Are Bought On Performance Records

If you were to ask a hundred—or a thousand—Ford truck owners why they use Ford trucks in preference to all others, they would likely say, "Because the Ford stands up."

They know that under the endless grind of daily service the Ford stays on the job month in and month out, with very little mechanical care, and with practically no expense for repairs or replacements. They buy to get performance.

A few might add that the Ford is the lowest priced truck on the market. But they would emphasize the work this truck does, not its initial cost, in accounting for the fact that there are more Ford Trucks in use today than all other makes combined.

A Real Sacrifice Beautiful Stucco Home

Spanish type stucco, expanded metal lath construction, eight-inch cement foundation; rough finish—will not crack—nothing better built. Large cement porch, front and side, walls of which are solid brick, stucco covered. Attractive awning at front.

Large living room, real tile fireplace, built-in bookcases, attractive fixtures. Beautiful dining room, built-in buffet. Wonderful kitchen, every built-in feature, tile sink, large breakfast nook. Large screen porch. Tile bath, both tub and shower, with built-in cabinets. Two light, attractive bedrooms; one with two large closets, both with built-in chiffoniers. Half-inch hardwood floors.

Double garage, five large windows, ceiled with plaster board throughout and equipped with laundry tray, sink and extra toilet—can be used for income if desired. Storage instant heater, serving both house and garage. Lawn front and rear.

It's on a 50x150 lot, splendid restricted street, only two blocks from new High school, close to stores and transportation; never before offered for sale. Price only $7500; $2500 will handle.

You may not know values, but we do. When we say this is the best home in Glendale for the money we are taking in a lot of territory, but we believe it to be true.

Built by owner for his home; business calls him elsewhere, and he has made a price which insures immediate sale. We want you to see it.

Quake Proof Houses Advocated for Chile

[By Associated Press]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Nov. 29.—Dwellers in the earthquake zone of Chile have been supplied with simple but scientific instructions how best to build their houses to withstand possible collapse.

After the earthquake of last November the Chilean government sought expert building advice, and under the auspices of the Carnegie Foundation Dr. Bailey Willis, Stanford geologist, went to Chile and studied the situation for five months. He prepared his conclusions in pamphlet form and this booklet, in Spanish, has been made available to the inhabitants of the quake zone.

Limousine-Touring Car Latest Belgian

[By Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—An interesting new automobile of Belgian make, which may be transformed from a limousine to a touring car in a few minutes is described in a report received by the Department of Commerce. The body consists largely of glass panels which may be folded back within the sides, and the roof can be folded back just as the ordinary touring car top.

The lower rear portion of the tonneau is so arranged that it can be opened like the lid of a chest, and the combined back curtain and side glasses turned down out of the way.

FAMOUS OLD "TINKER TO EVERS TO CHANCE" COMBINATION HAS A REUNION

In the days when the old Chicago "machine" was winning pennants and world's series under Manager Frank Chance, the infield was a big factor. The "Tinker to Evers to Chance" double play won many a game. Here are the former stars, snapped while talking over old times during a recent game between the Yankees and the Red Sox at the Yankee Stadium. Chance, still in harness as manager of the Red Sox, is seen with Joe Tinker (center) and Johnny Evers (right).

CAREER OF STEINMETZ AN INSPIRATION IN PLUCK

By S. W. STRAUS,
President American Society for Thrift

IS IT through pull, luck or mere chance that men reach positions of great responsibility and usefulness in America today?

S. W. STRAUS

This question, the answer to which should seem perfectly self-evident, is worthy of attention by all who are especially interested in giving encouragement to our young men and young women.

It is a fact that many are discouraged on the threshold of active life because they believe luck, pull or mere accident have much to do with success.

There recently passed away a great man; a genius, we venture to assert, whose career was a striking example of what can be done through sheer pluck and ambition. The man was Charles Proteus Steinmetz, whose achievements as a scientist, specializing particularly in electrical research and experiments, give him a place among the truly great men of this nation. But Steinmetz came to this country thirty years ago with almost every possible handicap. Weak and deformed physically, destitute of money, with no friends or position, his outlook was indeed anything but promising. But he disregarded the drawbacks, set his face firmly toward the future and became one of the most useful men of our day.

He was successful, not from the standpoint of personal financial strength or political power, but because of his usefulness to humanity, which is the only standard of true success worthy of recognition.

The career of this man, a weakling physically, a giant in vision and intellect, should prove an inspiration to the youth of our country.

It is not pull, it is not luck, it is not mere circumstance that brings success.

It is pluck, thrift of time, thrift of opportunity, ambition, character, intelligent effort. No one can truly succeed without these. But with them any youth can succeed, regardless of pull or the caprices of fortune.

Orders Southland Paving, Widening

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 29.—The state highway commission at a meeting here yesterday authorized considered work of interest to the people of Southern California.

R. M. Morton, state highway engineer, was authorized to prepare plans and specifications and advertise for bids for widening and thickening the state highway in Los Angeles county between Sherman boulevard and the Russell Ranch, a distance of 11.65 miles.

Similar work on a section of highway in Ventura county from the southerly boundary to Camarillo, a distance of almost 16 miles, also was authorized.

Most of the work in both instances will consist of widening the highway to 20 feet by the laying of a second cement concrete pavement, five or six inches thick, on top of the old 15-foot slab.

The Southwest Paving company of Los Angeles was awarded a contract for paving seven-tenths of a mile in the city of Beaumont on a bid of $23,037.

The maintenance department was authorized to erect a modern repair shop at Lankershim at an estimated cost of $27,000. The building will be of brick, 80 by 150 feet in floor area, taking the place of an inadequate shop now in use.

Famous Elm Under Which Washington Assumed Command of Continental Army Crashes to Earth

The Washington Elm in Cambridge, Mass., which has been dead for some time, fell recently while workmen were pruning limbs that seemed about to drop and endanger sight-seers and automobilists. How to dispose of the historic elm had long been a matter of dispute. One proposal was to fell it, but in the meantime it had been preserved as well as possible. The falling tree narrowly missed several automobilists.

C. OF C. BANQUET AIR AT OCCIDENTAL

hot. Dewar, in 1898, produced liquid hydrogen and obtained a temperature of 259 degrees Centigrade. Helium was first liquified in 1908, at Leyden. The boiling point of liquid helium is 269 Centigrade.

A demonstration with liquid air was then given. It was poured on the floor and raised clouds of steam which immediately evaporated. No trace of water was left because the contact with air made it seem to boil. By putting a stick of wood or ice in the liquid air, it immediately started to boil with big clouds of white smoke. When it was poured into water, pure liquid oxygen was on the bottom in the flask in globules.

A piece of rubber tubing when immersed in the liquid became, in the flash of an eye, as solid and brittle as cast iron. Next a little of the air was swallowed and Professor Watson emitted clouds of smoky white vapor from his mouth. Rubber balls were then emersed in the liquid, and were frozen solid. On being dropped to the floor, they fell to pieces with a fair sized explosion.

Very high vacuums can be obtained by the use of liquid air. A test tube was placed in the liquid and it became hard as a hammer, and a nail was driven into a piece of board with it. When Professor Watson placed a mixture of liquid air and charcoal in a crucible and lit it, the entire audience gasped with amazement. It is interesting to know that the first thermometers were made with oil in the tubes.

Sign Post Tells of Famous Courtship

[By Associated Press]

RINGMER, England, Nov. 2 .— This little old village gave to the world the wives of John Harvard and William Penn, and a sign-post to tell the passing motorists of this fact has been erected. It was dedicated recently by George Harvey, the American Ambassador.

John Harvard, founder of the University which bears his name, married the daughter of John Sadler, vicar of Ringmer. Penn married the daughter of Sir William Springett, whose name for a century preceding had been linked to this village, and whose blood has come down, in unbroken line, to the giver of the sign-post, Lady Demetriadi.

L. A. WOMAN HURT IN AUTO SMASH

Miss M. Kann of Los Angeles was slightly injured about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in a local automobile collision. She was a passenger in a car driven by S. H. Hooper of Los Angeles which collided with a machine driven by L. C. Parmlee of San Fernando. The accident occurred at the intersection of San Fernando road and Doran street.

WOULD REDUCE PAY OF BRITISH ARMED FORCES

LONDON, Nov. .—The drums of war having ceased to beat, Tommy Atkins is going to have his pay reduced. So are the sergeants and subalterns and captains and even majors in His Majesty's army. The colonels and generals, however, will continue to draw their present salaries.

One of the members of the committee of three which recommended the reductions is a general. The committee said it did not think any of the services err on the side of paying their best men too much. The other two members of the committee are knighted civilians.

It is far from certain that these recommendations will be carried out to the letter. For one thing, there will be a long and loud protest raised against lower pay, but it is probable that, to some extent, the proposed reductions will be put in force.

Privates now receive two shillings and nine pence a day to start on. The committee would reduce this to 1s 6d. Subalterns, whose rank is comparable to second lieutenants in the American army, receive 13 shillings a day, which the committee would drop to 11 shillings. A captain's pay of 23s 6d would be cut to 21 shillings. Reductions in the navy and the air forces also are proposed, but only for those ranking below commanders.

The committee declares that the pay of an infantry recruit and of an ordinary seaman has increased 175 per cent and 167 per cent, respectively, above the scale of 1914. Before the war Tommy Atkins got less money than agricultural, engineering and building laborers, but now he receives considerably more. That is one of the chief arguments used by the committee.

The committee recommended also that the lower ranking workers in the civil service toil eight hours a day instead of seven.

C. OF C. BANQUET FOR THE VALLEY

community. He predicted that it will not be long until the entire San Fernando valley has been subdivided into home sites. He suggested that irrigation of the desert spaces then would be more necessary than ever.

W. E. Hewitt called attention to the value of the agricultural products of the San Fernando valley.

"People are coming out here in such numbers," he said, "that they are building up the San Fernando valley into a great metropolitan area."

The toastmaster was Jesse E. Smith, retiring president of the Glendale chamber of commerce.

Entertainment features were solos by Miss Marie Oliver of 1314 North Central avenue, who was accompanied by Mrs. Helen Butterfield of 1235 North Central avenue, by Mrs. Viva Lee Weideman of 119 North Kenwood street and D. Ripley Jackson of 1800 South Brand boulevard. Mrs. Mina King Custer of 452 West Lexington drive was the accompanist.

D. K. Thomas, city commercial manager for the Western Union Telegraph company, made a short instructional talk in which he pledged better telegraph service for Glendale.

"Two million messages per month representing 67 million words of matter pass over the Los Angeles Western Union wires, of which district the Glendale office is a part," declared Mr. Thomas. Stacked vertically these messages would make a pile seven times higher than the new Security building in Glendale. This concrete illustration tells its own story of the growth of the telegraph from its feeble beginning to its position today as the backbone of a world communicative system.

"The physical handicaps through which wires must work constantly in order to render an uninterrupted service are interesting. In the high Sierras wires are often buried 20 feet in snow during the winter season. On the desert, sandstorms literally saw wooden poles off at the base, making it necessary to replace a complete pole line over such a stretch about every six years."

THIS KIND OF LINER ADVERTISING SURE DOES GET ACTION

[By Associated Press]

HAMBURG, Nov. .—Sarasan, a circus owner, who is about to start for South America with his show, advertised in the German newspapers for 300 acrobats, workmen and employes of various sorts. He received applications from sixty thousand men of all classes.

Every type from a former general of cavalry to day laborer was in the list. Many of the men offered to pay for a position which would earn them transportation to South America. Some offered the slender amount of money at their disposal, while others potatoes, grain and other products.

Despair over present economic conditions in Germany, desire for a free life, discouragement over blasted careers and love of adventure were the motives ascribed by most of the applicants.

Curing your Golf Troubles

By Jim Barnes

Dear Sir: I wish you would point out to me some of the relationships between different methods of taking the stance and position of gripping the club. I find it more comfortable to stand with my left foot drawn somewhat back from the line of flight. How should I place my hands to work with this stance?

T. J. K.

Answer: Stance, grip and swing are all interrelated, and the one must be worked out with the two others. I gather that you use an open stance. The usual tendency with such a stance is to slice, because it is difficult to pivot freely. To overcome this the grip should be adjusted with the left hand pretty well over toward the right. Using this stance and grip, the forearms generally turn over toward the right on the backswing and back toward the left on the downswing, thus shutting the face to some extent.

On the other hand with a square stance, placing the left hand well over to the right will usually result in a hook or pull. Though of course in the case of this as well as the other mentioned above, other considerations may overbalance the usual effect. Generally speaking an open stance usually leads to a somewhat flat swing with the club taken more around the body. Moreover, most really upright swingers use a square stance, taking the club more nearly straight back, and to get away from a hook or pull, grip with the left hand pretty well on top of the shaft.

In working these matters out, the player must keep in mind that a fair average between an extreme upright and an extreme flat swing is more common than either of those two. So he needs to experiment some to determine just how much allowance he must make each way in adjusting the proper position of the hands on the club to the stance he is using and the style of his swing.

EAST GLENDALE HAS HAD AMAZING GROWTH

IMPROVEMENT OF GLENDALE AVE. MEANS MUCH

Will Make It One of Finest Thoroughfares in all Southland

Among the many improvements scheduled for the east side of Glendale is that of Glendale avenue from curb to curb with four inches of aphaltic macadam and one and a half inches of National type top coating, also a wonderful system of two-light steel electroliers.

This street will be improved from Cerritos avenue at the southern end to Monterey road at the north, and when completed will be one of the finest thoroughfares in this part of the state. Already the gas pipes have been laid along this street by the Southern California Gas company, and it is understood that Peter L. Ferry, who was awarded the general contract for the improvement of this street, has started the laying of water pipe at the lower end of the avenue. All of this work is, of course, preparatory to the actual paving of the street, but it is absolutely necessary that these pipes be laid before the paving process so that there may be no need for the tearing up of the street when it has once been improved.

The National Paving company, whose top surface will be used in the improving of this street, is at this time establishing its treating and mixing plant on a piece of ground secured on the west side of the city near the Glendale-Burbank city limits. The machinery for the mixing of this top coating is at this time being installed and will soon be ready for service.

Mr. Ferry, it is understood, is ready to "go" just as soon as the water pipes are laid and the National people are in position to furnish the top coating for the base that he will install. He has also secured, on the west side of the city, space for his plant for the mixing of the asphaltic macadam of which the base of the street will be constituted. The Glendale-Montrose Railway company has arranged for Mr. Ferry for the improvement of the strip between the rails of the company's track, which will run along the center of the street.

It looks, therefore, as though something would 'break" in connection with the improvement of Glendale avenue before a great while. Everyone connected in any way with this work seems to be on his ties and "rarin' to go." One by one the obstacles seem to be thrown in the scrap heap. There are a few more to overcome and when these are slipped into the discard there ought to be something "stirring" on the avenue.

The establishing of the electrolier system on Glendale avenue will also be something of which the residents of that eastern section will doubtless feel proud and which will do a great deal toward increasing property values in that section of the city. These lighting standards will be of the very latest type. They will be of two-lights, 16 feet in height and will be made of steel and of an ornamental design. This system, it is understood, will be installed at the same time as the improving of the street or shortly afterward.

LARGE BUSINESS NOW ENJOYED BY FURNITURE CO.

The Glendale Furniture Company, 606-608 East Broadway, is now enjoying a large business, which is nearly forcing it to seek new and larger quarters. Starting on a small scale several years ago in the store room at 608 East Broadway, it soon outgrew this and is now in the two rooms, which are crowded with wonderful values in home furnishings.

Messers. Flagg and Walker, proprietors, report that they can sell furniture for less due to the extremely low overhead as they are located out of the high rent district. They sell on convenient terms and carry their own contracts, which feature saves the purchaser about five per cent that would otherwise have to be paid the bank or firm which handled the contract.

A complete line of high grade furniture from the kitchen to the bedroom may be found in this enterprising store, and low-priced articles that are good to exquisite walnut and mahogany suites may be had on very convenient terms. A new stock of folding beds has just been received and these are going at remarkably low prices.

H. F. STEIN GREAT BOOSTER FOR EAST BROADWAY

A great booster for the eastern section of this city, especially East Broadway is H. F. Stein, proprietor of Stein's feed, seed, and grocery store, located at 1214 East Broadway, opposite the fine new grammar school in that section.

According to Mr. Stein, that part of Glendale is rapidly coming to the front, business moving in that direction. "The new High school, located a block from the store, will bring hundreds of families to the eastern part of this city, and business can't help but come out this way.

The store carries a full line of high grade feed and fuel, as well as a complete stock of groceries. The store and stock is all owned by Mr. Stein, and this together with his experience and ability, a service unequalled can be given patrons. A free delivery is maintained.

East Broadway Is Booming Says Carl Anderson

"East Broadway is booming," claims Carl Anderson, who has a dry goods and furnishing store at 516 East Broadway. "Business has picked up a great deal, and, with the Glendale Avenue line being electrified, this section of town can't help but prosper."

To the people of Glendale who do not know Carl, we take this opportunity of introducing him to you. Several years ago, in an accident, he suffered the loss of his left leg, which forced him to his wheelchair. Not being able to do bodily labor, he conceived the idea of a small notions store, and, together with his mother, six years ago, started what is now Carl Anderson's Dry Goods store. The notions business grew, and soon dry goods were added to the stock, and the business is now one of the biggest of its kind on East Broadway.

A full line of Christmas novelties, such as games and toys, is offered at low prices, and a complete stock of ladies and gentlemen's furnishings may be had, all at low figures, due to the small overhead. Each week until Chirstmas, a special sale of one class of articles is held, and the windows are changed each week in order to show these special values.

'LOOKING UP,' IS WHAT'S SAID OF EAST BRODWAY

East Broadway is "looking up." By this is meant that no time in the history of East Broadway have things looked brighter than they do right now. The finger of progress is pointing to that section and the facts are that that section simply cannot help but experience advancement.

One of the features that will add greatly to the advancement of that thoroughfare will be the establishment of an ornamental lighting system from Glendale avenue east, that will have no superior in the city of Glendale. This sytem, it is understood, will be similar to those to be established on Glendale avenue and East Colorado street. The standards will be of two-light, 16-feet, and will be made of steel. They will be both ornamental and durable and will add greatly to the attractiveness of that eastern section. The prospective construction of the hotel at the corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway is another feature that is "doing things" to the values of property within a few blocks adjacent to it. There are some fools in this city who think that hotel will never be constructed, while there are those who are sure that it will. Those who are working on this project are not shouting their progress from the housetop, but are operating secretly. When they are ready to 'shoot" they will tell what they know, but until that time they will remain "mum."

It is definitely known, however, that things in connection with the hotel are progressing favorably. This does not mean that the hotel is financed, but it does mean that those with whom the proposition has been taken up think well enough of it to give it favorable and serious consideration. Most any day some real news in connection with the hotel may be received, it is understood.

The sale of property on East Broadway, just east of Glendale avenue—one piece for $20,000 and another for $15,000—looks well for that locality. When property is selling activily there is generally a reason, and something back of the sales. Possibly this "something" is the hotel proposition, possibly it is the fact that before a great while there will be some building along that street. It matters not what it is, the fact that property is moving looks well for that section.

East Broadway, and especially that section near the interesection of that street will Glendale avenue, is destined to progress rapidly in the next few months.

GLENDALE'S EAST SIDE IS WHERE CITY STARTED

By J. M. BENEDICT

Time was when all there was of Glendale was scattered along Glendale avenue and San Fernando road. Old settlers will tell us that though Glendale did not have two sides at that time, it was not long before it developed two ends, the north and the south, and then Tropico was born, later to be merged into a more or less harmonious whole that then became the really Greater Glendale.

It is a little difficult to sing the praises of one section of our city without appearing to detract from the other parts. But this need not follow, for Glendale is a city of diversified attractions, one of its principal charms being in this diversity. No Glendale resident, however enamored with his immediate surroundings and consequently satisfied with his own choice of a location, will be foolish enough to assert that his favored immediate neighborhood is the only worth-while place in this city of "magnificent distances." This writer believes that the eastern section of Glendale has peculiar attractive attributes some of which have been bestowed by nature and others by circumstances, but he is not going to be so foolish as to even by implication "knock" other parts of our city.

Speaking of diversity, here is a fact worth noting: There are parts of our valley where frost more frequently occurs than in other sections but the principal contributing cause of this is the usual absence of wind. Therefore it is a fact that frosty sections are given compensation by an unusual freedom from wind, while on the other hand if there are any parts of the valley where there is occasionally a little too much motion of the air for ideal conditions, these parts receive their compensation by being comparatively frostless.

The early settlers in general chose the eastern section of Glendale along the old roads, Glendale avenue and Verdugo road, for their home sites. This began in the time of the original Verdugo family and continued almost up to the advent of the Pacific Electric in 1904. When the influx of settlers came in 1883, they bought along the San Fernando road and Glendale avenue almost exclusively so that when the Salt Lake railroad built its line into the valley it was located in that section where the settlers were. In 1904 when the Pacific Electric was conceived and constructed, it was the people of the east side who assisted Messrs. Brand and Huntington in the work, due to the very fact that there were only a few scattered settlers west of Jackson street. Glendale avenue was the first Glendale terminus of the road and would have so remained had not the exigencies of a land scheme bent it to the northward. All Glendale owes for the first impulse of its phenomenal growth, to this line of communication with Los Angeles and thence to the world at large, but the west side in the neighborhood of the railroad was naturally the first to profit by that enterprise.

But that is enough about early history. Let us get down to conditions today. The writer came to Glendale in 1906 when the little city had just assumed the form of a municipality and he has seen and noted its progress from that time. He chose a home on the east side after giving a good deal of thought to his selection and every year since that time he has become more and more satisfied with his choice. The two great thoroughfares of the city from north to south are Verdugo road and Glendale avenue and their importance will constantly increase from year to year. They have been comparatively slow in development, but now are starting at full swing. They will catch the bulk of the tourist travel from the north as it comes down through from San Fernando by way of La Crescenta and the Verdugo canyon. Glendale avenue will become an important business street in the near future. At present two great projects in the way of its improvement are starting, one the work of repaving the roadway in a high-class manner and the other the electrification of the present line of railway, the latter solving the question of transportation that has held this section back. Large building projects which have been put off waiting for these two improvements, will undoubtedly be started in the near future and in fact several new establishments have actually been started. Values, while increasing daily will be a long time reaching the peak and this condition warrants me in giving the advice which appears in the advertisement appearing herewith. Get in early and be in a position to be benefited by the increase in values, the wave of prosperity has already started. I must not forget to mention the hundreds of homes that are now in course of construction or have recently been completed on the east side. Let us show them to you and see if you can count them.

Having more newspapers than any other city of its size in the world, is the claim of Cairo, Egypt.

Pe-ling took its name from the sacred bird of "a hundred intelligences."

FOX-WOODSUM CO. SAYS TRADE IS FLOURISHING

Reports from the Fox-Woodsum Lumber company indicate an extremely flourishing business, which is causing them to run on a capacity basis. With several carloads of both rough and finished lumber coming in daily, the plant is one of the busiest of its kind in the city.

Starting on a small scale ten years ago, with but a small number of employees, and very small yards, the company has grown considerably, more than seventy-five now being on the payroll, and using trucks to supply the lumber for a great many of Glendale's homes.

Only the highest grade of lumber and other building materials are handled by this firm, and the prices are consistent with the market. The drafting department of the organization will furnish you with excellent plans for any type of home you may desire, and furnish the materials at a very low figure.

EAST COLORADO IMPROVEMENT COMING ON FAST

The widening of Colorado and the lighting of that thoroughfare with a modern system of electroliers is one of the improvement features that will do a great deal toward advancing the interests of those holding property in that locality.

This boulevard east of Glendale avenue, it will be remembered, is to be widened ten feet on either side, which operation will make it one of the leading east and west thoroughfares of the city.

Some time ago condemnation proceedings were started by the city for the acquiring of this additional ten feet. At that time the city decided to immediately take steps to widen the street ten feet, to the inner edge of the present sidewalk line, upon which the curbings will set. The contract for this work has already been let and, it is understood, steps are being taken by the contractor to go ahead with this work at the earliest possible moment.

Not wishing to wait the two years necessary for the carrying out of the condemnation proceedings, the property owners along Colorado street have agreed to put in the sidewalk along either side of the street without delay and to move back the buildings, which are on the present property line, at their own expense, which, it is understood, will be several thousand dollars.

The establishment of a system of ornamental electroliers will not be the least of the improvements to be made on Colorado. These ornamental lighting posts will be identical to those to be erected on Glendale avenue, so that the combination of the two systems will make one of the finest electrical features thus far devised for this city.

It is understood that the future holds for east Colorado street the construction of a number of important business structures. A theater building is projected for that street, as are also several buildings costing from $25,000 to $60,000. The remarkable growth of the district lying south of east Colorado street has done much to make more stores in that locality a necessity. The business houses along that street are now doing a good trade and many other lines of business are needed. This fact is being realized by those who own property along that thoroughfare, and as a result comes the report of an early building of a number of structures on that street.

East Colorado is destined to be one of the greatest busines streets in Glendale. It has everything that a business street needs, is a direct route from Pasadena to the beaches and for these and other reasons it cannot stand still.

COLORADO STREET FOLK THANKFUL FOR MUCH

By Harvey C. Patterson, 1330 East Colorado, Secretary of the Colorado Street Improvement Association.

Among the many reasons for which the Colorado Street Improvement association has to feel thankful are the following:

We are grateful that we are citizens of the best, most generous, prosperious and most peaceful nation on the face of the earth—the United States of America. We are grateful that we live in the most progressive state in that nation—California—and that we are located in the cleanest, livest, prettiest and fastest growing city in that state—Glendale, which is as typically American as is Thanksgiving day.

We are grateful that we have our homes on what we believe is destined to be the best business street and one of the finest thoroughfares in the state of California, and above all we are thankful that the owners of property on Colorado are a unit in their efforts to bring about these happy results.

The Colorado Street Improvement association has, we believe, just cause for expressing their gratitude to an all-wise Father this Thanksgiving day.

Many are the improvements in store for our thoroughfare. For instance, the street from one side of the city to the other is to be widened 10 feet on either sid. The property owners along the street are not waiting for the condemnation proceedings to force them to give this land. They have agreed 100 percent strong to lay the sidewalks along both sides of the street by private contract, and to pay out of their own pockets for the moving back of the business buildings that are at this time on the present property line. The additional 10 feet on either side of this street will be paved, making it one of the most attractive boulevards in the state.

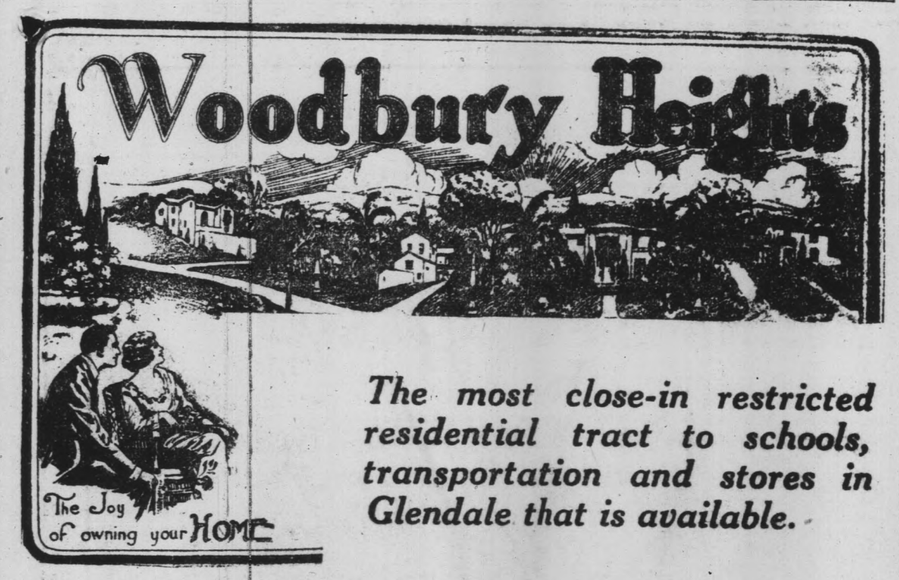
The property owners have signed up for ornamental electroliers to extend from the west to the east city limits. Proceedings for the establishment of these lights are already under way.

A number of business structures have been erected on Colorado during the past year and the proprietors of these establishments are now enjoying a good business. During the past twelve months the district south of Colorado street on the east side of the city has grown up so rapidly with modern homes that the East Colorado street business establishments have a thickly-populated district to draw from. Inquiries are coming from all sections of the country for space for business buildings on Colorado street.

So we, of the Colorado Street Improvement associatoin, have a great deal to be thankful for. The past is full of achievement and the future is exceedingly rosy. We have no kick coming.

The statements of Mr. Patterson are concurred in by J. M. Boland, 213 West Broadway, who is president of the organization.

Not so many years ago gasoline was a by-product in the distillation of petroleum and was considered worthless. It was thrown away for years. It is now the mainstay of the oil industry and millions of gallons are consumed daily. This change has taken place in the last 25 years. Gasoline today is almost as great a necessity as coal.



The most close-in restricted residential tract to schools, transportation and stores in Glendale that is available.

The restrictions, assuring a fine class of homes, is a guarantee for increased valuation to all purchasers of these lots from an investment standpoint. Street work is under way and 1200 feet on Verdugo Road is now in.

We invite your inspection. Remember, the price of your lot includes all these improvements, including ornamental lights.

A number of reservations have already been made. Act Now if you wish to avail yourself of some of this desirable property. Never again will you be able to buy at our opening prices.

AMERICAN THANKSGIVING INSPIRED BY THE BIBLE

The following five verses from the 16th chapter of Deuteronomy were undoubtedly the inspiration for the American Thanksgiving:

"And thou shall keep the feast of weeks unto the Lord thy God with a triubute of a freewill offering of thine hand, which thou shalt give unto the Lord thy God, according as the Lord thy God hath blessed thee.

"And thou shall keep the feast of Lord thy God, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy manservant, and thy maidservant, and the stranger that is within thy gates, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are among you, in the place which the Lord thy God has chosen to place his name there.

"And thou shalt remember that thou wast a bondsman in Egypt; and thou shalt observe and do these statutes.

"Thou shalt observe the feast of tabernacles seven days, after that thou hast gathered in thy corn and thy wine.

"And thou shalt rejoice in thy feast, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy manservant, and thy maidservant, and the Levite, the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are within thy gate.

"Seven days shalt thou keep a solemn feast unto the Lord thy God, in the place which the Lord shall choose; because the Lord thy God shall bless thee in all thy increase, and in all the work of thine hands, therefore thou shalt surely rejoice.—Deuteronomy, Chap. 16, verses 10-15.

A patient called on a popular physician and said: "Doctor, I can't seem to get to sleep of nights."

"Insomonia, eh?" the doctor queried.

"That's it," asserted the patient.

"There are ways and means of combating that," declared the medico. "You think you are hopelessly wakeful, but mental effort has a great deal to do with getting you to sleep. Just imagine you are walking a tight rope a thousand feet from the ground. Step by step you advance on this tight rope."

"Yes?" the patient inquired.

"You'll soon drop off."

CHRISTMAS RIDE ON NEW LINE HOPE OF P. E. HATCH

If Line to Los Angeles Not Ready Then New Cars To Be Used Anyhow

"We hope to give the people of Glendale a Christmas Day ride in the new cars of the Glendale-Los Angeles line of the Glendale-Montrose Railway company," said P. L. Hatch, general manager of the Glendale-Montrose line this week. "The line to Los Angeles may not be ready by that time, but we will use the new cars on the Glendale-Montrose line anyway."

Few people realize the cost to which the Glendale-Montrose Railway company and the Union Pacific company are going in the establishment of this line. A few of the short-sighted feel that the building of this line is of little importance to Glendale. There is a revelation in store for these folks.

The cost of electrifying the Union Pacific company's line on Glendale avenue and constructing the necessary substations, etc., will reach a grand total of $413,000, according to a report issued this morning by P. L. Hatch, general manager of the Glendale-Montrose Railway company.

Of this vast amount the Union Pacific company will spent $263,000 and the Glendale-Montrose Railway company will expend $150,000.

The Glendale-Montrose company's portion will go for one freight locomotive, four passenger cars which wil have a seating capacity of 55 each, the erection of an office building and power house, and the equipping of these buildings.

The Union Pacific's share of the grand total is being expended for the actual electrification of the line, which will cost $99,000 for the roadbed and $62,000 for the stringing of the wires, and $102,000 for the establishment of a freight switching yard and the construction of a modern freight depot at the corner of Glendale avenue and Lexington.

The freight locomotive of the G. M. Company has arrived and the passenger cars are on the way. The substation and office building will be completed within 30 days and the installation of the machinery will be finished well before January 1.

The stretch of line that is being electrified is four miles long. The cross wires and trolley wires for the north two miles of this stretch are already in place, and the work of stretching the south two miles has been finished.

It is the stringing of these wires that is costing the Union Pacific company $62,000.

From Verdugo road at the south end of the line to Cerritos avenue the Union Pacific will rebuild and repair the tract, and the 60-pound rails will be maintained.

From Cerritos avenue north through Glendale avenue to Lexington the present 60-pound rails will be removed and 90-pound rails will be laid and the track will be fully ballasted with crushed rock. The strip between the tracks along this stretch will be paved with national type pavement at the same time as the paving of Glendale avenue. It is expected that this work will be started within a short time. The latest type of electrically operated switches will be used in connection with this line. It is the laying of these rails that will cost the Union Pacific $99,000.

In order to keep pace with the electric and readbed improvement and also to keep pace with the rapid industrial activity in North Glendale, the general improvements will include modern freight handling facilities and a modern freight depot. This will include the laying of 6000 feet of electrically operated station and steam trackage with extensive paving improvements. This work will be started shortly after the first of the year and all of it will be done at the site of the old depot.

The improvement of this site will make available an additional eight of the industrial sites on the property that is owned by the Union Pacific company. To each of these will be a spur track and team approaches, which facilities at this time are totally lacking, it is claimed. The station and the switching facilities will cost $102,000.

The electrification of this line will open a rich industrial territory between the cemetery property and Delay drive, a distance of two miles.

The inception of this line started in Glendale—in the brains of the officers of the Glendale-Montrose company. They voiced their ideas to the officials of the Union Pacific, who readily saw the wisdom of their arguments and conclusions.

At the time things were ready to start work on the line, namely: September 1, A. G. McGuire, assistant chief engineer of the Union Pacific company was extremely busy with other matters and for this reason he assigned the work of electrifying Glendale avenue to his assistant, A. E. Berlin, who lives on Windsor road in Glendale.

Mr. Berlin, assisted by Manager P. L. Hatch of the G.-M. company worked out all of the details of this line and has overseen the carrying out of all of these plans. To assist him he selected R. E. Mead, G. F. Souls and C. C. Clark, who have been on the job every minute. These three men worked night and day on this matter for weeks, every effort being centered on having the line in operation by January 1.

The work entailed in the construction of a line of this size is not realized by the average person. Since September 1, when the word was given to "go," there has not been an idle moment. All of the material was secured from the east, much of it had to be especially made, and all of it secured from far-away points.

GLENDALE ICE CREAM CO. IN RAPID GROWTH

Glendale's fastest growing concern! Such is the claim of the Glendale Ice Cream company located at 109 North Glendale Avenue, which serves hundreds of homes and stores throughout the San Fernando Valley with "Glendale" ice cream.

Starting less than two years ago on a small scale, and using but one light delivery truck, the concern has grown to such an extent that five two-ton trucks, with special refrigerator bodies, have been added, making a complete delivery service which is kept busy night and day, filling the hundreds of orders which come in daily. The cream is served at nearly every fountain in Glendale, and several private trucks sell it around to the homes. The present quarters have been outgrown, and the company is now making plans for their removal to a new and larger building.

Catering is a specialty, fancy ices and ice cream novelties being manufactured to order for parties, etc.

"More than $15,000 in new machinery has been added during the past year, and more will soon be needed," states E. G. Herring, one of the proprietors. "With the steady increase in business which we have enjoyed, still booming, our present equipment will soon be too small. Our entire success is attributed to the wonderful backing given us by Glendale merchants, and we owe them the thanks for our business."

Fred H. Roberts, of the drug firm of Roberts and Echols, is the other owner.

"My dear," said the newly married man to his wife, "where did all these books on astronomy come from? They are not ours."

"A pleasant little surprise for you," remarked his wife. "You know, my dear, you said we ought to study astronomy, and so I went to the bookseller's and bought everything I could on the subject."

It was some minutes before he spoke. "My dear, he said then, his voice husky with emotion: "I never said we must study astronomy; I said we must study economy."

RIGHTFUL USE OF MONEY AS ESSENTIAL AS SAVING

By S. W. STRAUS,
President American Society for Thrift.

WHAT is thrift? Does it mean anything more than just saving money?

S. W. STRAUS

Recently an elderly lady in New York lost her life-time savings of $500 which she was carrying in a bag sewed in her clothing.

Postmaster General New made the statement not long ago that $1,000,000,000 a year is lost by the people of the United States who purchase fraudulent securities through the mail—an amount, by the way, equal to two-thirds of the estimated total cost of government in the United States, including Federal, county, city, town and village expenses.

The newspapers frequently tell us of cases where savings have been swept away through carelessness or cupidity.

What, therefore, did these persons gain by saving their money? Would they not have been just as well off had they spent their funds as they earned them? These questions, which quite naturally arise in the minds of many, are an indication of the need of a more general understanding of real thrift.

It is thrifty to save money. It is just as much a part of thrift to know what to do with it after it has been saved.

These facts point the way to one of our greatest public duties.

Our government is doing everything it can to encourage the saving of money. Our banks are making similar laudable efforts. In our schools, children are being taught to save. School savings banks are growing rapidly all over the country.

But not enough is being done and said to bring out the fact that the right care and use of savings constitutes a vital part of thrift practice.

A billion dollars a year, absolutely thrown away, is a heavy penalty to pay for national ignorance in the science of personal management.

Though possessing web feet the web-footed mole is not an aquatic animal, but spends its life underground.

Riches may have wings, but poverty is seldom a quitter.

FORMAL OPENING OF SANITARIUM ABOUT FEB. 1

Will Be Largest of Its Kind In The World

The formal apening of the wonderful new home of the Glendale Sanitarium company, located on the heights of East Glendale, overlooking Glendale and the San Fernando valley, will be held about February 1, 1924, according to an announcement just made by C. E. Kimlin, business manager of that company.

The work of finishing this mammoth building, which when completed will be the largest of its kind in the United States, is rapidly going on. In many of the rooms the interior woodwork is about completed while in some others the painting operation is under way. Within a few weeks the building will take on a finished appearance and before many more moons the company will have taken possession of its permanent, magnificent home.

Remarkable progres is being made in the construction of the new Glendale sanitarium building that is being located on a wonderful knoll in the eastern section of the city, which site commands a view, not only of this valley, but of the country beyond and even the blue waters of the Pacific.

Work on this building was started about February 1. The average working force, thus far, has been 133 men, and it is believed that this crew will be maintained through the entire erection of this building.

The new building faces southwest and the size of the ground floor is 44x415 feet. The floor space in this and adjoining building will be 138,000 square feet, this being divided as follows: Main building, 101,000 feet; hydro-theraphy, 21,000 feet; medical building, 16,000 feet.

This building will cost more than $700,000. It is being located on a 28-acre piece of ground, the front three acres of which are being reserved for a beautiful park.

Throughout, this building is of concrete, brick, steel and hollow tile, the latter being used to eliminate weight—all of this material being absolutely fireproof. In this building the following amounts of the various materials will be used: 2,000,000 brick, 300,000 tile in partitions and 80,000 tile in the floors. These are 12x12 inches in size and are of red clay. There will be 50,000 yards of plastered walls. In the pouring of the concrete a one-fourth yard mixer is used, this mixing 15 yards of sand, 5 yards of rock and 5 yards of cement. From the mixer this concrete is lifted to the desired floor by a power elevator. H. B. Brigham has complete charge of the concrete, brick, and plaster work.

In this building there are 30,000 feet of electric conduit, four and a half miles of which was delivered on the job in a single day. The electrical features in this building will be a telephone in each room, electric lights, a silent nurse call system, a radio in each room, a telephone connection with the parlor and music room. The latter two will be arranged so that the operator may at will connect with the separte rooms with either the parlor or music room, where occasional concerts will be held, or the outside world via radio. The electrical work in this building is being taken care of by A. R. McElhany.

All of the rooms in this building have outside exposures, this referring to even the basement where the several bed wards will be placed. Each room will be provided with lavatory and toilet, and one-third of the rooms will have private baths. The plumbing work, which is being done under the personal supervision of P. E. Swanson, is modern in the truest sense of the word. The plumbing and the conduit containing the electric wiring are placed in position and the concrete is poured around them.

W. D. Jones has complete charge of the plaining mill, which is as complete as any similar plant in Glendale. Every stick of lumber that goes into this building and every feature, such as window frames, door casings and like, is cut and formed in this mill and when taken on the job is the proper length or size for installation; except for any minor changes that may be ordered. During a tour of the building recently, the writer could find but one saw. Electric motors totaling 47-horsepower are maintaining in this mill.

The main floor of this building will be taken up by offices, kitchen, dining-room and other features, and also many patient rooms; the second and third floors will be given over to patient rooms, while the basement, or ground floor, will be taken up by wards, storage rooms, etc. In all there will be 129 separate patient rooms, with accommodations for 30 in the wards.

The main entrance to the building will be in the center of the south-west side. The lobby will be in the center of the south-west side. The lobby will be 34x50 feet in size and will be beautifully arranged and luxuriantly furnished. At the rear of the lobby will be the parlor, 47x52 feet, with wide fireplace, etc., this room to be plastered and have beamed ceiling. On one side of the rear of the lobby will be a wide staircase leading to the floors above, and at the opposite side will be a passenger elevator, a freight lift, a dumb-waiter, linen chute, etc.

Next to the parlor, at the rear of the building, it the dining-room, 38x71 feet, which will be plastered and have beamed ceiling, this room to accommodate 160 people at a sitting. Adjoining the dining-room will be the kitchen, 40x47 feet, spacious and fully equipped in every way. This will have a wall of glazed brick, with brown brick wainscoat. Including the employees there will be between 300 and 400 people to cook for in this establishment. From the lobby there will be two doors leading to the parlor and one to the dining-room. Offices for the manager and clerks are located adjoining the lobby.

Also on the main floor will be two diet kitchens, where special meals are prepared; a fully-equipped prescription room, physicians' office, with a call-board for the head nurse. On each floor there will be a service room, 18x34 feet. Everything in the way of service for the entire building will be provided for these rooms. On this floor, also, will be a number of rooms for patients.

The second and third floors are taken up entirely by patients' rooms, from each of which will be an unsurpassed view.

On the roof there will be a large sun porch, 52x106 feet in size. This will be enclosed entirely by French doors, and on either side of this will be a promenade, 44x133 feet in size.

The ends of the basement, or ground floor, will be taken up by wards, each of which will contain several beds. Between these will be the storage department, storage vault, the utility vault being located immediately above on the main floor. These will be fireproof and as nearly burglar-proof as possible. The employees' cafeteria will also be located on the ground floor, adjoining which will be a kitchen supply room and the office of the stock buyer.

Close to the main building, at the rear, will be the hydro-therapy structure, 52x152 feet in size, where all of the baths will be lacated, the elevator from all floors operating between the main building and the bathhouse.

Beside the hydro-therapy building, will be the section containing the physicians' offices, there being private rooms for ten doctors, a medical office, which will be complete in every detail, an office for the dietician, a pharmacy, X-ray room, professional library for the physicians, etc. On the ground floor of this building will be the storage rooms for the medical and hospital departments.

This building will be one of the most complete of its kind in the United States. It was designed by Alfred Priest, local architect. It is a model in arrangement and, being entirely fireproof, could not be surpassed for the purpose for which it is intended so far as capacity is concerned.

The business end of the construction is being taken care of by C. E. Kimlin, busines manager of the Glendale Sanitarium Company, while W. E. Covert is office manager of the new plant.

The present hospital, located at the corner of Jackson and Wilson, which is owned and operated by the Glendale Sanitarium Company, will be retained for surgical and emergency work.

GREAT DEMAND FOR PROPERTY ON E. BROADWAY

The demand for East Broadway properties has become so great that William H. Mills, prominent and successful realtor at 326, has added and is now fully preparew to handle andis now fuly prepared to handle all listings and sales of property in that section. W. J. McHenry and W. L. Kelley are the new salesmen.

"Invest in East Broadway property now." That was Mr. Mills' reply to inquiry regarding investments for quick profit. Commenting on East Broadway, Mr. Mills continued— "The recent tremendous increase in motor traffic on East Broadway signifies that the motoring public has learned that Broadway is the broadest, smoothest, and most direct thoroughfare leading from our business center to Pasadena and other foothill cities.

"Business on East Broadway is a reality. It is here now. We have almost daily inquiries for store rooms fronting on East Broadway and are compelled to urge builders to speed up on operations to meet this constant demand. Of the many Broadway business blocks recently constructed it has been the rule to find the entire space leased before completion.

"The owners of the southeast corner of Louise and Broadway have just signified their intention of erecting a modern business block there in the near future. Other similar improvements are contemplated, but the demand for leases in this section of town remains constantly in excess of the supply.

"The new Glendale avenue car line will create a transfer point at the intersection of Broadway, with resulting enhancement in value in this vicinity.

"With the marvelous growth of Glendale in all directions, I believe our two chief business centers will remain on Broadway and combine into one enormous business section in a very short time."

Mr. Mills has been in the real estate business in Glendale for quite a while. He is an old resident.

W. E. MERCER IS OLD RESIDENT EAST BROADWAY

One of East Broadway's most progressive realtors is W. E. Mercer, located at 624 East Broadway. He is a strong booster for that section of Glendale. Specializing on property in the eastern part of the city, Mr. Mercer has some exceptionallay fine listings, which, he states, are bound to increase nearly double during the coming 12 months.

"East Broadway is the fastest growing section of the fastest growing city in the United States," was Mr. Mercer's statement on inquiry as to values in property on that thoroughfare. "Values are increasing every day, and with the electrification of the Salt Lake line on Glendale avenue by the Glendale and Montrose railway, the boost in prices will be even greater. My advice to investors is to get in on property in this section now, and reap big profits from your investment."

Mr. Mercer is an old resident of this city and has seen the great increase in property value, and understands the real estate business from all angles. His experience will aid you in making your investment pay the maximum in a minimum time.

J. C. Klamm One of Poineers of East Broadway

J. C. Klamm, proprietor of the Klamm Jewelry store at 600 East Broadway, is a great booster for East Broadway, having been in business in that section for several years. Mr. Klamm is an optician and jeweler of long experience, both in Glendale and in the east, and his repair work is guaranteed.

A splendid stock of high grade Christmas jewelry is now on hand and early shoppers will find splendid selections and gift suggestions in the windows and show cases of this store. The recent failure of a first class diamond dealer in the east gave Mr. Klamm a smart reduction on some beautiful, perfect cut blue diamonds, all of which are offered at very low figures. All watches and other fine jewelry are offered at prices consistent with the market, and the present complete stock should be nearly exhausted before the holiday rush is

Modern Version of New Testament

By EDGAR J. GOODSPEED

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MARK

"After me htere is coming one stronger than I am, one whose shoes I am not fit to stoop down and untie. I have baptized you in water, but he will baptize you in the holy Spirit."

It was in those days that Jesus came from Nazareth in Galilee, and was baptized by John in the Jordan. And just as he was coming up out of the water he saw the heavens torn open and the Spirit coming down like a dove to enter into him, and out of the heavens came a voice:

"You are my Son, my Beloved! You are my Chosen!"

After John was arrested, Jesus went into Galilee proclaiming the good news from God, saying,

"The time has come and the reign of God is near; repent, and believe this good news."

As he was passing along the shore of the Sea of Galilee, he saw Simon and his brother Andrew casting their nets in the sea, for they were fishermen. Jesus said to them,

"Come, follow me, and I will make you fish for men."

They immediately abandoned their nets and followed him. He went on a little farther and saw Jesus, the son of Zebedee, and his brother John; they too were in their boat putting their nets in order. He immediately called them. And they left their father Zebedee in the boat with the hired men and went off after him.

They proceeded to Capernaum, and on the very first Sabbath he went to the synagogue and taught. And they were amazed at his teaching, for he taught them like one who had authority, and not like the scribes. Just then there was in their synagogue a man under the control of a foul spirit, and he cried out,

"What do you want of us, Jesus, you Nazarene? Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are, you are God's holy One!"

Jesus reproved him, and said,

"Silence! Get out of him!"

The foul spirit convulsed the man and gave a loud cry and went out of him. And they wereall so amazed that they discussed it with one another, and said,

"What does this mean? It is a new teaching! He gives orders with authority even to the foul spirits, and they obey him!"

And his fame immediately spread in all directions through the whole neighborhood of Galilee.

As soon as they left the synagogue, they went with James and John to the house of Simon and Andrew. Simon's mother-in-law was in bed, sick with a fever, and they immediately told him about her. And he went up to her, and grasping her hand, he made her rise. And the fever left her, and she waited on them.

In the evening, after sunset, they brought to him all who were sick or possessed by demons, and the whole town was gathered at the door. And he cured many who were sick with various diseases, and drove out many demons, and he would not let the demons speak, because they knew that he was Christ.

Early in the morning, long before daylight, he got up and left the house and went off to a lonely spot, and prayed there. And Simon and his companions sought him out and found him, and said to him,

"They are all looking for you!"

He said to them,

"Let us go somewhere else, to the neighboring country towns, so that I may preach in them, too, for that is why I came out here."

So he went all through Galilee, preaching in their synagogues and driving out the demons.

There came to him a leper appealing to him on his knees, saying to him,

"If you only choose, you can cure me."

And he pitied him and stretched out his hand and touched him, and said to him,

"I do choose! Be cured!"

And the leprosy immediately left him, and he was cured. And Jesus immediately drove him away with stern injunctions, saying to him,

"See that you say nothing about this to anybody, but be one! show yourself to the priest, and in proof of your cure make the offerings for your purification which Moses prescribed."

But he went off and began to talk so much about it, and to spread the story so widely, that Jesus could no longer go into a town openly, but stayed out in unfrequented places, and people came to him from every direction.

Some days later he came back to Capernaum, and people heard that he was at home, and such a crowd gathered that after a while there was no room even around the door, and he was telling them his message. And some people came bringing to him a man who was paralyzed, four of them carrying him. As they could not get him near Jesus on account of the crowd, they broke open the roof just over his head, and through the opening they lowered the mat with the paralytic lying on it. When Jesus saw their faith, he said to the paralytic,

"My son, your sins are forgiven."

There were some scribes sitting there pondering and saying to themselves,

"Why does this man talk so? This is blasphemy! Who can forgive sins but God alone?"

Jesus, at once perceiving by his spirit that they were pondering over this, said to them,

"Why do you ponder over this in your minds? Which is easier, to say to this paralytic, 'Your sins are forgiven,' or to say to him, 'Get up and pick up your mat and walk'? But to let you know that the Son of Man has authority to forgive sins on earth," turning to the paralytic he said, "I tell you, get up, pick up your mat, and go home!"

And he got up, and immediately picked up his mat and went out before them all, so that they were all astonished and acknowledged the power of God, saying,

"We never saw anything like this before."

He went out of the town again and along the shore, and all the people came to him and he taught them. And as he was passing along he saw Levi, the son of Alpheus, sitting at the tollhouse, and he said to him,

"Follow me."

And he got up and followed him.

He was at table in his house, with many tax-collectors and irreligious people who were at table with him and his disciples, for there were many of them, among his followers. And when the scribes who were of the Pharisees' party saw that he was eating with irreligious people and tax-collectors, they said to his disciples,

"Why does he eat with tax-collectors and irreligious people?"

Jesus heard it, and said to them,

"It is not well people but the sick who have to have the doctor. I do not come to invite the pious but the irreligious."

Now John's disciples and the Pharisees were keeping a fast. And the people came and asked him,

"Why is it that when John's disciples and the disciples of the Pharisees are keeping the fast, yours are not keeping it?"

Jesus said to them,

EAST SIDE ASSET IS JEWEL CITY PLUMBING CO.

The Jewel City Plumbing company, 526 East Broadway, is a big asset to the eastern section of the city, being not only the largest establishment of its kind on East Broadway, but also one of the biggest in the entire city. Starting a little more than a year ago, the business has been on a steady increase, the present quarters being crowded due to the large rush of trade. At the present time there are contracts being filled for the plumbing work on more than one hundred houses and apartments in Glendale and vicinity. The largest plumbing ever done in Glendale is now being worked on by this company, namely the large 80-room apartment house at 312 North Central avenue. More than 20 men are in the employ of this company and are kept busy at all times taking care of the many contracts.

The proprietors, F. R. Bruner, G. L. Berryman and L. A. Richards, base their great growth on the wonderful service, quality and value given, which they have always maintained during their business in Glendale. All three men were formerly in business for themselves in this city, and the uniting of the three brought the trade of three plumbing establishments into one, which rapidly grew to be what it is today.

Only the highest grades of fixtures, parts, pipe, etc. are handled, the famous Mueller faucets and brass work being carried exclusively. This brand of fine faucets is known the world over for its quality and long life, the guarantee stating that the Mueller faucet will last as long as the building itself, and it never needs a new washer. The local firm states that the cost for these is a trifle more than for cheaper grades of faucets, but the long life and entire absence of repair bills make them absolutely the best on the market. The Pacific line of fixtures is handled and according to Mr. Bruner, they are the best obtainable, being made of high-grade materials, and also bearing a guarantee similar to that of the Mueller faucet.

The Jewel City Plumbing company is local agent for the Ward gas floor heater, the manufacturers of which are contemplating the erection of a first-class factory on San Fernando road. The territory of the local firm covers Glendale, Eagle Rock and Burbank.

The firm handles everything in the plumbing line. Estimates are cheerfully given without obligation, and anyone contemplating a plumbing job is urged to investigate the prices and service of this firm.

DUNCAN & HENRY FULL OF OPTIMISM

The Duncan & Henry Realty company, located at 415 East Broadway invites the public of Glendale to call at the office and learn the latest developments on the east side. "The new car line on Glendale avenue will soon be running," stated Mr. Henry, "making that section of the city fully as important in a few years as Brand boulevard is today. The new postoffice will soon be under construction at the corner of Broadway and Jackson, Glendale avenue is soon to be payed and artistically lighted, and the new hotel at the corner of Glendale avenue and East Broadway will soon be a reality, forming a great business center for this section of town."

Everyone in Glendale knows of the great possibilities of East Broadway, and the wise investor is putting his money into this section.

WOODBURY HEIGHTS SELLING VERY FAST

T. W. Watson, of the Watson Realty company, 708 East Broadway, is selling agent for the famous hill-top subdivision, Woodbury Heights, which is located on Verdugo road just north of Lexington. "With business rapidly coming to the eastern section of the city, this subdivision is enhancing in value at a very fast rate," states Mr. Watson. "The new high school, located just three blocks from this tract, is a great asset, and this subdivision is rapidly selling out, more than half the lots being already sold."

'WOODLANDS' IS GRATIFIED OVER IMPROVEMENTS

No time has been wasted by the Verdugo Woodlands Improvement Association in superflunous meetings but it is neverless a live organization with reason for thanksgiving over improvements about to be realized.

Foremost among these is the near completion of the extension of the Glendale-Montrose electric line, which will connect it with the yellow car line of Los Angeles and give this section first place among the residential districts of the city because of its superior transportation facilities. When the extension is in operation, 20-minute service will be given. Passengers can transfer to the P. E. line at the corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway, as now, and transfers will be given to the Eagle Rock line which will carry students and others to Wilson avenue and Verdugo road, but one block from the new High schol.

Besides this trolley line, the district will also have greatly improved bus service through the recent purchase of the bus line of the Verugo Hills Transportation company by the wealthy corporation operating "The Original Stage Line" which plies between San Francisco and Los Angeles. This company has long had its eye on the territory included in the the Verdugo canyon and has announced that it will invest $100,000 in stages of the most up-to-date type and will give frequent service to Verdugo Woodlands and the upcountry districts as soon as the new buses can be manufactured and delivered.

Verdugo Woodlands is of course interested in a sewer system and was the first district to show its enterprise along this line by voting bonds for the laying of a sewer main on La Canada and the installation of a septic tank disposal plant. The main is in but owing to various legal technicalities laterals have not been laid on cross streets nor the plant been put in operation. Members are impatient for this to be done as they desire street improvements and naturally want this preliminary work accomplished. Petitions have already been circulated for the improvement of Del Valle.

Another matter of prime interest to association members is better street lighting. At the present time there are lights on La Canada and on Hermosita drive but none on the cross streets at the upper end of the tract. Petitions will probably be circulated for improvement along this line.

The association is an informal organization with an enrollment of about 150 members. W. A. Graves of Glorietta avenue is the president and Mrs. J. R. Butler of Del Valle, secretary-treasurer. Meetings are held at the call of the president.

Been At It In One Place For Last 15 Years Has McGee

East Broadway claims the oldest dry goods merchant in Glendale, in the person of R. M. McGee, who has been in this business in the same building at 612 East Broadway for the past fifteen years.

The business has grown with Glendale, and the little store is crowded with hundreds of values in dry goods and ladies and gents furnishings, with a full line of high grade shoes. The stock is now complete with holiday goods, all at great savings to the buyer. High grade shirts, ties, shoes, etc. for "his Christmas" may be found, while the ladies furnishings stock is also fully complete. Draperies and yard goods are offered at remarkably low prices, and a large rush in business is expected during the coming month until Christmas. The store is located just across the street from the City Hall, and early Christmas shoppers should avail themselves of the present complete stock and low prices.

All classes of Glendale property are handled by this firm, East Broadway lots being featured. Mr. Watson is an old resident of Glendale, having lived here about 20 years. Before going into the real estate business two years ago, he was manager of the city of Glendale, and he is very well known and liked in this city.

We offer thanks—

New Factories Spring Up on the South Side of Glendale

WORK STARTED ON BIG BUILDING IN SOUTH END

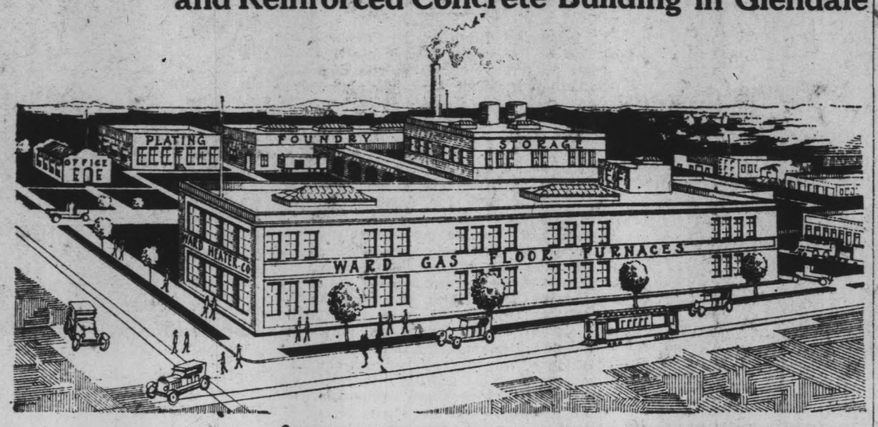
Work was started last week on a two-story, class A building on the northwest corner of Central and Los Feliz Road, being erected by the Kaeding Construction Company of Glendale for W. T. Jefferson, a prominent business man of Pasadena.

The building, when completed, will contain a large market space on the corner, with three smaller store rooms adjoining. Upstairs will be high class office rooms, and apartments, making one of the most up-to-date buildings in the southern part of Glendale.

The construction will be of brick and hollow tile, following strictly modern lines, and a beautiful tile roof will grace the front part of the building. It has a frontage of eighty-six feet on Central avenue, while sixty-five feet face on Los Feliz Road.

Mr. Jefferson, commenting on the building, stated that he considers the old Tropico section the fastest developing section of the city, and is a great booster for that part of Glendale. Although no leases have as yet been sold, the market space has been spoken for, and the offices and apartments will no doubt be taken before the entire completion of the building, which is slated for soon after the first of the year.

Ward Gas Floor Furnace Company to Erect Brick and Reinforced Concrete Building in Glendale



According to the Jewel City Plumbing company, 526 East Broadway, local representatives for the Ward Gas floor furnace, plans are being completed by the main office in Los Angeles for the erection of a brick and reinforced concrete structure, to be erected on San Fernando road, in the South Glendale industrial section. The group of buildings will contain 53,650 square feet of floor space, and include foundry, plating plant, assembly plant, storage warehouse, and administration offices, and this increase in working space will make the third move necessary by the company during the past five years in order to meet the great demand.

Samuel Sproat, president and general manager of the company, states that approximately $250,000 will be spent in the erection of these buildings in the new plant, and it is a great industry for Glendale. Another site in Los Angeles is under consideration, but the San Fernando road offers the best advantages, according to Mr. Sproat, due to the proximity of the Southern Pacific, which will run a spur track to the factory. There is sufficient land in the property to allow for further expansion if necessary.

The new plant will be the largest in the world devoted exclusively to the manufacture of gas floor furnaces, and will have a capacity of 500 heaters a day. The warehouse will permit the storage of more than 20,000 of the furnaces.

According to Mr. Sproat, the demand for Ward heaters, which five years ago was purely local, has extended all over the United States, and to many foreign countries. Hundreds are sold every year in Montana and Wyoming, where temperatures go lower than 36 degrees below zero. The business is rapidly growing in the west, due in a great measure to the low freight rates obtainable by shipping through the Panama canal. The increase in export business is particularly noticeable in shipments to New Zealand and Australia, where the variance of climatic conditions requires a strong heat in winter.

"Gas heating is here to stay," stated Mr. Sproat. "Our engineers tell us that if all the power of Niagra Falls was curbed, it would not be sufficient by itself to furnish heat to a city the size of Buffalo. The constant development of natural gas in many fields together with the improved methods that are delivering artificial gas cheaply, are decided factors in the favor of gas heating."

Mr. Bruner, of the Jewel City Plumbing company, states that his firm has had large calls from hotels, large apartment houses, and office buildings, as well as hundreds of homes for individual heating plants in each room, as the unit system is looked on as an assurance of heat whenever desired, and not subject to the whims and feelings of the janitor. The demand is for heaters of the Ward type, which heat space without taking air from the room for the combustion of the gas. The Ward engineers are now at work on the problem, and the desired heater is expected to be completed within the next 90 days.

As soon as a few preliminary plans are worked out, construction on the plant will start, possibly within the next two weeks. These will be completed as rapidly as possible, as the factory is at present falling behind in supplying the demand, and the additional working space is needed at once to overcome this condition.

GLENDALE TAVERN SHOW PLACE OF CITY

The Glendale Tavern, high-class restaurant on San Fernando road at Park avenue, which opened several weeks ago, is now flourishing, and is enjoying a good and promising business. The entire building which houses this beautiful restaurant was remodeled and redecorated under the personal supervision of the two proprietors, Wm. Schneider and H. B. Devine, and is one of the show places of Southern California. A beautiful lawn, studded with shrubs and bordered with flowers graces the "front yard," while ample parking space is provided in the rear for a great many machines. Dancing and other entertainment are features of the evening dinner, music lasting until midnight for those who care to dance.

Both proprietors are restaurant men of long experience, both here and in the east. Mr. Schneider has been a Southern California resident since 1893, in which year he opened the Palace Cafe in Los Angeles. In 1904 he opened the famous Bristol Cafe on the Ocean Park pier, which was razed by fire several years later. Up until the time of the opening of the Tavern, he was proprietor of the Cafe Bristol in the H. W. Hellman building in Los Angeles.

Mr. Devine moved to San Diego in 1911, where he was engaged in the hotel and restaurant business for eight years. During the past four years he has been connected with the J. & D. Bakery in Los Angeles, and his experience in this line will insure excellent hospitality and the best in pastries. The restaurant is a great asset and booster for the southern section of Glendale, and, in fact, is a great help to the entire city and San Fernando Valley.

BALDWIN SHIRT CO. RUNNING ON CAPACITY BASIS

Geo. B. Karr, manager of the Baldwin Shirt company, 1725 South Brand, announces that his high grade shirt factory is running on a capacity basis, orders flowing in daily and keeping the entire force busier than busy filling them. Specializing on tailor made shirts exclusively, the company has grown to a great extent during its three years of business in Glendale. Shirts of any desired material are made especially to your order, fit, workmanship, and goods being guaranteed to give the maximum of service.

Several new importations have just arrived and a great demand is on for these, to be finished in time for Christmas. A tailor-made shirt makes an excellent gift, according to Mr. Karr, which will be greatly appreciated by the receiver. Even the most minute details are carried out in the tailoring of these shirts, cuffs, collars, and pockets being made in any desired style. Orders placed later than December 15 cannot be guaranteed delivery in time for the Christmas tree, but orders placed now will be given prompt attention.

GENE MORRIS SYSTEM USED BY C. H. ARBENZ

C. H. Arbenz, who has an auto paint and polish shop at 747 South San Fernando road, has recently adopted the Gene Morris system of auto painting, by which process a one-day service is offered.

The Gene Morris system of one-day auto painting is not a new experiment but is the result of 28 years of practical painting experience. This is not of local origin, all rights being reserved and controlled by a well-known and financially strong company. The plants now using this system extend from coast to coast. "The entire operation of making your car look like new is carried on within 24 hours," states Mr. Arbenz, "complete from the removing of the old paint and applying the undercoats, to putting on the final gloss, saving several days of time unusually needed in ordinary paint shops."

Only the highest grades of materials known to the high-class auto painting industry are used, and the work is absolutely guaranteed against cracking and peeling. The gloss is also guaranteed to hold its lustre almost indefinitely.

The albatross is seldom found on land save in the breeding season.

RUSSELL-PIERCE FURNITURE CO. ENLARGES SPACE

The Russell-Pierce Furniture company, 1529-1531 San Fernando road, growing with South Glendale, has just added eighteen hundred feet of extra floor space to their already large store to be used in the display of their high grade furniture. This was an absolute necessity, due to the great growth of the business which they have enjoyed during the past few months.

An entirely new stock has just been received from one of the largest furniture factories in the east, and a complete line of fine home furnishings are now on display.

High grade over-stuffed suites are being featured at special prices, these making desirable Christmas gifts; in fact, something that would be appreciated by the entire family, due to their home beautifying qualities. Many beautiful styles are offered, and they are made of the finest materials the eastern market affords.

Many beautiful lamps are in stock, both standards and shades being featured, these also making excellent gifts for the holidays. Smoking stands, end tables, footstools, and other novelties are offered.

Although being a South Glendale business, and boosting that section of town, the firm does not cater only to residents of that part of Glendale, but solicits the trade of the entire city and also the San Fernando Valley.

The owners and proprietors, L. W. Russell and Ralph Pierce are both Glendale men, the former living at 901 East Orange Grove avenut, while Mr. Pierce has rooms at the local Elks club, of which lodge both are members.

Snails sold on the streets in Italy are grown especially for the market, being fed principally on lettuce.

NEW S. P. DEPOT NEARLY READY FOR THE FINISH

Things are almost ready for the finishing touches to be put on the new Southern Pacific depot for Glendale, which is being constructed at the foot of Cerritos avenue in South Glendale. There are few, apparently, who are aware of the stage of the work on this structure, but that it is nearly completed was learned by the Daily Press reporter who secured a few facts concerning the new building recently:

Work on this structure was started about September 15, since which time rapid steps have been taken toward completing the building as soon as possible.

It was estimated yesterday by B. F. Baum, contractor, that the station will be completed and ready for use by the first of the year.

This new depot is 303 feet long, 24 feet wide and is costing $60,000. It is divided into freight and passenger departments. The passenger section comprises a large waiting room, 24x50 feet, as well as private and ticket offices and the like, while the freight portion, which is 22x60 feet in size, is all in one room.

The building is being made of re-inforced concrete with Spanish Pitula exterior, there being considerable fancy stonework used in the structure. According to the contractor it will be one of the most atractive waiting stations in this section of the country.

Best crockery and glassware in the world for wear is made in the United States, say government scientists.

THE PRESIDENT ISSUES ANNUAL PROCLAMATION

ing message follows—every person in this nation should read it:

"The American people, from their earliest days have observed the wise custom of acknowledging each year the bounty with which Divine Providence has favored them. In the beginnings, this acknowledgment was a voluntary return of thanks by the community for the fruitlessness of the harvest. Though our mode of life has greatly changed, this custom has always survived. It has made Thanksgiving Day not only one of the oldest but one of the most characteristic observances of our country. On that day, in home and church, in family and in public gatherings, the whole nation has for generations paid the tribute due from grateful hearts for blessings bestowed.

"To center our thought in this way upon the favor which we have been shown has been altogether wise and desirable. It has given opportunity justly to balance the good and the evil which we have experienced. In that we have never failed to find reasons for being grateful to God for a generous preponderance of the good. Even in the least propitious times a broad contemplation of our whole position has never failed to disclose overwhelming reasons for thankfulness. Thus viewing our situation, we have found warrant for a more hopeful and confident attitude toward the future.

"In this current year we now approach the time which has been accepted by custom as most fitting for the calm survey of our estate and the return of thanks. We shall the more keenly realize our good fortune if we, in deep sincerity, give to it due thought and more especially, if we will compare it with that of any other community in the world.

"The year has brought to our people two tragic experiences which have deeply affected them. One was the death of our beloved President Harding, which has been mourned wherever there is a realization of the worth of high ideals, noble purpose and unselfish service carried ever to the end of supreme sacrifice. His loss recalled the nation to a less captious and more charitable attitude. It sobered the whole thought of the country. A little later came the unparalleled disaster to the friendly people of Japan. This called forth from the people of the United States a demonstration of deep and humane feeling. It was wrought into the substance of good works. It created new evidences of our international friendship which is a guarantee of world peace. It replenished the charitable impulse of the country.

"By experience such as these, men and nations are tested and refined. We have been blessed with much of material prosperity. We shall be better able to appreciate it if we remember the privitations others have suffered and we shall be the more worthy of it if we use it for their relief. We will do well then to render thanks for the good that has come to us and show by our actions that we have become stronger, wiser and truer by the chastenings which have been imposed upon us. We will thus prepare ourselves for the part we must have in a world which forever needs the full measure of service. We have been a most favored people. We ought to be a most generous people. We have been a most blessed people. We ought to be a most thankful people.

"Wherefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States, do hereby fix and designate Thursday, the 29th day of November, as Thanksgiving Day and recommend its general observance throughout the land. It is urged that the people gather in their homes and their usual places of worship, give expression to their gratitude for the benefits and blessings that a gracious providence has bestowed upon them and seek the guidance of Almighty God that they may deserve a continuance of his favor. In witness wherefore, I have hereunto set my hand caused to be affixed the great seal of the United States.

"Done at the city of Washington, this fifth day of November in the year of Our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three, and of the Independence of the United States, the one hundred and forty-eighth.

"CALVIN COOLIDGE."

LEWIS JEWELRY CO. OUTGROWS ITS QUARTERS

The Lewis Jewelry Co. of 133 North Brand Boulevard, in the Palace Grand Shops, has outgrown its present quarters during its year of business, and have taken over the lease of Hesche's Shoe Store, in the shop just behind them. They will make the necessary changes at once in order to have this new addition to help care for the big Christmas rush which is expected.

Starting in business less than a year ago, the firm has grown to such an extent that this addition was an absolute necessity, and Mr. Butler, manager, announces that they will soon be ready to continue their great business, serving the people better, and allowing more space for the display of their wonderful values in high grade jewelry.

A complete stock of fine holiday diamonds, watches, and novelty jewelry has just been received, and the suggestion of the company is "get yours early while the selection is complete."

PURITAN MOTHERS VERSUS MODERN DAUGHTERS

Is Woman of Today Pampered Idler Compared With Colonial Dame?

Should we be thankful that women of this day are not called upon to exhibit the same sort of fortitude and courage displayed by the Puritan women who participated in the first celebration of Thanksgiving on this continent, those women who crossed unknown, almost unchartered seas to a strange land on "a stern and rock-bound coast?" We think of the things their unaccustomed hands were called upon to do in the then western wilderness and wonder how they accomplished them.

Many generations were to pass before women were emancipated from the domestic industries practiced at their firesides. Our great grandmothers remember when the thread they used was spun at home from raw cotton and when all the processes which converted the wool from the backs of sheep that pastured on rocky hillsides, to the yarn from which the stockings were knit and the homespun cloth woven, were parts of the farm work. With needle, thimble and shears mother had to be tailor as well as dressmaker, and these were the lighter phases of her manual labor. Her unpainted floors, uncarpeted save for the braided rugs she fashioned or the pelts she helped to tan, had frequently to be scrubbed and for labor saving she sometimes sanded them in patterns. Eating and drinking were among the prime pleasures as well as necessities of life and over these she presided. Many of her materials were in crude form. She manufactured her own butter and cheese, she superintended the preservation of the farm killed meats, the sap of the maple trees she boiled down into sugar, she dried her own apples and berries. She was also instructor in the household arts, teaching her daughters to make the linen with which their hope chests were stocked.

When it was time to outfit the family to shoes, the village shoemaker was summoned. He brought his bench, tools and lasts and worked beside her kitchen fire using cowhide and calveskin leather made from hides grown upon the farm and treated at the village tannery.

The "garden sass" and the flowers that gladdened the home life were of her cultivation, the men folks being too busy with real crops to lend a hand to such trifles.

These wonderfully endowed and capable mothers of big families seem to have been fairly intelligent too on world affairs and current colonial topics, if we can judge by the private letters and histories they have left to us. I wonder how we, in our gas heated, electric lighted houses, floored with hard woods which must never have contact with water, with our vacuum cleaners, with nearly everything that we eat and wear from pies to shoes, brought from the store in finished form, would compare with those efficient maids and matrons. A visitor from Mars who had witnessed both estates might think woman had been translated from a hall of drudgery to a heaven of idleness. But appearances are often deceptive. Perhaps women work just as hard now as they did in the days of the pilgrim mothers but in ways less crude. The sex differentiation in labor has to an immeasurable extent disappeared with the evolution of industry from the home to the factory, and men and women are reaching a common plane from which to dominate matter. They are learning to share their activities, physical, mental, spiritual. With the acceptance of individual independence of thought and action has come comradeship in business and social life as well as in marriage.

Wild, common or card teazel is largely cultivated in the western part of England for use in woolen mills.

GOLDEN WEST NURSERY ENJOYS FINE BUSINESS

The Golden West Nursery, of which R. H. Thompson is proprietor, located at 1918 South San Fernando road, is enjoying a wonderful run of business at the present time, the demand nearly exceeding the supply. The nursery, which occupies nearly an acre of ground, is well stocked with high grade shrubbery, seeds, deciduous trees, palms, and many other similar goods, and is one of the best equipped nurseries in Glendale.

"Our big specialty at the present time is landscape gardening," states Mr. Thompson, and we are prepared to lay out and submit plans on all classes of landscape work, whether large or small. Our stock is only the best, making this firm the ideal place to fill your gardening and nursery needs.

"Our customers are very much impressed with the excellence of our goods and service, and this, coupled with our reasonable prices, makes our business the largest in the South Glendale section.

"I will be pleased to look over any proposed landscaping, and will furnish an estimate of materials and costs."

Mr. Thompson is a nurseryman of long experience, being in this line of work for a good many years, both in Glendale and in the east. He has been in the present location for the past two years, and is a great booster for the southern section of the city.

REALTY BOARD HAS MUCH CAUSE TO BE THANKFUL

By PETER HANSON
President of the Glendale Realty Board.

Along with other local institutions, the Glendale Realty board has shared the common blessings of our city—growth and good will.

Even with greatly increased dues the membership of the board has doubled during the year, a full-time secretary has been placed in charge of a central office, a splendid committe service has been among the members, and above all there has been disseminated a fuller understanding of the aims and objects of the board, leaving a better public feeling toward the realtor.

Needed state-wide legislation has been passed for the protection of the public, with bonding and examinations, raising the qualifications of the realtor. Our leading universities are now offering courses of study with the aim of fitting men for the profession of real estate, the same as for law and medicine.

Not a game, nor merely a business, but a highly respected profession now dignifies the call of real estate transferring. The local Realty board has sought to make the profession a service to the seller, not merely a commission earner for the broker. The public has recognized this effort by an increasing confidence in the realtor.

For all of this the board members are duly thankful and would ascribe to Him who guards over all our destinies the spirit of good will and fair play that has brought all this about.

Bootleg Liquor Kills Man at Santa Ana

[By Associated Press]

SANTA ANA, Nov. 28.—Joseph Conroy, 25, of Huntington Park and an employe of the Technical Glass company of Los Angeles, was found dead sitting in his automobile yesterday after he and his companion, Torgo Anderson, had taken several drinks of bootleg liquor, according to Anderson's statement to the police today. Anderson is being held while officers are seeking the bootleg resorts where the liquor was obtained. Aderson told the police that after having several drinks the pair drove out to Westminister, east of here. Anderson says he went into a house by the roadside to get a cup of coffee and when he came out he found Conroy dead in the car.

WHAT GLENDALE MUSIC CLUB IS THANKFUL FOR

By MRS. MATTISON B. JONES
President Glendale Music Club

"The Glendale Music club is particularly happy to be able to announce at this time two splendid artists for December and January: Carl Gantvoort, baritone, and Allen McQuhae, tenor. Mr. Gantvoort is no stranger to Glendale and when he appears here on the regular club concert night, December 14, he will be heartily welcomed by all club members, both old and new.

"Allen McQuhae, who is to appear on Friday evening, January 11, is creating a veritable sensation throughout the east. He is a young Irish tenor and is ranked as a second to McCormick. Being an Irishman, Mr. McQuhae sings the songs and ballads of Ireland as they should be. But, like his countryman, John McCormick, he is too great an artist to limit himself to ditties, pleasing as they may be. He is considered one of the best and most satisfactory of oratorio singers.

"Mr. McQuhae is an active member of the American Legion, having served in France, where he went 'over the top' and won a commission and two citations there. He is still a young man, as artists go, having just touched thirty. His voice is exquisite, possessing a lyric quality of great beauty, which he used unsparingly in singing for the boys in Flanders.

"Mr. McQuhae is to sing this season from Maine to Texas and from Florida to Minnesota. He is booked for the Pacific coast in January and the Glendale Music club has secured him for January 11.

"The music club is putting on a Christmas membership campaign at $4 per membership, good from January to June. The club has chosen the slogan 'Merry Christmas! Say it with Music!'

"The club is very proud of the departmental work being carried on in the various sections. The artists section possesses some of the finest talent in California; the teachers round table, a membership of the highest type of the profession; the junior and juvenile auxiliaries, both creating artists for the future; the creative section, for composers and writers; and last, but not least, the educational department and scholarship loan fund, to aid worthy young artists students. The oratorio section comes under the educational department and has about seventy splendid singers studying the "Elijah" under the direction of John Smallman. This is to be presented early in the spring as a benefit performance for the scholarship fund and is to be given on a large scale and in such a way that it will place Glendale still higher up on the ladder of musical achievements.

"Altogether, the Glendale Music club has a season of wonderful promise ahead for worth-while endeavors which will make the organization a real civic asset to the community."

Casey decided to go into business, so he bought a small stable and had a sign painted showing him astride a mule. He had the sign placed in front of the stable and was quite proud of it.

His friend Finnigan came along and stood gazing at the sign.

"That's a good picture of me, isn't it?" asked Casey.

"Sure, it looks something like you," said Finigan, "but who the deuce is the man on your back?"

NEW BALL PARK IS GREAT ASSET TO SOUTH GLENDALE

A great addition to the development of the southern part of Glendale was the erection of the new Glendale Baseball park, completed last week, and celebrated last Sunday with a big opening baseball game. The actual cost of construction of the grounds totals nearly $10,000, half of which was for the building of the the large grandstand, and the fence which entirely encloses the park. The remainder was for the working of the grounds, the grass infield and the plumbing of the club house. This clubhouse contains complete dressing rooms for two teams, with hot and cold showers making it an entirely up-to-date ball park. Two large dugouts for the accomodation of the players' benches are features, each seating fourteen men; in fact, they are regulation, big league "holes," each being built to comply with the rules of the Major Leagues. The high board fence which skirts the field is covered with numerous advertisements of local merchants, and several spaces are now for sale.

Frank Leitner and Frank Kerwin, sporting men of note, who made the ball park possible, announce that several additions and improvements are to be made in the near future. The entire field, with the exception of the running lanes, will be sown with clover and blue grass, making the best baseball diamond in the San Fernando valley. Additional bleachers are to be built at once, in order to seat the crowds which are bound to attend the first-class games which will be held every Sunday. The present seating capacity of hundreds lining the base markers, and all along the fence.

A complete scoreboard is placed in deep center field, where it may be seen easily from any point on the field, giving outs, runs, player at bat, strikes, balls, etc.

In fact, it is regular "big league" ball park. Several eastern teams have signified their desire to train here, the only drawback being the lack of proper hotel accomodations for a large team.

OUR BLESSINGS INNUMERABLE, SAYS PASTOR

By Rev. Leo C. Kline, Pastor
Central Ave. M. E. Church

"For What Have We to Be Thankful?

"To enumerate the things for which we are grateful at this Thanksgiving season would be impossible. It is difficult to select those for which we are most grateful. But as we are reminded of the earliest Thanksgiving Days, of the hardships and sufferings of our forefathers and of the solid foundations which they laid for our national life, we are grateful to God for these noble men and women.

"We are thankful today for the framers of our constitution, for those who fought for our liberties, for the preservers of the Union and the liberators of the slaves.

"We are grateful for our Nation's History. Some one has boastingly said 'We can out run, out fight, out work and out talk any nation on earth.' On the whole we have a noble record as a nation. Our wars have been fought for high ideals. Our hearts and hands have time and again responded to the call of distress from the other nations of the world. Our abundanice has ministered to their necessity. We are thankful that we have been unselfish in these things.

"We are grateful to God for the Christian men who in the times of our nation's greatest peril and need have arisen to lead us to peace and safety. Such noble God-fearing men as Washington, Lincoln, McKinley, Roosevelt, Wilson, Harding and Coolidge.

"We give thanks today that we live in America. That we have religious liberty, an open Bible, a Free church and a Christian heritage.

"And last of all we are thankful that we live in Southern California, and best of all in Glendale, the 'Magic City of the Pacific Coast.'"

THE OLD-TIME THANKSGIVING FEAST

Those who would go back and tread again the ways our forefathers and foremothers travelled when preparing the Thanksgiving feast of colonial times, would probably make an approach to the menu of that day by serving barbecued meats, little roast pigs with apples in their mouths, turkeys and ducks. But the chicken pie was also a time honored and approved item of the bill of fare particularly if served with a rice pudding well sprinkled with raisins. The colonial pudding par excellence however was the corn meal pudding of which the art seems to have been lost. Sweet as honey and the consistency and texture of jelly it was a delicious confection.

The decorations of the festive board were probably brightly colored oak leaves that had resisted the wintry blasts, barberry and bittersweet berries. Doughnuts, cider, apples and pop corn composed the evening lunch before the big fireplace after the games had been played. Then the clock was wound the cat put out, and the candles lighted for the pilgrimage to bed.

Thanksgiving

As the spirit of the Holidays thrills us anew with the thoughts of Thanksgiving,—it is fitting that we who are blessed in this great western land, should pause to take account of our blessings.

It was in truth the hand of God that re-created Eden on the shores of the great Pacific ocean,—and he who makes his home in this great land of sunshine and flowers is supremely blessed.

And to Californians who are Glendalians, the past year has brought progress and prosperity,—and now on Thanksgiving Day may we join hearts and hands in crowding the day full of the true spirit of thankfulness.

As one of Glendale's institutions we have reason to be thankful for our share of blessings,—and will continue to strive to do our part in the upbuilding of the community.

Truths in Epigram

Nobler than a ship safely ending a long voyage, and sublimer than the setting sun, is the old age of a just and kind and useful life.—Anon.

Light griefs are plaintive, but great ones are dumb.—Seneca.

The miracles of earth are the laws of heaven.—Richter.

WHY THE SUBMERGED?

Occasionally there is brought to public notice some figure that seems to have belonged to an unknown world, and yet is a social unit in the world to which all belong. When there is one such figure there usually is a group. They are heaved up from some stratum, far below. Morals, sane conception of ethics, decent diversions, honest pursuits, such as knit normal humanity into a whole, have been above their level so far that they have participated no more than if inhabitants of another globe.

Such a case is under consideration by the police of Los Angeles and students of criminology in general. Some young men and women seem to have associated on about the terms prevailing among pigs in a pen. For some reason a pair of them were married. They celebrated their honeymoon by engaging in burglary. Seeking to evade capture the man killed one police officer and wounded another. The bride was captured first, a pistol in her hand. The groom was taken as he was about to sail away. Since then he has attempted suicide, apparently not from contrition, but at the hardship of being shut away from the lady of his heart's desire.

High authorities assert that there is no criminal class, this view being in opposition to what was once considered an established theory. However, there is a class that, left to itself, steeped in ignorance, with debased environment, naturally and almost inevitably become criminals. The prisoners in this instance doubtless are lacking in ordinary intelligence. They were ill-born, ill-trained, a pair of hopeless derelicts. Had they been taken in hand early they might at least have risen to the plane of harmless mediocrity. They were neglected, and they were lost. And there are many of their type.

EASY CITIZENSHIP

The feeling is common that the duty of an alien presiding permanently in the United States, is to become a citizen. In consequence there is a tendency to force the process of naturalization. A result of this is that there are many citizens who are such by title only. They have no conception of American ideals, nor admiration for them. Of the constitution they have no more notion than they have of the Einstein theory. Soundness of the belief that all material snatched out of the melting pot, and branded as American, by this experience becomes American, is at least debatable.

A citizen whose citizenship has been artificially created and bestowed upon him becomes no more useful an individual than before. He is allowed to vote, but as a rule, not knowing what he is voting about, his support goes according to orders from some person or concern employing him. If he is not one of the stupidly ignorant, but a member of some of the organizations hostile to established society, the power to vote may have definite ill effects.

Aliens are mildly persecuted. In some states they are not permitted to work in certain lines of employment. In one at least, they may not own a dog. In California a law was passed forbidding them to possess firearms. There is an effort to make their status disagreeable, and virtually to force them into a citizenship for which they are not fit, and might never become fit.

Perhaps the plan of restricting the influx of aliens, allowing only the desirables to pass Ellis Island, is worth thinking about. There is an old saying, never disproved, touching upon the impossibility of making a silk purse out of a sow's ear.

THE COLLEGE EDUCATION

"There is nothing taught at college that a boy may not learn at home if it is really and only knowledge that he wants," says an editor.

There are several ways in which the statement may be explained. Possibly the editor is apologizing for his own lack of college training. It may be that having had such training, he wants to show others that the experience has not unduly swelled his pride. Perhaps he seeks to soothe the feelings of such readers as have not attended college by expressing his belief that they are the wise and fortunate of their generation. Whatever the basis of the assertion, it carries no conviction to any intelligent mind. The editor in question is thus barred from believing it himself.

A course at college brings the student into direct contact not only with scholarship but with scholars. The boy on the farm, if intellectually equipped, and inspired of ambition, may study after the chores are done. Let him possess the qualities of a Lincoln, and this will suffice. There are few who possess these qualities. The college represents opportunity to youth. It opens to the student a world vista of which, left to himself, he could have faint perception. Even the association with other students representing all walks of life, broadens his vision.

Would the editor go so far as to say that the lone student poring over his books in the absence of an instructor, would have an advantage equal to that of a student in the classroom of a Millikan? Reducing his proposition to the concrete in this manner makes its absurdity apparent.

Men succeed without college training, and often are proud of it. They like to cherish the delusion that they would have been less successful had they gone to college. Nevertheless the earnest student knows that as he acquires the education that centers in university halls, he is profitably engaged, and will get returns on the investment.

THE ARMENIANS THAT WERE

Had the United States accepted a mandate over the Armenians there might have been a different tale to tell concerning the fate of that unfortunate people. The responsibility was declined, and the doom of the Armenians was sealed. Turkey intended to exterminate them, and the process virtually is complete. The degree of blame that rests upon America perhaps is particularly not pleasing to think about.

Apparently there has been a general misunderstanding in this country concerning the character of the Armenians. From the fact that they were classed as "Christians" there had been assumed a theory that in principle they were far above the Turk. The classification, however, was meant merely to distinguish them from Moslems. This clearly indicated a difference, but did not necessarily imply a moral superiority. Truth compels the admission that in their attitude toward the Turk the Armenians were as barren of admirable qualities as their foes. Each side was ready to the extent of its ability, to harm the other. The Turks had the numerical advantage. They also had the advantage of being able to outgeneral the powers in the matter of diplomacy. They were permitted to have their way. According to their view the Armenians constituted a problem, which they solved by the effacement of the Armenians. It all made a very horrible story. The possibility that such a story could be written on the desert sands by the blood of an agonized and dying people, reflects deep and lasting disgrace upon civilization. The United States, as a part of civilization, must accept its share of the odium.

The desire to protect the feelings of a robber makes the copy-reader do peculiar things. One paper prints the statement that "three asserted robbers, drew alongside, covered them with pistols and forced them to stand search." Of course, to have termed the robbers, robbers, without a softening qualification, would have been too harsh.

An inch of rain seems to be about a foot long to the man who is caught in it without an umbrella.

ELEVATOR ETIQUETTE

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Elevator etiquette is one of the subjects that springs up perennially like phlox or delphimium.

Shall men remove their hats or shall they not?

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

There are several other divisions to the question, but hat raising is the chief item of controversy.

Oh yes, I believe that cigarette removing is another cause of agitation. Hold your cigarette in one hand and your hat in the other and you register as a gentleman; refuse to do this and you go down as a cad.

Now what is back of all this agitation? Is it not simply that some women crave an acknowledgement of their presence from any man who happens to be about?

If the man in elevators to be gentlemen must remove their hats with effective sweeps every time a woman enters an elevator so ought the butcher boy when he delivers the steak, the ice man when he fills the refrigerator and the Chink when he sells the vegetables.

Better still, if the absence of hats is a mark of courtesy why not do as the Japanese, leave hats off altogether?

The whole hat lifting agitation is on a par with the "hop James" psychology of many women who expect every man in a room to rise pronto as they cross the threshold.

Let us grant in the beginning that any gentleman will get up when a woman enters the room and place a chair for her—unless she is a servant, when she doesn't count. But the fixed habit that many women have of looking for every possible opportunity to make men perform like trained seals is a holdover from prehistoric days when men gave women all the outward forms of respect without granting them anything that counted.

This is rush hour in the world's civilization; we care much more now for a few realities than for any appearance. Men have yielded a good deal along lines of justice; they are destined to yield a good deal more.

Let's stop making them perform; that wastes energy and fixes in their minds the idea that we are concerned with nonessentials and so are childishminded.

If men lift their hats when we enter elevators, well and good.

If not, let us stop running to the editors about it. Smoke is a bit different. It does make some people sick, but the woman who can't ride a few feet in an elevator without becoming nauseated by one or two curls of smoke has something wrong with her. It is not the smoke which effects her; it is her mental reaction to it.

I'll bet if the men burned incease instead of tobacco such women would inhale it with avidity. It's the personal attention that fetches them.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Tick Hines used to come around and talk to me about his girl. He doesn't any more. He used to light up like a street carnival and tell me that she had a sweet disposition—

"She hasn't, Tick," I used to tell him. "I know her, I tell you, and she has not got a sweet disposition, and you can enter that in your sundries account. No girl as pretty as she is can have a sweet disposition."

Then I'll explain my theory of the other and better fragment of the human race. They're naturally bullies, women are, and when they find a man running around after them they give rein to their worser instincts. Some bully one way and some another. Some bully with sweetness and some with cross words. But they all bully.

Tick said I was filled with decadent gooseberries, mentally. He said that Mazie was one of these girls that are just naturally late. Never got anywhere on time in her life. He used to tromp on peoples' feet at the theater and stand up in the rear of the movies, because of this oddity of hers, until he got tired of it. Then he explained to her, carefully, that being habitually late is a form of ingrowing and contemptible selfishness and a symptom of temperamental meanness. He said that these things had just never occurred to her, but now that she knew 'em she would never offend again, he was sure. Anyway, he did not propose to wait for her any more. Not a cussed minute.

"And the next time she was late I up and walked out on her," said Tick, triumphantly, "and she came around to the store next day to prove that it wasn't her fault. And she never was late again, and she never said a cross word to me. And if that isn't having a fine disposition, what is?"

So I shut up. I know when I'm licked. Anyhow, she hasn't been on time on one single occasion since they were married. And Tick waits for her now. I'll say he waits.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

A good job.
There's nothing better.
To do a good job.
To finish it up trimly and squarely and well.
To be proud of it when you have turned it out.

* * *

It does not matter what kind of a job it is.
Whether it is bridging an ocean or trimming a lawn.
In the scheme of human events one job is probably more important than the other.
But to the doer it is the same.

* * *

To the lawn trimmer it is not so much that the lawn is trimmed well.
The owner would probably get along if it was not so well done.
But it is important to the doer.
For the self-respect he has to contemplate a good job.
And to know that he has done it.

* * *

That he has not cheated.
That he has not taken pay for something and done it poorly.
To have done the best he could.
That he did not attempt merely to get his pay.
Irrespective of the kind of work he did.

* * *

Whether it is an important job or an unimportant one.
Whether it is a big job or a little one.
Whether it is washing a window or paving a street or cutting a gem.
The principle of good workmanship is the same.
There is fine art in washing a show window.
It may be clear and sparkling and shining and clean.
Or it may be murky or streaky or unclean.
A murky individual usually washes a window murkily and streakily.
Because he has a murky streak in him.

* * *

It is not so much the job.
It is you.
Doing a good job makes a good workman.
And a good workman will progress.
A poor one goes eventually into the ash heap of failure.

* * *

So look to your job.
The one right before you.
The one now to do.
That is the important one.
Because upon the way you do that depends the way you will do the big job to come.
The one you dream about.

* * *

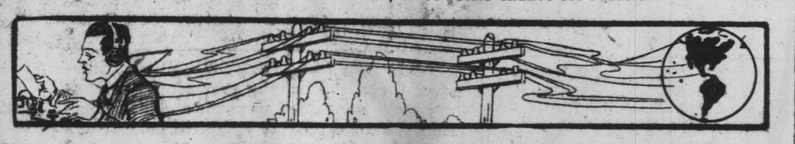
The workman who slights a little job will never do a big one well.
He thinks he will.
But he will not.
The habit of slighting work will fasten itself upon him.

* * *

Think of a physician who would set a leg well but slight a broken finger.
Because one is big and one is little.
When you are buttoning a collar on a finger is more important than a leg.
Because you can stand on a wooden leg but you can't button a collar with one.

* * *

Every little job done well means a better man.
A better workman.
A better chance for success.



Songs of the Poets

To Celia—By Ben Jonson

Drink to me only with thine eyes,
And I will pledge with mine;
Or leave a kiss but in the cup
And I'll not look for wine.
The thirst that from the soul doth rise
Doth ask a drink divine;
But might I of Jove's nectar sup,
I would not change for thine.

I sent thee late a rosy wreath,
Not so much honouring thee
As giving it a hope that there
It could not wither'd be;
But thou thereon didst only breathe,
And sent'st it back to me;
Since when it grows, and smells, I swear,
Not of itself but thee!

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

By DR. FRANK CRANE

EDUCATION is a large word.

It ought to cover the whole training of the child.

In our present school system our chief inheritance is the idea of merely training the mind (it might be more accurate to say the memory), for the most important part of the mind's functioning, the business of thinking, judging, and of exercising the creative imagination, does not yet receive sufficient emphasis.

There are other needs in education. A child needs to be trained to exercise and strengthen his inhibitions, which is the substance of what we mean when we speak of morality.

He should be trained to work: that is, he should be able to do some skillful and useful labor for which the world is willing to pay him money. That is the one kind of effort that is worthy to be called Labor.

But most of all he needs a trained body.

We cannot get away from the fact that we are fundamentally animals, that our general efficiency as well as our happiness depends largely upon the perfection of our bodies.

The so-called athletics in schools and colleges are far from being the kind of training children need. What they really need is to know how to eat and drink and exercise in such a way as to make their bodies sound and strong. This is as much a science as aritchmetic is. It has its laws, which the teacher ought to know.

John R. Quinn, national commander of the American Legion, says that in spite of the thirty-two state laws which in greater or less degree stipulate local provision for physical education, yet the facts are that today not more than 12 per cent of the school children of the nation are receiving this fundamental training.

There is an emphatic necessity that the federal government act promptly and intelligently to co-operate with the states to promote physical education.

In the recent war more than a million recruits, in the prime of life, were found not qualified for full military service and many of these men were obliged to spend weeks in training camps in order to get the preliminary physical training.

There should be some comprehensive national scheme of physical culture not only for the purpose of efficiency but of national defense.

The real walls that protect a nation are the flesh and blood of its manhood.

The American Legion is wisely urging congress to determine the method of attacking this problem. This organization suggests the following steps to be taken:

First: Every school room teacher should be trained so that she can give proper physical culture.

Second: A sufficient number of special teachers in physical education should be supplied to supervise this work.

Third: Adequate indoor and outdoor space and simple equipment should be supplied.

Besides this the federal government should aid the states my making available the best up-to-date information and advice upon the subject.

As Ruskin tells us, "The veins of wealth are not the veins of gold and silver in the earth, but the veins of rich, red blood in the bodies of youth."

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

NEED OF HUMANITY

[New York World]

A storm of criticism, a chorus of agreement, naturally follow Woodrow Wilson's radio speech on Armistice day. The criticism is as significant as the approval in showing what the whole world regards as the paramount question.

Whether by the League of Nation, which President Harding twice favored, experimentally, once before and once after his election; or by some new associations of nations such as he more emphatically advocated; or by the World Court which he bequeathed to President Coolidge, strengthened by our entrance to greater uses; or by some form of co-operation not yet in being or authoritatively proposed, the great need of humanity is the return of the United States to help cement the broken brotherhood of nations. And this is what many men and nearly all women know.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

HENRY JAMES

The prison board has fixed the sentence of one Sjingola, habitual robber, at twenty years. The court in which the man had been convicted had set it at "from one year to life." Under the law this means "at the pleasure of the prison board."

In many states the plan of letting a court determine the penalty is found to work well. The court, having knowledge of the facts, really is in the best position to do this.

* * *

A city official of New York has been sentenced to sixty days in prison for having criticized adversely a decision of the court.

The second decision of the court will be adversely criticized by every citizen who believes in the constitution, and holds to the theory that a man on the bench, clothed with authority though he may be, is merely human.

Judges are not infallible. Were they so, justice would be administered with mathematical precision; there would be no dissenting opinions by a minority often but one less than the majority.

Every citizen has a right to his opinion, and an inherent right to express it. He must obey the law as interpreted, but he is under no obligation to held the belief that it is a wise law or a good law, when he holds the inward conviction that it is a bad law and rotten.

There have been many judicial outrages in fiats from the bench holding this man or that, to be guilty of contempt. In such cases the judge is both prosecutor and jury, and names the penalty. This gives him an arbitrary power to regulate thought, and no judge is worthy to have such power.

When a litigant appeals from a decision of court, his lawyer showing the decision to have been based on prejudice, ignorance or casual error, the judge does not send litigant and counsel to prison for contempt. Apparently an exception is made in their favor.

If a law-abiding citizen thinks that a judicial ruling is unfair and harmful, but is denied the privilege of so stating, it is time to ease up on the patter that this is the land of liberty.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

REWARDING THE STOMACH

When Gregory went to school the first graders looked at him in round-eyed wonder for a brief moment and then announced the verdict.

"Tubby."

"You shut up and leave me alone. I'll tell my father."

"Rah, rah, ran, for Tubby. He's going to tell his papa," jibed the grinning youngsters.

"Tubby, tell us," said slim little Cory, "tell us how did you get that way?"

"Yes," chorused the crowd, "tell us how you got that way, Tubby."

You see Tubby who was just six and short, had already asquired what is known as a bay window, and the boys were gleefully commenting upon it. Of course, Tubby didn't like it and, of course, the teacher had to caution the other boys about it and naturally they didn't forget Tubby.

Which was bad enough in itself, but not as bad as the reality was for Tubby. The way he got that way was not hard to discover. Tubby's family believed that the way to bring up a child was to reward him generously by way of his stomach.

"Come now, it's time for bed. Come quickly and don't make a fuss and I'll give you a chocolate."

"I want two," announced the youngter. Two it was. Anything for a quiet life.

"We're going to have company, Gregory, and if you are very nice and quiet at the table and wait until you are attended to without calling out I'll give you two dishes of ice cream."

"And two pieces of cake?"

"Yes, two pieces of cake."

"All right. And if I go to bed early will you give me something else?"

"Yes. What would you like?"

"I'd like a charlotte rousse."

If his mother went down town she bargained for his good behaviour until her return. "If Mary says you've been good I'll give you what I bring in my pocket, but if she says you've been troublesome then I'll give it to Fido and you won't get any."

The child grew up with the idea that the best thing that could happen in his day was to be rewarded with something good to eat. He measured the world in terms of dainties; he measured folk's approbation by what they gave him to eat; his stomach was rewarded for every noble need he did until now at six he was what his mates described him, a tub.

Scarcely fair, was it? One's stomach is such a private personal affair that it really ought to be left out of such a public matter as conduct.

BENTLEY LUMBER CO. IS GREAT INDUSTRY

The Bentley Lumber company, 460 West Los Feliz Road, is one of the largest industries in the southern part of Glendale, if not in the entire city. The company now has a pay roll of fifty, or more, and employs fifteen trucks in the delivering of lumber and building materials. A record business has been enjoyed during the past year, and all indications point forward to the coming year as the greatest in the history of the organization.

According to Geo. Bentley, general manager, the recent Japanese earthquake has not in the least affected the local lumber and building material market, although a raise in prices is expected within the next few months.

A full line of high grade lumber, both rough and finished, is in stock, several carloads coming in daily to meet the demands of Glendale home builders. Everything in the building line is furnished, from sand and cement to sash and doors. The company's own mill turns out the finished lumber, making doors, fancy woodwork, hardwood flooring, etc.

The yards of the company were formerly located on north Glendale Avenue, the firm then being known as the Bentley-Schoneman Lumber company. This was more than ten years ago, and the great growth in business caused them to make the move into their new and larger yards where they are now located. They are strong boosters for all of Glendale, their business extending all over the city and throughout the San Fernando Valley.

Plans and estimates on all home building jobs are furnished free of charge.

THANKSGIVING IS DISTINCTLY ALL-AMERICAN

By A. L. Ferguson, President of the Kiwanis Club of Glendale

Thanksgiving, a distinctly American institution, cannot but bring to each individual gratefulness for being one of the millions of people whose nation sets apart a day to show appreciation for the many advantages we have.

The United States, since its formation, has passed through and has witnessed many crises but never have world affairs been in a more critical period than at the present time. More now than at any time should we be thankful for the conditions under which we live.

Could we imagine in any other country the executive head of the nation being stricken, with almost no warning, and still have the government continue the same steady course as before?

Truly we should be thankful for having had such a confidence-inspiring man as President, an able man to take his place, a form of government that makes such conditions possible and a citizen personnel that would "carry on" under such circumstances.

THE ROMANCE OF THE LITTLE RED WHEEL

By B. E. MEACHAM

As I look back over the years of my life, and then attempt to visualize the future of the Lorain oven heat regulator, I wonder just what would happen if all mothers, fathers, friends and employers realized the great responsibility that rests upon anyone who in one way or another commands the acts, thoughts and time of other human beings.

Personally, I have never been able to make myself believe that any great amount of credit is due me for the invention of the Lorain oven heat regulator. In fact, I am positive that I am entitled only to a small share of the credit, the greater part being due my mother and the circumstances that surrounded my boyhood days; to Dr. Andrew Ure, the inventor of the thermostat; and to my employers who so kindly gave me the opportunity necessary to develop and perfect my idea.

I was born and brought up on a farm near Norwalk, Ohio, being the eldest child of a family of seven. There may be many men who will read this article who also were the eldest of large families in ordinary circumstances. Such readers need not be told that I was the "hired girl" without pay, except for the great kindness and consideration of a loving mother and father.

Although my mother, like most women of her day who lived on farms, assisted with the farm work, and although she kept our home scrupulously clean, I believe the labor which took most of her time and which seemed always to worry and wear her down was the cooking of three meals a day for that hungry family of seven.

And so I forgive and even praise my mother for teaching her oldest son at an early age how to cook and bake many simple, easily prepared dishes. And, frankly, I cannot say that I disliked the task. I believe that all men have much of the gambling spirit in them and cooking in those days was about 90 per cent gamble.

But mother never seemed to enjoy the gambling part of baking and getting meals. Knowing full well the limit of the family pocketbook she got anything but a thrill from taking a chance with several loaves of bread or a cake in the oven of that old coal range that did so many, strange things and always unexpectedly.

It bothered me the way mother would worry after she placed something in the oven. She'd fuss with the fire, turn dampers, peek into the oven, and actually be afraid to leave the kitchen for more than a moment or two.

I remember particularly a time when we were harvesting. Sixteen big-belted and broad-chested men working in the hot sun with sweat trickling down their red faces were creating an appetite that would daunt the animal feeders of a three-ring circus.

Yet mother, working in the kitchen with little assistance, was, in proportion to her strength, giving more of her energy than those 16 men. Mother was baking bread for those husky workers in addition to cooking the dinner—and the bread burned!

I'll never forget the look of real mental anguish and physical exhaustion that came over her face as she gazed at the ruined loaves, and right then and there I made a promise to myself that some day I would invent "something" that would prevent mother's bakings from burning.

In the course of time I became an employe of the National Stove company division at Lorain, Ohio, and as the years rolled by I gained promotion after promotion until finally I was entrusted with the responsible position of superintendent of the factory.

At that time, 1913, the company was manufacturing automatic hot water heaters as well as gas ranges, and I had been experimenting with various types of thermostats in order to get a basic idea from which I could develop one that would be superior to all others.

While sitting and pondering one day with a hot water thermostat in my hands I found my vision concentrated upon a new model of a gas range. Instantly almost, and for no reason that I have ever been able to figure out, I recalled my promise to do something to keep mother's bread from burning—and immediately something within me told me that I had the answer in my hand.

Sitting there and thinking, I soon realized that there were many things to do before a thermostat could be made a commercial proposition as an attachment to a gas range.

Thermostats made for hot water heaters require only a narrow range of temperatures. If a thermastat was to be made for regulating cooking temperatures it would be nesessary to have a wide range of different heats. There was also the problem of application to the gas range and that wasn't so simple as it sounds.

Then again, the device must be made as inexpensive as possible and yet give the greatest possible degree of accuracy. Also, it must be simple in construction and foolproof in operation.

At this point of my story I must give credit to my employers. The idea was radical, to say the least, and there are many, many concerns both large and small that turn down everything but "sure thing bets" without the least investigation or consideration.

My employers, however, gave me every opportunity and assistance to develop my idea, and within a few weeks I had built a working-model. Right here let me say that so carefully was the whole proposition planned, worked out and constructed that the regulator of Today is practically identical with that early model.

In the very first tests the temperature of the oven was found to register correstly with the figure indicated by the metal pointer on the regulator wheel—and a very accurate high temperature thermometer was used in the test, too. But there must be something wrong, I thought. We men in engineering experimental work are not accustomed to hitting the nail on the head the very first tap.

So it was decided to make a practical, endurance test and the job was given to my wife, Mrs. Meacham. For one and one-half years Mrs. Meacham experimente dwith that first regulator, and many unusual, interesting and amusing things occured during that time, because you see, like a runter in an unexplored jungle, she had absolutely nothing to guide here.

But by trial after trial she learned the temepratures at which certain dishes cooked best and also the lengths of time required to cook them in the oven. She was the first to use the alarm clock in connection with the regulator.

I remember one occurance when some friends called at our home and detected the appetizing odor of bread being baked. The woman in the party soon suggested that they must not stay long because Mrs. Meacham undoubtedly wanted to watch her bread so that it would not burn.

Mrs. Meacham looked at the clock and said, "Don't worry, the time's not up yet." The astonished visitor exclaimed, "Don't you watch your bread while it's baking?" "Not any more," Mrs. Meacham said. "You see, Mr. Meacham has placed a device on my stove that takes care of all that. I just put my bread in the oven, turn a small wheel until a hand points to a certain degree of temeprature, which means that the oven is just so hot, and then I do what I please until time's up. I never have trouble any more with things being underdone, overdone or burned.

The visitor begged to see the stove, and, upon seeing a practical demonstration, remarked. "I wonder if your husband could fix my stove the same way. I think it's the most wonderful thing I've ever seen."

This remark fired my enthusiasm Here, for the first time, was the expression of an outside opinion on the regulator—and from a woman, too— for it would be women who would buy and use and recommend such a device. You see, I didn't place a very high value on Mrs. Meacham's enthusiasm—all good wives consider it a duty to flatter the pay envelope half of the family!

But this friend of the family was really sincere in her desire to own a gas range equipped with a regulator, and right away I had a vision of what would happen if thousands of women all over the country gathered together and heard for the first time the wonders of this little device. But my vision, big as it seemed to me at that time, could not compare with what has actually happened.

And this is the story of the Lorain Oven Heat Regulator, named after the city of its birth. As one of the greatest benefits ever created to save the time, work and worry of women, I feel that it owes its conception to a woman.

That it was given to mere man to work out the details is a pleasant thought to me. And I believe all who read the story will agree that the world owes a perpetual debt to its mothers.

ADVANCEMENT ASSOCIATION IS MOST THANKFUL

By C. W. Ingledue, President of the Glendale Advancement Association.

If there is an association in Glendale that has a right to be thankful this year it is the Glendale Advancement association. Seems as though this year everything has been coming our way. Our path has been strewn with blessings, both spiritual and temporal, and for these we thank an all-wise Leader.

The biggest thing accomplished in the east side this year, for which we are thankful, is the electrification of the Glendale avenue line. The work of stretching the wires for this line has been finished, the cars have been ordered and will soon arrive, and within a few days the laying of the rails will be started. This line promises to revolutionize the east side of Glendale and to prove a benefit to the entire city. Cars will be running on this line by the first of January—then watch the east side step ahead.

Another thing we are thankful for is that the paving of Glendale avenue will soon be under way. I understand that the National people are now erecting their mixing plant on the west side and that Peter Ferry, the general contractor, is preparing to "go."

We are also thankful that within a short time Glendale avenue will be another "Great White Way," in fact, the most beautifully illuminated boulevard in or around Glendale. The ornamental electroliers on Glendale avenue have been petitioned for and proceedings for them are under way. The same is true with regard to East Broadway. The latter system will extend from Broadway east to the city's eastern limits.

The illuminating of Glendale avenue and East Broadway, the electrification of the Glendale avenue line, the widening of Colorado, and the effort to secure the new hotel at the corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway have rightfully resulted in increased values along those thoroughfares, where, almost daily, important sales are reported.

These are a few of the things the members of the Glendale Advancement association have to be thankful for this year. They have also to be thankful for a wonderful prospect for the future. The sky of the future is exceedingly bright—brighter, in fact, than ever before. We are expecting big things on the east side of Glendale during the next few months.

Glendale Scheduled to Win Saturday

Glendale High school's fighting football team, coached by Normal C. Hayhurst, will take on the Santa Monica eleven Saturday in the semi-finals for the Southern California championship. The game will be played at Patterson Field, Occidental College, located in the southern section of Eagle Rock, and will commence promptly at 2:15 P. M. Tomorrow afternoon at Long Beach the Long Beach High school meets the Sweetwater high team from National City. The winner of this game will play the winner of the Glendale-Santa Monica game for the championship of Southern California. The winner of the southland honors will contest with the northern teams for the state title.

To play in the semi-finals, the Glendale team has had to win the championship of the Central League and then defeat the winner of the Orange Belt league, which was San Bernardino. The state is divided into leagues, grouped geographically by the California Intercholastic Federation, and the winners of these leagues meet in playoffs for the title. Santa Monica is the champion of the Bay League, while Long Beach and Sweetwater are the champions of their respective leagues.

To date the Glendale eleven has not lost a game. The only score against the Dynamiters was made by San Bernardino last Saturday. The Saints scored 10 points, a touchdown, converted, and a field goal on Glendale. Coach Hayhurst has developed a really remarkable team at Glendale this year. He has a team that can play any type of game. The Black and Red gridders are equally good at the old "army game" of straight football and the open field game. They can use either type of attack and have a defense that can combat both types of offense. The team is not heavy, but it is fast. The average is 151 pounds. Two men, however, who are exceedingly light bring down the average. They are Horii, 127-pound end, and Bud Elliot, quarterback, who weighs 136 pounds. Speed, accuracy at kicking and passing, hard line plunging and fight—all these go to make up the Glendale High School team of 1923, the best that has ever been produced at the Black and Red institution.

Glendale High has been playing football but seven years. Hayhurst has been in charge the entire time. This is the third team that he has produced that has won the championship of the Central League, but the other two were eliminated in the first round of the playoffs. These championships were in 1918 and 1920.

FRANCIS W. READ

Now that the 1923 football season is over, the doneters are already at work doping out the relative strength of the teams for 1924. We have always said that dope was the bunk, and, in keeping with this view, have declined to dope out the possibilities of the various teams. However, the 1924 football season is so far away and nearly everyone who reads this will forget about it by that time, so no harm can be done by indulging in a little football dope for the 1924 season.

It looks like the big three of the Pacific coast will go at it hammer and tongs again next year. The U. S. C. Trojans should be a great deal stronger than they were this season. Only three of Elmer Henderson's varsity of 1923 will be lost by graduation according to present announcements. These are Captain Chet Dolley, Gordon Campbell and Cummings. As far as is known at the present time all the rest of the Trojan eleven will be back on the job next fall. With the wealth of material coming up from his championship freshman team of this season, Henderson will have something with which to replace his lost men and also a considerable quantity of reserve strength, which he admittedly lacked this season. It is safe to say that U. S. C. has a wonderful chance to cop the championship next year and break the four-year win of the Bears. The Trojans will have better material than any team in the conference.

Stanford loses at least three of this year's first string men. Captain Scotchy Campbell, Cleaveland, Woodward, Cravens, Tayville and Nevers will be lost to the Cardinals next season. The loss of these men, with possibly some others, will greatly handicap the Palo Alto eleven. However, the fact that the Stanford freshmen defeated the California babes is regarded as a good omen by Andy Kerr. There are some good men in the Cardinal freshman team and it is expected that this year's frosh will considerably strengthen the varsity next season. It is just be remembered that Glenn Warner, coach of the Pittsburg university eleven, will take charge of things at Stanford next year after two years of absent treatment, as per his contract a couple of years ago. Kerr has done considerable toward establishing the Warner system at Stanford. The Cardinals have a chance to defeat both California and Stanford next season and have the best chance to cop the conference title they have ever had.

As for California, it is rather hard to say just what can be expected. Things look rather gloomy for Andy Smith next season. He loses eight varsity players. Captain Don Nichols, Dick Dunn, Jack Witter, Beam, Newmeyer, Hufford, Perry and Hoggy Evans will be lost to the Blue and Gold eleven next season. It is admitted that the loss of these eight men will be felt, but of course Andy has plenty of reserve strength on which he can count. He still has Bill Blewett, Dixon, Imlay, Horrell, Mell, Carlson and a number of his second string men around which to build his 1924 team. Andy will have a harder problem next year than he did at the opening of the present season. He must find a new quarter and almost an entire new line. However, it would not surprise us one bit if he had the makings of another championship eleven right among his second string men of this season. Then he has the material from his freshman team. Although the Bruin frosh lost to the Trojan and Cardinal peagreeners, they are by no means weak and should furnish some real strength for the varsity. Admittedly, Andy Smith will have a hard job on his hands next fall. True too that his opponents will have as good or better teams than they had this season, but it is also true that so long as Andy Smith has a fairly good lot of football players and is able to find a quarterback who can execute his attacks in proper fashion, it will be a mighty difficult job for anyone to beat the Bears.

GLENDALE WHITE SOX PLAY PALMS ON THANKSGIVING

Mike Donlin's Glendale White Sox will meet the Palms baseball team tomorrow afternoon at the Glendale baseball park on South San Fernando road to play off the tie that resulted from the meeting of the two teams two weeks ago. This will be the second appearance of the White Sox before the local fans and they hope to make a better showing than they did Sunday when they fell to the Shell Oilers by a 2 to 0 score.

The line-up that faces the Palms team will be, as far as is known at the present time, the same that played against the Shell Oilers last Sunday. The boys will not be fussed tomorrow as they were on the occasion of their home appearance, and will be in shape to put on a better brand of the national pastime.

HACK THROWS THE BULL TWICE

By FRANCIS W. READ

John Hackenschmidt, well known wrestler of Glendale, defated Bull Montana, popular matinee idol and grappler last night in Hahn's auditorium. Hack secured the necessary two falls in just fifty-five minutes. The first came in exactly a half hour and the second in twenty-five minutes. Both times it was the short arm scissors that Hack used to down the Bull.

After a few minutes of the feeling out process the two wrestlers were on the mat, Hack got the better of it before long and turned things to his advantage. He punished the Bull with his terrible toe holds and Bull would do the same to him, but he seemed to be unable to hurt Hackenschmidt that way. Hack picked up Montana's feet and dragged him around the mat, throwing him to his back, but was unable to pin him. Several times the Bull had the better of a little argument, but Hack was so slippery and elusive that the film idol could never hold him when he got him in any one position. This continued for the best of a half hour, with Hackenschmidt having the better of it the whole time. Finally he floored him on his back and with the short arm scissors pinned him for the count.

The second fall happened in nearly the same way. Hack tried the grip that won for him before but was unable to make it work because he had it with his left hand, one finger of which was bandaged. He got in some terrible work with his toe holds and Bull came back with a head lock, and after dragging him around the mat by his feet Hackenschmidt was finally able to get him in an advantageous position. Here he began to work on him, and again using the short arm scissors, this time having his good hand at work, pinned him to the mat.

Hack had the better of the Bull all the time. The only time that Montana looked dangerous was when he had a head lock on Hack. Hack broke these head locks with much difficulty. If for a moment the advantage was with Bull he could not hold Hack.

It was the best wrestling match that has ever been staged in Glendale, according to the verdict of the fans. Hack had to work harder when he grappled with Joe Polk here several weeks ago than he did to throw the Bull. A return match between Hackenschmidt and Polk would be a popular one with the fans.

After the match a wrestling promotre from Long Beach issued Hack a challenge for a man who he said could throw the Glendale grappler three times in an hour. Hackenschmidt accepted the challenge. The name of the wrestler would not be divulged by the promoter, but many fans are surmising as to who it can be. Some say it is Kozak the Armenian, others Londis, the Greek wrestler, while other names are also suggested. A Japanese jiu-jitsu wrestler challenged the winner and said that he was willing to fight either American or Japanese style.

Four good boxing bouts were staged as preliminary events. Bert Gonzales of Los Angeles knocked out Kid Rogers in the second round of the semi-windup. Gonzales has become popular with the local fans because of his speedy style of fighting.

Ernie Stocker and Sammy Waltz got a draw decision after a four-round battle. The decision was the worst that has ever been given in the local ring. Waltz was knocked clear through the ropes in the second round, and Stocker had him going the whole time. Waltz grabbed Stocker around the neck in a strangle hold and delivered several good blows before the referee separated them. At the end of the second round Stocker had Waltz going, but the latter paid no attention to the bell and commenced an offensive that took Stocker off his feet. The referee finally made Waltz retire to his corner. It was Stocker's fight all the way, and how a draw decision could be reached is a mystery to the writer.

Jack Carr knocked out Young after fifteen seconds. Carr saw his opening, stepped in and hit. The result was a knockout. He was applauded by the fans. Young Lancho defeated Young Kerns when the latter threw up the sponge in the third round. Kerns was game enough, but it was his first fight, and Lancho was too good for him.

CLASS C TEAM PLAYS BEACH ELEVEN TODAY

Tonight Coach Wolfe's class C grid team will clash with Huntington Beach on Moyse field. This is their first game in the semi-finals for Southern California class C championship and thy are confident.

Little is known of the Huntington Beach aggregation but in order to qualify for the semi-finals any team must be an exceptional scoring machine. Hard practice has put the "babes" in good shape and they will put up the best game this season if being in condition means anything.

Although outpointed in their last game by the Burbank class B team Wolfe's boys were not outfought. Tonight they will meet a team of their own weight and class when things will be more even.

Student body tickets will not admit anyone to tonight's game because this is not considered a league game. The reasonable sum of fifteen cents will be the admission price. So a large crowd will be present to cheer our "baby Dynamiters" on to victory.

FEED FOR HIGH FOOTBALL MEN IS POSTPONED

The football banquet which was to have been given the football teams by the Girls' league last Friday in the High school cafeteria has been postponed until just before Christmas vacation.

This banquet was postponed because of the many student body activities that are coming off the end of this month and in the early part of December. Also the football season is not yet finished, and it was decided it would be better to have the banquet after the season is over.

All football players of the varsity first and second teams and the lightweight teams will be present. Coaches Hayhurst, Butterfield and Wolfe and Mr. Moyse and Mr. Ferguson will represent the faculty.

POMONA PLAYS HAWAIIANS TOMORROW

Unless all advance signs fail tomorrow's game between Pomona College and the University of Hawaii, scheduled for 2 o'clock sharp at the Rose Bowl, Pasadena, will result in more action than is exhibited when the well-known turpentine is sprinkled on Tabby's tongue. The Sagehens and Deans are both speedy aggregations and as both elevens resort to the forward pass at the slightest provocation, the air should be filled with a number of things, not the least of which will be air-inflated footballs.

Out at Claremont Coach Eugene Nixon is smiling quietly to himself as the result of his team's strength in their beating Occidental Saturday without resorting to the entire repertoire of Sagehen plays. The Pomona eleven played straight football during most of the game, hurling only seven forward passes when they are generally prone to tissue three times that many. When Earl Merritt, Blue and White quarter, found he could puncture the left side of Oxy's line almost at will he tucked the forward pass formations away for safe-keeping until the Hawaii team should desire to see them.

Coach Klum is no slouch at the aerial game himself and being a former Pacific coast mentor knows that style of attack thoroughly. His team last year exhibited plenty of ability along this line against the Sagehens, and with Willie Wise, speedy backfield man, back again to receive the throws, promises to cause the Claremont team no little worry tomorrow. The Hawaiians will have the advantage of having seen a few of Pomona's pass formations in the Oxy game, while the Sagehens have little to figure on when confronting the Deans' aerial attack, as Klum shut down last year after scoring two touchdowns.

Pomona will be able to put her full strength into the battle, although Rud Frater, right end, will probably have to occupy the bench.

JUNIORS TAKE HIGH TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Cinching the interclass tennis tournament of the Glendale High school last Tuesday, the juniors by the close score of 9-8. The seniors took the first, second and fourth singles, while the juniors took all the rest.

The juniors will get the trophy cup which has been purchased for this contest. This will then be their's until next year when they will defend it against the new classes.

Laird took his match from Lee Osborne, 6-1, 8-6. In the first set he easily outplayed Osborne by placing his shots with plenty of speed. In the second set Osborne came into his old form and worked Bob to the utmost taking 6 games. Although beaten, Osborne showed some real tennis.

Woods took the second singles, 6-0, 11-9. In the second set, it looked for quite a bit as if Lee would even the score, but finally after a hard fight, Woods conquered.

Hardy beat Garner in his match, 6-3, 6-3, thus winning the only singles match which was taken by the juniors. Garner put up a good game but Hardy had superior form.

Scoville took Haskins off with a 6-4, 6-2 score. Haskins took the first four games and it looked as if he would have the set, but Scoville took the next six and the set. In the second the score stood 2-2 and Scoville took four straight.

The downfall of the seniors came in the doubles when Osborne and Lee beat Laird and Woods, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5. The seniors took the first set in good style, but did not seem to be able to work together in the rest of the match.

Hardy and Haskins beat a senior doubles team composed of Garner and Troder. Scoville and Garner won the first set, 6-4, but on account of darkness the match could not be finished. It was concluded Wednesday afternoon, but Scoville could not be there so Trader was substituted.

Organs once were run by water wheels.

GLENDALE HI PREPARES FOR GRID BATTLE

Will Glendale defeat Santa Monica Saturday when the football teams of the two institutions clash at Occidental? Ask any of the 1800 enthusiastic students of Glendale High school and they will answer most emphatically "Yes!"

Enthusiasm at the Black and Red institution is at a high pitch. Every student on the local campus is thinking in terms of the football game with Santa Monica, for this is the semi-final contest in the race for the championship of Southern California. Yell leaders are practicing their work before the mirrors, while the rest are brushing up on the songs and yells, and those who do not know much about football are frantically reading their Spaulding so they will be able to talk in terms of football between now and Saturday.

In the meantime, out on the athletic field, the men who will oppose Santa Monica on the field of combat are going through their daily workouts and are giving more than they ever did before in an effort to defeat the Samohi gridders. They are working like trojans to keep in condition to win the game and to earn the right to play in the title tilt.

Coach Hayhurst is not telling everything he knows, but is working and drilling his men hard and keeping them in the proper spirit.

Yesterday afternoon the Dynamiters went through a stiff workout. Coach Hayhurst lined up the first and second teams for scrimmage and then proceeded to mix the lineups so that each team was composed equally of first and second string men. A real battle ensued, during which the men displayed the fight that beat San Bernardino and by which they hope to win over Santa Monica. Every man on the team with the exception of Captain West is in good condition. Dick Ryan has recovered from his injury and is rarin' to go. The Elliot brothers are performing in great style, while the rest of the backfield and the line are in first-class condition.

Tickets for the game may be obtained at the High school and at several other places to be designated later. A special appeal is made by the student body for the public to attend the game, which will be played at Occidental College in Eagle Rock. Booster assemblies were held at the High school today and no stone is being left unturned to fill the stands at Patterson field with Glendale rooters. In the meantime Hayhurst and his Dynamiters are working hard so that they may bring a victory to Glendale and play for the Southern California title next week.

"SO EASY"
Clutch Attachment for Chevrolet Cars
There is nothing so annoying or injurious as the constant grabbing of a clutch which has a tendency to loosen the mechanical parts from the radiator to the rear end and is extremely unpleasant to the ones riding in the car. After this grabbing has taken place for a short time there is a likihood of its tearing the whole rear end out, which is an unnecessary expense if you will only realize the clutch of any car needs occasional attention. You will have a smooth, easy but positive action thereby saving yourself expensive repair bills and make riding a pleasure as the SO EASY makes a good clutch better.

ART EDUCATION TODAY

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE
Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.
(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

Royal Bailey Farnum, principal of the Massachusetts Normal Art chool, has just completed a survey of the present status of art education in the United States. His report makes uncommonly interesting reading.

It makes hopeful reading too. Since 1920, Mr. Farnum finds, there has been a rapidly increasing appreciation of the importance of art in human affairs. In part at least he attributes this to various stimuli developing from the world war, such as the application of art to pageantry, to war memorials, to world production and trade.

And while, as a not unnatural consequence, there has been a special emphasis on utilitarian aspects of art, there has also been real progress in education in so-called "pure art" and esthetic appreciation. This is made very evident by answers received to a questionnaire sent out by Mr. Farnum to many art directors and supervisors.

For example, with regard to art education in the schools of Cambridge, Massachusetts, Alfred E. Burke reports:

"The ultimate aim of all our work is to develop in the minds of young people an appreciation of beauty anywhere and everywhere—whether it be in nature, historic art, the printed book, costume, or a manufactured article."

Director Kirby, of Pennsylvania, testifies:

"We have placed the emphasis during the past two years upon an extension of the art work in every section of the state. We hope that soon there will be no district, no matter how small, where the children do not have the opportunity to express themselves along art lines'.'

"I should say," reports Professor Dow, of Teachers college, New York City, "that the outstanding feature of our work has been toward appreciation of art on the part of the general public."

In Detroit schools, according to Alice V. Guysi, the chief features of art education today are education for appreciation, application of the project method to art instruction, and close cooperation with the Detroit Institute of Arts. In Baltimore the object held steadfastly in view is:

"That each student be given a sound basis of appreciation through the study of abstract forms of art, simultaneously with his training in representation."

Such as a few typical answer to Mr. Farnum's questionnaire. They lead him to the gratifying conclusion:

"While there has been a strong tendency everywhere to relate art and industry in education, at the same time the need for discriminating taste and appreciation is strongly felt."

And from another source than art schools comes unexpected evidence that already the emphasis on appreciation and taste is bearing good fruit.

Mr. Farnum relates that recently he sought to obtain in the five and ten cent stores of Boston a bad example of vase form. Unable to find one he wrote to the companies asking if it were possible that their public was displaying improved taste in the purchase of art objects.

The replies received, he states, show definitely that the trend is toward the more artistic shapes and simpler designs, with subdued and less ornate styles of decoration.

Which is eminently as it should be, and as it doubtless will increasingly be under the influence of the new spirit that has evidently come into art education.

BE THANKFUL FOR OUR BOYS AND THE Y. M. C. A.

The most important question before this community is: "what shall it do with boys?"

The future development of Glendale, together with the happiness of its homes depends largely upon the mental attainment, physical vigor, religious convictions and service ideals that are formed among its boys of today. The Glendale District Young Men's Christian Association, in co-operating with parents, teachers and pastors are training boys and young men for places of leadership and responsibility. No Young Men's Christian Association Building or equipment is being used in the promotion of its program, but the meetings are now being held in public buildings such as schools, churches, halls, and private homes.

This work is open to all young men and boys without regard to race or creed. Boys of the most difficult ages, from ten to eighteen years old are being reached and gripped through the high grade of leadership and program of activities such as summer camps, conferences, over-night hikes and camps, educational trips, Father and Son affairs, Mother and Son gatherings, athletic contests, clean speech campaigns, and many other like activities, practical talks are given by business and professional men on banking, law, health, choosing a life work, travel, etc. Group and athletic contests, helping the boys to play hard, work hard, to be clean minded and clean lived and willed, beyond all question having an excellent effect on their character building.

The program is divided into an older and younger boys division. The older boys work is known as the Hi-Y, which is a High School Young Men's Christian Association, abbreviated in title to the rather catchy name of Hi-Y. Its purpose is to create, maintain and extend ideals of Christian character. It accomplishes this purpose by means of seven recognized groups of High School boys who meet in regular weekly meetings with an adult Christian man leading in discussion of actual problems in daily living. These groups plan and participate in many projects that are of service in church, school, community and home. The Hi-Y seeks to develop amoung its members leadership in all worth while activities. Frequent conferences bring these young men together from various towns and districts training for greater usefulness. The Glendale District Young Men's Christian Association has for several years occupied a position of leadership in the state in its work among High School boys.

The pioneer work is a standarized detailed Christian program of activities for younger boys paralleling the Hi-Y program which is for the older boys. Its aim is to bring the boys to an all around development. Credit is given for tests passed in service, physical, intellectual, and devotion divisions with an opportunity for promotions each month. Work in school, good reading, personal habits, group and team camps, wood-craft, church and home loyalty, bible study, definite service tasks for others, thrift, and many other activities are included.

There are twenty such groups organized in this district, each one under the leadership of a christian young man who by his friendship and experience and training is well fitted for the job.

The Pioneer program is also a part of the State and National Movement conducted under the Young Men't Christian Association and Church auspices.

The men who are directing the work here in Glendale are: Rev. C. Kelley—General Secretary, and the following members of the Executive Committee: David Black, chairman; C. D. Lusby, treasurer; C. W. Ingledue, H. L. Finlay, W. F. Tower, J. S. Thompson, P. H. Arnold, T. E. Stevenson, T. E. McGuire.

Finally the thing I am thankful for is that the people of Glendale are interested enough in their boys and have such a program available for them, and that they support it with their time and money.

Ancients of old Egypt quarried and transported larger blocks of stone than any cut in modern times.

THE GARDEN

There is a time when flowers grow,
The flowers of memory,
Between the twilight and the dark,
And always I can see
Within the garden of my dreams,
Where all is beauty fair,
Beyond the sun's last dying beams,
The flowers nodding there.

And by each bright and fragrant spot
Where flowers nod and bloom,
There is the blue forget-me-not;
And all the rare perfume
And fragrance of the days gone by
Comes back again to me,
And there's a tear shines in my eye
When I look there and see.

The blue forget-me-not—I hear
The songs of other days,
And there is music on my ear
That recollection plays;
And many a hand I clasp again,
And many a voice of old
Comes whispering a greeting then,
And some old tale retold.

There is a garden of my dreams,
Where flowers of memory grow,
Beyond the sun's last dying beams,
When all the lights are low.
And I can wander often through
That well-beloved spot,
And pluck and offer then to you
That blue forget-me-not.

AT THE THEATRES

"MONNA VANNA" LAST SHOWINGS AT THE GLENDALE

"Monna Vanna" which Maurice Maeterlinck, the Belgian authorpoet, wrote in 1909 was acclaimed by international critics as a literary masterpiece of the highest order. And "Monna Vanna," presented on the screen of the Glendale Theatre for the last times today, reaches a similar position in the art of the photoplay.

The picture version of the famous author's story is characterized by an adequacy uncommon in elaborate productions of its type.

Director and producer have assembled a cast of brilliant talents, and, supported by a story of absorbing interest and vitality, they display the finest histrionic suppression of emotion and perseverence this reviewer has ever witnessed.

Too much cannot be said for excellence of the film translation of the powerful story. The many pitfalls that beset those who venture the transfer of a master's art to the screen seem to have been but stepping stones to a higher success for the daring men who made "Monna Vanna."

BIGGEST CAST ON RECORD AT THE GATEWAY

There have been claims made as to the biffest cast ever assembled for a picture; the most gigantic set ever built for a production; the largest number of people ever gathered for one scene. But it is left to Buster Keaton, whose first six-reel Metro feature comedy-drama, "Three Ages," is coming to the Glendale Theatre today to boast that he has gathered the heaviest cast in the annals of the cinema.

Wallace Beery, who plays a leading role in "Three Ages," weighs over 225 pounds. Joe Roberts weighs 340 pounds. "Cupid" Morgan, 350 pounds, to say nothing of the other members of the cast. Buster Keaton, a mere infant alongside of these physical giants, weighs 125 pounds.

"Three Ages" was directed by Keaton and Eddie Cline from the story by Jean Haver, Joe Mitchell and Clyde Bruckman. "Three Ages" is a Joseph M. Schenck presentation through Metro.

THE BEST EVER IS PROGRAM TODAY AT T. D. & L. THEATRE

The vaudeville being featured at the T. D. & L. today and tomorrow is one of the best programs ever brought to Glendale, booked especially for the holidays by J. C. Albright, local manager. There are five top-notch acts, headlined by Brownlee's Hickville Follies, a rube musical comedy offering abounding in mirth. Wilson and Wilson present "The Bandsman and his Band," a novelty act which is bound to please. Pat Ellis, comedian and singer, offers several songs and stories of his own origin, and Fawnette, called "a riot of dusky laughter," has been a headline act on several large circuits throughout the United States. The program is rounded out by Helen and Ruth Sayre, residents of Glendale, in an offering of "Gone are the Days." This act uses Glendale as the home town, and is an exceedingly beautiful act.

In addition to the vaudeville, the regular picture program will be offered. "Slave of Desire" is the feature picture, with a good comedy and news completing the program.

MANY REASONS FOR GRATITUDE, SAYS L. H. WILSON

By L. H. Wilson, President of the San Fernando Boulevard Improvement Association.

The people of Glendale and especially those who are members of the San Fernando Boulevard Improvement association have all kinds of reasons to be thankful this Thanksgiving day. In the first place we are thankful for the many blessings, both spiritual and temperal, that have been bestowed upon us during the past year. In every way the past year has been the best and the most prosperous this city has ever known, and the prospects are that the coming twelve months will be filled with progress and prosperity. Along all lines, is there a city in the United States that has so much reason for giving thanks to the All Powerful Leader for his guidance and direction during the years that have gone, than has this city?

We are thankful for an organization, every member of which is working hand in hand for the development of the section it represents. There is not a discenting voice—every man and woman is pulling at the load with every ounce of strength he or she possesse. There are no black sheep in our body—every member is a "good scout."

We are thankful for the fact that during the past year $300,000 worth of building has been done on San Fernando road, this including 25 modern structures. Also that the widening of San Fernando road from Los Feliz to Los Angeles street, to 86 feet is assured, and that petitions are now being circulated for the widening of this boulevard from Los Feliz to the southerly city limits, and from Los Angeles street to the northerly city limits. It is practically a certainty that the widening of these stretches will be ordered.

We are thankful for the rapid increase in property values along San Fernando road and in the immediate vicinity. We have been working for industries and we are thankful that we have been able to locate quite a few of them in this section. The same may be said about stores and other business places. In every line San Fernando road has advanced—and the progress has just started.

Generally speaking, our blessings have been many and varied. There has been nothing to throw a cloud on our sky of advancement.

We have grown wonderfully in the past, but from now on watch our smoke.

WILD DOGS DO NOT BARK

Wild dogs do not bark. Some of them have curious little cries, but the bark is a development of the canine in captivity. The wild dog usually runs in packs like the wolf. As a rule wild dogs also hold their tails and ears erect but are unpleasant creatures when compared to the domesticated canines.

BOY SCOUTS TO GIVE THANKS BY HELPING NEEDY

To HARVEY R. CHEESMAN
Executive of the Verdugo Hills District Council, of the Boy Scouts.

Thanksgiving time will be a busy one for the Boy Scouts of Glendale. Every troop is actively planning Thanksginving and Christmass good turns. Baskets of good things will be distributed to needy families by some troops while others are collecting all the old toys they can find. These toys will be made over and fixed up to be given by the troop to poor children at Christmas time. Every Boy Scout pledges on his honor to do at least one good turn to some one each day. At Thanksgiving and Christmas time troops also do special good turns.

Every Boy Scout in Glendale feels not only thankful but proud this Thanksgiving, of his troop. All the troops have grown and prospered this last year to an exceptional extent. Troop 1 under the leadership of Scoutmaster Hal E. Leedom and Asst. Scoutmaster Louis Wilson was never in better condition, with practically a full troop membership. This is the oldest troop in Glendale. Troop meetings are held at the Glendale Avenue Intermediate School Friday evenings at 7:00 p. m.

Troop 2 is doing fine work under their new Scoutmaster, Mr. Kenneth M. Payne. The troop has a large membership and is sponsered by the First Congregational church The boys meet at their fine new troop headquarters room at the church at 7:00 p. m., Friday evenings.

Troop 3 with W. L. Walker as Scoutmaster has developed this last year from a small struggling troop to one of the largest in Glendale. The troop meets Friday evenings at 7:00 p. m. at the High School gymnasium.

Troop 4, sponsored by Glendale Post 127, American Legion, meets every Wednesday evening at 7:00 p.m. at the American Legion Hall.

Scoutmaster H. B. Lockwood and Asst. Scoutmaster Nelson Dick have a large group of boys who are surely doing things.

Several other troops will soon be organized in Glendale.

Many splendid camping trips have been enjoyed during the year by the scouts. Last Christmas the boys made a big excursion up into the snow on Old Baldy. Summer found the scouts under canvas in the heart of the San Bernardino mountains while many other troop camps and overnight trips have contributed to the cause of character development and citizenship training the objectives of the Boy Scout program.

Nationally the Boy Scouts have a great deal to be thankful for. The Rockefeller Foundation gave the national Headquarters 100,000.00 for the purpose o developing the finest story magazine in the world for boys. This 65 page magazine called Boys Life is now on the market at $2.00 can now be had by all Boy Scouts. The $100,000.00 is being used in securing the finest boys story writers in the country. The magazine costs $2.00 per year, all of which goes back into publication, no profit being made. The object is to provide good wholesome reading for all boys everywhere.

WATER MAINS NOW BEING LAID

BROWN'S COMALT FAST BECOMING NATIONAL DRINK

The remarkable growth of Glendale from every standpoint has recently aroused considerable interest in the present and future possibilities of this city as a manufacturing and distributing center. A splendid example of wonderful growth and expansion along this line is emphasized in the plant of the S. W. Brown Company., Inc., manufacturers of high-grade soft drinks. Starting some time ago, and running on a small basis, the company has built up a tremendous business, making the enlargement of the plant on Los Feliz road an absolute necessity. The latest addition to the line of drinks is "Comalt," a complete chocolate malted milk put up in bottles, this being sold all over the United States.

At a recent convention of the National Bottlers' Association, held at Providence, R. I., the local firm was well represented, demonstrating the wonderful possibilities of Comalt. This received the hearty support of every bottler of note in the country, all of whom strongly indorsed it. This means that this Glendale product, made in Glendale, by Glendale people, is known all over the country as a revelation in soft drinks. It means the bringing of thousands of dollars to this city and the advertising derived from it is of equal benefit to the city.

According to a newspaper of Baltimore, Md., the local plant is the most complete of its kind on the Pacific coast. Thousands of dollars have been spent on modern machinery, which does away with handling of bottles. To insure absolute cleanliness, the bottle is not touched by human hands from the time it enters the massive sterilizer until it goes through the filler, the capper, and is labeled.

The machinery for the manufacture of Comalt is decidedly modern. A large cooker, holding 500 gallons, is in connection with a huge mixer, from which the mixed products come into this large vat to be cooked into Comalt. Only the highest grade materials are used in its manufacture, pure cane sugar being one asset. A great feature of the finished product is the fact that it will keep indefinitely, climatic changes having no effect on the wonderful flavor, which lasts until used.

The demand for this drink has been so great during its short time of existance, that work is now under way at the plant for the installation of three more cookers, which will give the firm a capactiy of several carloads a day. The syrup is barreled in fifty-one gallon containers for shipment.

The great popularity of Comalt has spread to the household, where it is indispensible in the making of fine cakes, pies, candy and for flavoring purposes. Many Glendale housewives keep a generous supply on hand, as it is nutritious and wholesome as well as having a good taste.

The company now has twenty persons on the payroll and owns ten large trucks, used in the delivery of their products throughout Southern California. Regular trips are made as far north as Santa Barbara, making a complete delivery service, both wholesale and retail. The beverages of the S. W. Brown company are sold exclusively at the new Glendale ball park, which opened last week. It is truly a Glendale organization, employing Glendale people and boosting for the advancement of this city.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public to visit the plant at any time and see the high-class machinery in operation, and also see jus how the celebrated Green Hill and Comalt beverages are manufactured, all under strict food laws. The cleanliness of the entire plant at all times will impress you and the realization that this enterprising Glendale factory is one of the most up-to-date of its kind in the west will come to you after a visit.
